StateCrimeProbe Ends at Catskill

Catskill, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—The State Crime Commission will end today the preliminary phase of its investigation into gambling and other vice in Columbia county.

H. Bartow Farr, Jr., assistant commission counsel, planned to question two more Hudson policemen today. He has talked with Police Chief John Sullivan and 14 others on the force.

Farr said that next week he would study testimony taken since the probe opened Aug. 28. Additional witnesses will be called the following week if necessary, he said.

Uptown Business To Discuss Lights

Also, Idea Is Proposed to Change Name of Organization

Christmas lighting and the possibility of changing the name of the Uptown Business Men's Association are two items to be discussed at a meeting of members of that organization at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday, September 25, according to Jay Melton, president of the group.

At the meeting, which will be held in the Standard Furniture Company store on Fair street, a proposal will be made to change the name of the Uptown Business Men's Association to the Kingston Merchants Association, Melton revealed.

The proposal is part of the trend toward the abolition of small regional designations of merchants groups by names that tend to emphasize the isolated status of the groups, it was explained.

Plans for street lighting during the Christmas season will be developed at the meeting. This year's chairman will be John Melvin, assistant manager at the local Montgomery Ward and Company store.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—The position of the treasury Sept. 19: Net budget receipts, $635,627,554.51; budget expenditures, $183,770,314.83; cash balance, $5,312,510,706.56; customs receipts for month, $26,746,758.18; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $9,299,983,874.37; budget expenditures fiscal year, $13,145,472,936.22; budget deficit, $3,845,489,061.85; total debt, $256,797,493,844.33; increase over previous day, $30,625,02557; gold assets, $21,933,727,825.98.

Fight Is Foreseen

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) today predicted a bitter Senate fight over committee-approved changes in the Capehart amendment to the price control law. The Senate Banking Committee voted 9 to 4 yesterday to revise the provision, which requires that price ceilings reflect sellers' increased costs from the start of the Korean war to last July 26.

Would End Dispute

Paducah, Ky., Sept. 21 (AP)—Steps were reported being taken today to end a dispute which halted work on the Paducah atomic plant. About 1,000 workers are idle. Work was suspended yesterday after AFL-Sheet Metal Workers set up a picket line demanding travel and subsistence pay.

Senator Wicks Says Expansion Is Needed Badly in County

The campaign to raise $600,000 for the Benedictine Hospital got under way last night with glowing tributes from civic leaders and a substantial donation of $30,000 from the banks of Kingston.

More than 150 leaders in the drive for soliciting throughout the county of Ulster attended the kick-off dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel, where enthusiasm and inspiration abounded.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, co-chairman of the campaign, and featured speaker at the dinner meeting said, "We are assured that we have enlisted in a good and noble cause. An expansion of the hospital is desperately needed to meet the medical needs of the people of Ulster county . . .

"The patient load at the Benedictine has more than doubled and births at the hospital have tripled since 1930."

'Something for Ourselves'

Former Surrogate Judge George F. Kaufman said in his talk, "In an important sense we are not being asked to do anything for the Benedictine Hospital. In reality we are being asked to do something for ourselves as members of the community served and protected by the Benedictine Hospital . . .

"When a community demands increased service of a hospital, the hospital has no alternative other than to ask the community itself to provide the facilities for that service."

Kaufman headed a campaign in 1945 to raise $250,000 for the hospital, which, he pointed out "during the last 50 years has never been and is not now restricted to any creed, sect or denomination. In all those years no Protestant, Jew or Catholic has ever been turned from its doors. None ever will be."

Others Introduced

Other speakers introduced by Attorney Roger H. Loughran, toastmaster, were James A. Dwyer, local business man and banker, who welcomed the assemblage; and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who called the hospital an important institution of the community, and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, president of the board of directors of the Benedictine, who opened the meeting with prayer.

Oil Expert Hints At Gasoline, Oil Rations in Winter

Brown Indicates Need for More Output to Safeguard Defenses

Jennings, La., Sept. 21 (AP)—The U. S. government's top oil expert hinted broadly today that gasoline and oil rationing may be necessary next winter unless petroleum output is increased.

Bruce K. Brown, deputy administrator of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, also warned that free-nation defenses may collapse unless petroleum production is hiked.

In a prepared address, Brown said that if the oil industry is denied the steel it needs for expansion, "it is only a question of time before there will be a new wave of protests from automobile owners and home owners heating with oil."

"That conclusion is not a happy one with all its implications of rationing, but it is inescapable," he added.

Brown, a speaker at Louisiana's celebration of the 50th anniversary of its oil industry, said oil production must be increased "not just here, but in every friendly nation in the world."

"The alternative could all too easily be a collapse of the closely intertwined defense of the free world," he said.

Hurley Fire Calls Will Be Made to Central Station

Beginning today all fire calls for Fire District No. 1, Hurley, will be made directly to the Central Fire Station, Kingston.

This means that any resident who wishes to report a fire can obtain immediate response by saying simply to the telephone operator, "I want to report a fire in Hurley." The call will be relayed to the Central Fire Station, where the dispatcher will note the location and then touch off the Hurley fire siren.

Once the siren has been opened by the Kingston Central Fire Station dispatcher, it will continue to sound until the telephone is answered at the Hurley firehouse and the location of the fire is learned from the Kingston firemen.

The new plan has been put into effect by the board of fire commissioners of Hurley to give improved service to the district. Dispatchers at Kingston are on 24-hour duty.

The announcement was made by Edmund Czerwinski of Hurley, president of the fire board.

Peiping Radio Is Quiet, Also; Hope Is High in Tokyo That Talks Will Resume

Indication Lacking

When General Will Give Reply Is Uncertain, Is Report

Tokyo, Sept. 21 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway withheld his answer today to a Communist proposal to resume the Korean truce talks as Kaesong.

The battle of words over how to get the wheels of peace revolving again was muted.

Even Red China's Peiping radio—the Communist sounding board that pours out tens of thousands of words each day in anti-United Nations command propaganda—was notably silent.

There was only a dribble of hashed-over complaints of Kaesong neutrality violations where torrents used to flow.

Meanwhile, hope rode high in Tokyo and at the advance UN command camp near Munsan that the truce talks would be reopened despite Ridgway's silence and the rising crescendo of action along the battle-front.

No Definite Indication

There still was no definite indication when the supreme allied commmander would answer the message of yesterday from the Red leaders, North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

The Communist strategists suggested "immediate" resumption of the peace discussions they broke off 29 days ago on charges of allied air and ground violations of the restricted zone around Kaesong.

The Reds want liason officers of both sides to meet and fix a time for reopening the conferences. They hope to discuss at this first session a plan for guaranteeing the neutrality of Kaesong and settling differences over previously charged violations of the conference site.

Still Awaits Word

A spokesman in Ridgway's public information office said he was still awaiting word that the commander in chief has begun drafting his answer. The answer was expected in 24 to 48 hours.

Ridgway's delay may be for psychological reasons. He may want to let the Communists sweat it out a few days before giving the UN command reply.

The Communists were the ones who suspended the talks. Now they have done a complete turn and are ready to talk again despite outstanding disagreements they previously were not willing to overlook.

There appeared to be little doubt that Ridgway would be agreeable to beginning peace talks again—but he may seek to impose conditions of his own before sending the UN command delegation back to Kaesong.

Senator Says Economy Can Stand Burden of New, Big Tax Load

Minnesota Democrat Continues His Campaign for at Least Nine Billions in Levies—Millikin Hits With Heavy Sarcasm

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Humphrey (D.-Minn.) said today the nation's economy is "strong enough to sustain the burden" of a big tax load.

The Minnesota Democrat was continuing his fight on the Senate floor for at least $9,000,000,000 in new taxes. The Senate Finance Committee, headed by Sen. George (D.-Ga.), has recommended tax increases totalling about $5,506,000,000. President Truman and administration supporters contend this is not enough to check inflation and have urged up to $10,000,000,000 in new taxes.

Humphrey, who yesterday argued seven hours for bigger taxes, drew a sharp but good humored retort from Senator Millikin (R.-Colo.) Millikin asserted the nation is facing a deficit of $20,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000 in the fiscal year starting next July when defense spending is scheduled to hit a peak.

The budget could not be balanced then, he contended, even with a federal sales tax or by taking "every penny of income of those in the high brackets."

Humphrey said he knew "these are not happy days" and that the tax burden is severe.

But he said he did not believe, either, the contention of some members of the Finance Committee that "the country is going to the dogs" and can not stand more taxes.

Encouraged in Views

He said he was encouraged in his views by these facts:

1. Corporation profits in the first quarter of 1951 were at the all-time peak annual level of $23,000,000,000 after taxes.

2. The Federal Reserve Board has just revealed that in the second quarter of 1951 savings by individuals were at the peacetime record of $21,000,000,000 a year.

PVT. CHARLES MILLER

Word has been received in Kingston by Mr. and Mrs. David E. Miller of 202 Broadway that their son, Pvt. Charles D. Miller, who was a member of the 33rd Tank Battalion, was killed in action in Korea August 30.

The telegram notifying Mr. and Mrs. Miller of their son's death was signed by Major General William E. Bergin of the Adjutant General's office.

Wounded twice in action, Pvt. Miller enlisted for army service from the local recruiting office in November, 1949. He was wounded in August, 1950 and again June of this year.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Leonard and James Miller; and two sisters, Grace and Lillian Miller.

Police Bigwigs May Feel Impact

McDonald Says Grand Jury Not Discouraged by Outcome of Trial

By ROBERT FARRINGTON

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—The state decided today to reveal details, gathered in secret grand jury sessions, of its case against 18 policemen accused of accepting bribes.

The case fell apart Wednesday when the star witness, bookie Harry Gross, abruptly switched sides, and refused to testify.

Kings county Judge Samuel S. Liebowitz announced today at a news conference in his chambers that a summary of testimony Gross gave the grand jury about the indicted policemen would be read in open court Thursday.

This will be in Special Sessions Court, where Gross is scheduled to be sentenced for gambling charges on that date. The gambler purportedly paid off policemen at the rate of a million dollars a year to protect his huge bookmaking business.

May Hit Brass

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—High police brass may feel the impact of the cop graft scandal as the Brooklyn rackets-probing grand jury swings back into action today.

Kings County District Attorney Miles F. McDonald, recovered from the shock of boss bookie Harry Gross' sabotage of the mass police graft trial, said yesterday the grand jury was far from discouraged.

The panel, he said, was going ahead with some "very special business" which might produce court action today.

McDonald would not disclose what he had in mind, but reports persisted that authorities were pressing for a showdown with police brass who allegedly condoned protection tieups between police and gamblers.

The prosecutor quoted one member of the holdover grand jury as saying:

"If the brains of evil people can devise this plot, the brains of decent people can find a way to combat them."

The 35-year-old Gross was to have been the state's star witness against 18 retired or suspended cops accused of shielding Gross' $20,000,000-a-year bookie ring to the tune of a million dollars "take" annually.

Gross "cooperated" with the prosecution until the legal chips were down in Kings County Court Tuesday and Wednesday. Then he

Keresman Assails Unionization Move As Bad for Police

New York City Association Votes to Expel Any Who Join Quill or Others

Unionization is not the answer to unrest among policemen in the state over pay and working conditions, Peter J. Keresman, of this city, executive secretary of the Police Conference of New York state declared yesterday in support of moves to thwart efforts of Michael J. Quill, labor organizer, to make headway with state police officers.

Keresman's statement backed action yesterday at the state police camp near Tannersville in which the New York City Patrolmen's Benevolent Association voted to expel any member joining Quill's CIO Transport Workers Union or any other "dual organization."

Quill was scheduled to start efforts at Buffalo this week to attempt recruiting for his union there. It could not be determined in Kingston whether Quill had made any overtures for consideration of his unionizing effort by local patrolmen.

No Local Comment

A spokesman for the Kingston Patrolmen's Association said he had no comment when asked if Quill had attempted to make any contacts here.

The resolution offered at Tannersville was adopted unanimously by 400 delegates to the New York PBA's 57th annual meeting. The association says it represents 17,629 New York policemen.

In support of this action Keresman said unionization would not be the answer to "a statewide smouldering of resentment," over pay and working conditions, and he urged conference members to press the legislature again for a 40-hour week for policemen. The conference claims 40,000 members in 191 municipalities.

PBA President John E. Carton, who also heads the police conference, said the PBA resolution provided that: "Any policeman of New York city who is a member of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association who becomes affiliated with any union or dual organization shall automatically forfeit membership in the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association."

No Explanation Given

He did not explain the term "dual organization."

The delegates met at the New York city police department's recreation center in this Greene county community.

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan of New York city spoke

Tanks, Men Stage Raid Upon Reds

Tanks, Infantry Push Deep Into Valley Where Foe Centers Its Troops

Fake Is Tried

Korean Reds Pounded After False Move to Surrender

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 21 (AP)—Allied tanks and infantry crashed into the apex of the old Communist iron triangle on Korea's central front today in perhaps the heaviest armored blow of the war.

Elements of three United Nations divisions powered the mighty assault.

A field dispatch said the giant task force late Friday completed its first day objective. The mission: To seek out Communist strong points and shoot up every target in sight.

The assault force rolled deep into the broad valley massing area before it ran into firm resistance.

"The boys are beginning to have a little trouble," an allied officer said.

Front line reports said one spearhead was locked in savage combat with Red troops swarming on all sides.

Overhead, allied warplanes darkened the skies.

'Operation Cleaver'

The thrust was dubbed "operation cleaver." But it was not officially labeled an offensive. Rather, it was an armored raid.

Pyonggang, apex of the triangle which also is bounded by the key cities of Chorwon on the southwest and Kumhwa on the southeast, is 29 miles north of Parallel 38.

Bitter fighting flared across 80 miles of the Korean front, all the way from the triangle area eastward to the Sea of Japan.

On the east-central front the Reds hurled fresh troops into the bloody "battle of the hills." They stopped the month-old allied advance in its tracks.

Only local patrol clashes were reported from the western front.

Eleven times UN infantry stormed the spiny ridges of the east. Eleven times they were thrown back. It was the strongest Communist stand in months.

200 Reds Pull Fake

Early Friday 200 armed Korean Reds tried to enter Allied lines with a fake offer to surrender. When their ruse became apparent, UN artillery and warplanes opened up on them.

At least 50 Reds were killed by the artillery. Pilots said they couldn't estimate casualties from the air strikes, because the North Koreans took refuge in thick foliage. But the air force reported "80 to 90 per cent coverage" of the area where the Reds sought cover.

Ten miles away 22 Korean Reds did surrender. The group, stunned by constant pounding from the air, laid down their arms and crossed the lines with their hands held high.

"Operation Cleaver" kicked off at dawn Friday. Armored spearheads ranged out ahead with the infantry right behind to mop up.

New Phase of War

It was a new phase of the Korean war. Until now, save for the Naktong breakthrough last fall, armored operations have been comparatively small.

This newest armored thrust recalled the raids of Rommel and Montgomery in the African desert and the horse cavalry sweeps of Jeb Stuart and Phil Sheridan in the war between the states.

Anything Communist was a target — troops, command posts, supplies, gun positions and fortifications.

Most of the armor-tipped prongs reported fairly easy going. The heaviest fighting involved one of the most famous tank outfits in Korea. Censors banned its identification. Far behind the front, allied aircraft smashed hard at Red airfields, rail yards, rolling stock and supply lines.

Allied fighter-bombers destroyed seven T-34 Russian-built tanks and damaged two others in

Eight Are Killed In British Wreck

U. S. Air Force Corporal Is Among Dead—45 Are Injured

Weedon, Eng., Sept. 21 (AP)—A speeding express train jumped the tracks here today, smashing five coaches and killing at least eight persons, including an unidentified U. S. Air Force corporal.

Another 45 passengers on the 15-coach train, bound from Liverpool to London, were injured.

Hours after the crash, police and British Army rescue workers were still combing the wreckage for possible further casualties. Earlier police had said 20 persons were killed.

The accident occurred as the train was leaving Stowe Hill tunnel, half a mile south of here on the main London-Liverpool line.

The locomotive plunged down a steep embankment. Five of the leading coaches piled up, badly smashing the first two.

The engineer, buried under tons of coal which slid from the tender,

Taft Declares Proposals On Farm Subsidies Fraud

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said today Truman administration farm subsidy proposals are a "fraud" to promise high prices to farmers and low prices to consumers.

The Ohio senator said in a speech prepared for a cooperative power plant dedication here that farmers are entitled to support prices just as much as laborers are to minimum wages.

But Taft assailed the Brannan farm subsidy payment plan which congress has rejected, without directly naming it. The Brannan plan, named for the secretary of agriculture, called for subsidies to farmers to make up the difference between the amount they received for perishable commodities in the open market and a predetermined "farm price."

"I have always thought this subsidy business was a fraud," Taft declared. "It enables an administration to promise a farmer high prices and a consumer low prices at the same time.

"The idea is that the difference is charged to the taxpayers, but in the long run the consumer and the farmer pay most of the taxes and so they really do not get the benefits which are promised them. In fact, they get a bill for the benefits almost before they receive them."

Taft's Grand Forks talk was billed in advance by his aides as a major farm address. The Ohioan has said he won't decide until later in the year whether he will actively seek the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

Taft said he regards minimum price supports for any commodity as generally inconsistent with the free price competitive system, but he added he believes "special considerations justify a farm price

Postal Employes and Other Workers to Get About $400 More Yearly in Pay Envelopes

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—More than a million and a half postal employes and government white collar workers can each look forward today to around $400 a year more in their pay envelopes from now on.

Three pay increase bills retroactive to July 1 and totaling $670,000,000 annually were shouted through by the House in rapid-fire order late yesterday.

The Senate had approved almost similar measures earlier—one of the biggest pay boosts ever given federal employes at one time—and a Senate-House compromise committee now must iron out the differences.

The big salary hike even had the House talking about more money for its own members, now getting $15,000 a year in salary and expenses.

Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts told the House he hoped that before the next session ends 15 months from now, Congress would have "the courage" to vote its members $25,000 a year. Members applauded.

McCormack said the present pay of senators and representatives is "unfortunate" and he thought their constituents favored more money for hard-working congressmen.

The pay increases voted yesterday were to help government workers—especially those in the lower pay brackets—offset the rising cost of living.

About 500,000 employes of the postal field service get the basic $400 pay boost, although new employes entering the postal service will get as much as $700.

Postmasters of small fourth-class postoffices would get a 20 per cent increase in their salary. Hour employes would get 20 cents an hour more.

In another bill, the House also voted salary boosts aggregating $16,900,000 to the nation's 42,000 postmasters and 26,000 postal supervisors.

Principal difference in the House and Senate postal bills is that the Senate voted a $400 floor and an $800 ceiling, while the House provided a basic increase of only $400.

The House then voted $417,445,000 a year in increases for approximately 1,043,614 employes of the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government.

Legislative employes — those working for Congress—got a special break. The House adopted an amendment by Rep. Sutton (D.-Tenn.) giving them a pay boost of ten per cent or $400, whichever was the higher, with a top of $800.

The Senate bill for non-postal employes provides a ten per cent increase and an $800 maximum for all.

About 995,000 of the non-postal service workers covered by the increase are civil service employes. The remainder are employed by federal courts, Congress, the Veterans Administration department of medicine and surgery, and the foreign service.

Christmas lighting and the possibility of changing the name of the Uptown Business Men's Association are two items to be discussed at a meeting of members of that organization at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday, September 25, according to Jay Melton, president of the group.

At the meeting, which will be held in the Standard Furniture Company store on Fair street, a proposal will be made to change the name of the Uptown Business Men's Association to the Kingston Merchants Association, Melton revealed.

The proposal is part of the trend toward the abolition of small regional designations of merchants groups by names that tend to emphasize the isolated status of the groups, it was explained.

Meanwhile, hope rode high in Tokyo and at the advance UN command camp near Munsan that the truce talks would be reopened despite Ridgway's silence and the rising crescendo of action along the battle-front.

No Definite Indication

There still was no definite indication when the supreme allied commmander would answer the message of yesterday from the Red leaders, North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

The Communist strategists suggested "immediate" resumption of the peace discussions they broke off 29 days ago on charges of allied air and ground violations of the restricted zone around Kaesong.

The Reds want liason officers of both sides to meet and fix a time for reopening the conferences. They hope to discuss at this first session a plan for guaranteeing the neutrality of Kaesong and settling differences over previously charged violations of the conference site.

Still Awaits Word

A spokesman in Ridgway's public information office said he was still awaiting word that the commander in chief has begun drafting his answer. The answer was expected in 24 to 48 hours.

Ridgway's delay may be for psychological reasons. He may want to let the Communists sweat it out a few days before giving the UN command reply.

The Communists were the ones who suspended the talks. Now they have done a complete turn and are ready to talk again despite outstanding disagreements they previously were not willing to overlook.

There appeared to be little doubt that Ridgway would be agreeable to beginning peace talks again—but he may seek to impose conditions of his own before sending the UN command delegation back to Kaesong.

Senator Says Economy Can Stand Burden of New, Big Tax Load

Minnesota Democrat Continues His Campaign for at Least Nine Billions in Levies—Millikin Hits With Heavy Sarcasm

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Humphrey (D.-Minn.) said today the nation's economy is "strong enough to sustain the burden" of a big tax load.

The Minnesota Democrat was continuing his fight on the Senate floor for at least $9,000,000,000 in new taxes. The Senate Finance Committee, headed by Sen. George (D.-Ga.), has recommended tax increases totalling about $5,506,000,000. President Truman and administration supporters contend this is not enough to check inflation and have urged up to $10,000,000,000 in new taxes.

Humphrey, who yesterday argued seven hours for bigger taxes, drew a sharp but good humored retort from Senator Millikin (R.-Colo.) Millikin asserted the nation is facing a deficit of $20,000,000,000 to $30,000,000,000 in the fiscal year starting next July when defense spending is scheduled to hit a peak.

The budget could not be balanced then, he contended, even with a federal sales tax or by taking "every penny of income of those in the high brackets."

Humphrey said he knew "these are not happy days" and that the tax burden is severe.

But he said he did not believe, either, the contention of some members of the Finance Committee that "the country is going to the dogs" and can not stand more taxes.

McDonald Says Grand Jury Not Discouraged by Outcome of Trial

By ROBERT FARRINGTON

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—The state decided today to reveal details, gathered in secret grand jury sessions, of its case against 18 policemen accused of accepting bribes.

The case fell apart Wednesday when the star witness, bookie Harry Gross, abruptly switched sides, and refused to testify.

Kings county Judge Samuel S. Liebowitz announced today at a news conference in his chambers that a summary of testimony Gross gave the grand jury about the indicted policemen would be read in open court Thursday.

This will be in Special Sessions Court, where Gross is scheduled to be sentenced for gambling charges on that date. The gambler purportedly paid off policemen at the rate of a million dollars a year to protect his huge bookmaking business.

May Hit Brass

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—High police brass may feel the impact of the cop graft scandal as the Brooklyn rackets-probing grand jury swings back into action today.

Kings County District Attorney Miles F. McDonald, recovered from the shock of boss bookie Harry Gross' sabotage of the mass police graft trial, said yesterday the grand jury was far from discouraged.

The panel, he said, was going ahead with some "very special business" which might produce court action today.

McDonald would not disclose what he had in mind, but reports persisted that authorities were pressing for a showdown with police brass who allegedly condoned protection tieups between police and gamblers.

The prosecutor quoted one member of the holdover grand jury as saying:

"If the brains of evil people can devise this plot, the brains of decent people can find a way to combat them."

The 35-year-old Gross was to have been the state's star witness against 18 retired or suspended cops accused of shielding Gross' $20,000,000-a-year bookie ring to the tune of a million dollars "take" annually.

Gross "cooperated" with the prosecution until the legal chips were down in Kings County Court Tuesday and Wednesday. Then he

New York City Association Votes to Expel Any Who Join Quill or Others

Unionization is not the answer to unrest among policemen in the state over pay and working conditions, Peter J. Keresman, of this city, executive secretary of the Police Conference of New York state declared yesterday in support of moves to thwart efforts of Michael J. Quill, labor organizer, to make headway with state police officers.

Keresman's statement backed action yesterday at the state police camp near Tannersville in which the New York City Patrolmen's Benevolent Association voted to expel any member joining Quill's CIO Transport Workers Union or any other "dual organization."

Quill was scheduled to start efforts at Buffalo this week to attempt recruiting for his union there. It could not be determined in Kingston whether Quill had made any overtures for consideration of his unionizing effort by local patrolmen.

No Local Comment

A spokesman for the Kingston Patrolmen's Association said he had no comment when asked if Quill had attempted to make any contacts here.

The resolution offered at Tannersville was adopted unanimously by 400 delegates to the New York PBA's 57th annual meeting. The association says it represents 17,629 New York policemen.

In support of this action Keresman said unionization would not be the answer to "a statewide smouldering of resentment," over pay and working conditions, and he urged conference members to press the legislature again for a 40-hour week for policemen. The conference claims 40,000 members in 191 municipalities.

PBA President John E. Carton, who also heads the police conference, said the PBA resolution provided that: "Any policeman of New York city who is a member of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association who becomes affiliated with any union or dual organization shall automatically forfeit membership in the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association."

He did not explain the term "dual organization."

Tanks, Men Stage Raid Upon Reds

Fake Is Tried

Korean Reds Pounded After False Move to Surrender

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 21 (AP)—Allied tanks and infantry crashed into the apex of the old Communist iron triangle on Korea's central front today in perhaps the heaviest armored blow of the war.

Elements of three United Nations divisions powered the mighty assault.

A field dispatch said the giant task force late Friday completed its first day objective. The mission: To seek out Communist strong points and shoot up every target in sight.

The assault force rolled deep into the broad valley massing area before it ran into firm resistance.

"The boys are beginning to have a little trouble," an allied officer said.

Front line reports said one spearhead was locked in savage combat with Red troops swarming on all sides.

Overhead, allied warplanes darkened the skies.

'Operation Cleaver'

The thrust was dubbed "operation cleaver." But it was not officially labeled an offensive. Rather, it was an armored raid.

Pyonggang, apex of the triangle which also is bounded by the key cities of Chorwon on the southwest and Kumhwa on the southeast, is 29 miles north of Parallel 38.

Bitter fighting flared across 80 miles of the Korean front, all the way from the triangle area eastward to the Sea of Japan.

On the east-central front the Reds hurled fresh troops into the bloody "battle of the hills." They stopped the month-old allied advance in its tracks.

Only local patrol clashes were reported from the western front.

Eleven times UN infantry stormed the spiny ridges of the east. Eleven times they were thrown back. It was the strongest Communist stand in months.

200 Reds Pull Fake

Early Friday 200 armed Korean Reds tried to enter Allied lines with a fake offer to surrender. When their ruse became apparent, UN artillery and warplanes opened up on them.

At least 50 Reds were killed by the artillery. Pilots said they couldn't estimate casualties from the air strikes, because the North Koreans took refuge in thick foliage. But the air force reported "80 to 90 per cent coverage" of the area where the Reds sought cover.

Ten miles away 22 Korean Reds did surrender. The group, stunned by constant pounding from the air, laid down their arms and crossed the lines with their hands held high.

"Operation Cleaver" kicked off at dawn Friday. Armored spearheads ranged out ahead with the infantry right behind to mop up.

New Phase of War

It was a new phase of the Korean war. Until now, save for the Naktong breakthrough last fall, armored operations have been comparatively small.

This newest armored thrust recalled the raids of Rommel and Montgomery in the African desert and the horse cavalry sweeps of Jeb Stuart and Phil Sheridan in the war between the states.

Anything Communist was a target — troops, command posts, supplies, gun positions and fortifications.

Most of the armor-tipped prongs reported fairly easy going. The heaviest fighting involved one of the most famous tank outfits in Korea. Censors banned its identification. Far behind the front, allied aircraft smashed hard at Red airfields, rail yards, rolling stock and supply lines.

Allied fighter-bombers destroyed seven T-34 Russian-built tanks and damaged two others in

U. S. Air Force Corporal Is Among Dead—45 Are Injured

Weedon, Eng., Sept. 21 (AP)—A speeding express train jumped the tracks here today, smashing five coaches and killing at least eight persons, including an unidentified U. S. Air Force corporal.

Another 45 passengers on the 15-coach train, bound from Liverpool to London, were injured.

Hours after the crash, police and British Army rescue workers were still combing the wreckage for possible further casualties. Earlier police had said 20 persons were killed.

The accident occurred as the train was leaving Stowe Hill tunnel, half a mile south of here on the main London-Liverpool line.

The locomotive plunged down a steep embankment. Five of the leading coaches piled up, badly smashing the first two.

The engineer, buried under tons of coal which slid from the tender,

Postal Employes and Other Workers to Get About $400 More Yearly in Pay Envelopes

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—More than a million and a half postal employes and government white collar workers can each look forward today to around $400 a year more in their pay envelopes from now on.

Three pay increase bills retroactive to July 1 and totaling $670,000,000 annually were shouted through by the House in rapid-fire order late yesterday.

The Senate had approved almost similar measures earlier—one of the biggest pay boosts ever given federal employes at one time—and a Senate-House compromise committee now must iron out the differences.

The big salary hike even had the House talking about more money for its own members, now getting $15,000 a year in salary and expenses.

Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts told the House he hoped that before the next session ends 15 months from now, Congress would have "the courage" to vote its members $25,000 a year. Members applauded.

McCormack said the present pay of senators and representatives is "unfortunate" and he thought their constituents favored more money for hard-working congressmen.

The pay increases voted yesterday were to help government workers—especially those in the lower pay brackets—offset the rising cost of living.

About 500,000 employes of the postal field service get the basic $400 pay boost, although new employes entering the postal service will get as much as $700.

Postmasters of small fourth-class postoffices would get a 20 per cent increase in their salary. Hour employes would get 20 cents an hour more.

In another bill, the House also voted salary boosts aggregating $16,900,000 to the nation's 42,000 postmasters and 26,000 postal supervisors.

Principal difference in the House and Senate postal bills is that the Senate voted a $400 floor and an $800 ceiling, while the House provided a basic increase of only $400.

The House then voted $417,445,000 a year in increases for approximately 1,043,614 employes of the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government.

Legislative employes — those working for Congress—got a special break. The House adopted an amendment by Rep. Sutton (D.-Tenn.) giving them a pay boost of ten per cent or $400, whichever was the higher, with a top of $800.

The Senate bill for non-postal employes provides a ten per cent increase and an $800 maximum for all.

About 995,000 of the non-postal service workers covered by the increase are civil service employes. The remainder are employed by federal courts, Congress, the Veterans Administration department of medicine and surgery, and the foreign service.

Taft Declares Proposals On Farm Subsidies Fraud

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said today Truman administration farm subsidy proposals are a "fraud" to promise high prices to farmers and low prices to consumers.

The Ohio senator said in a speech prepared for a cooperative power plant dedication here that farmers are entitled to support prices just as much as laborers are to minimum wages.

But Taft assailed the Brannan farm subsidy payment plan which congress has rejected, without directly naming it. The Brannan plan, named for the secretary of agriculture, called for subsidies to farmers to make up the difference between the amount they received for perishable commodities in the open market and a predetermined "farm price."

"I have always thought this subsidy business was a fraud," Taft declared. "It enables an administration to promise a farmer high prices and a consumer low prices at the same time.

"The idea is that the difference is charged to the taxpayers, but in the long run the consumer and the farmer pay most of the taxes and so they really do not get the benefits which are promised them. In fact, they get a bill for the benefits almost before they receive them."

Taft's Grand Forks talk was billed in advance by his aides as a major farm address. The Ohioan has said he won't decide until later in the year whether he will actively seek the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

Taft said he regards minimum price supports for any commodity as generally inconsistent with the free price competitive system, but he added he believes "special considerations justify a farm price

Kingston Banks Give $30,000 for Hospital

Senator Wicks Says Expansion Is Needed Badly in County

The campaign to raise $600,000 for the Benedictine Hospital got under way last night with glowing tributes from civic leaders and a substantial donation of $30,000 from the banks of Kingston.

More than 150 leaders in the drive for soliciting throughout the county of Ulster attended the kick-off dinner in the Governor Clinton Hotel, where enthusiasm and inspiration abounded.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, co-chairman of the campaign, and featured speaker at the dinner meeting said, "We are assured that we have enlisted in a good and noble cause. An expansion of the hospital is desperately needed to meet the medical needs of the people of Ulster county . . .

"The patient load at the Benedictine has more than doubled and births at the hospital have tripled since 1930."

'Something for Ourselves'

Former Surrogate Judge George F. Kaufman said in his talk, "In an important sense we are not being asked to do anything for the Benedictine Hospital. In reality we are being asked to do something for ourselves as members of the community served and protected by the Benedictine Hospital . . .

"When a community demands increased service of a hospital, the hospital has no alternative other than to ask the community itself to provide the facilities for that service."

Kaufman headed a campaign in 1945 to raise $250,000 for the hospital, which, he pointed out "during the last 50 years has never been and is not now restricted to any creed, sect or denomination. In all those years no Protestant, Jew or Catholic has ever been turned from its doors. None ever will be."

Others Introduced

Other speakers introduced by Attorney Roger H. Loughran, toastmaster, were James A. Dwyer, local business man and banker, who welcomed the assemblage; and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who called the hospital an important institution of the community, and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, president of the board of directors of the Benedictine, who opened the meeting with prayer.

State Crime Probe Ends at Catskill

Catskill, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—The State Crime Commission will end today the preliminary phase of its investigation into gambling and other vice in Columbia county.

H. Bartow Farr, Jr., assistant commission counsel, planned to question two more Hudson policemen today. He has talked with Police Chief John Sullivan and 14 others on the force.

Farr said that next week he would study testimony taken since the probe opened Aug. 28. Additional witnesses will be called the following week if necessary, he said.

Uptown Business To Discuss Lights

Also, Idea Is Proposed to Change Name of Organization

Christmas lighting and the possibility of changing the name of the Uptown Business Men's Association are two items to be discussed at a meeting of members of that organization at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday, September 25, according to Jay Melton, president of the group.

At the meeting, which will be held in the Standard Furniture Company store on Fair street, a proposal will be made to change the name of the Uptown Business Men's Association to the Kingston Merchants Association, Melton revealed.

The proposal is part of the trend toward the abolition of small regional designations of merchants groups by names that tend to emphasize the isolated status of the groups, it was explained.

Plans for street lighting during the Christmas season will be developed at the meeting. This year's chairman will be John Melvin, assistant manager at the local Montgomery Ward and Company store.

Fight Is Foreseen

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) today predicted a bitter Senate fight over committee-approved changes in the Capehart amendment to the price control law. The Senate Banking Committee voted 9 to 4 yesterday to revise the provision, which requires that price ceilings reflect sellers' increased costs from the start of the Korean war to last July 26.

Would End Dispute

Paducah, Ky., Sept. 21 (AP)—Steps were reported being taken today to end a dispute which halted work on the Paducah atomic plant. About 1,000 workers are idle. Work was suspended yesterday after AFL-Sheet Metal Workers set up a picket line demanding travel and subsistence pay.

Oil Expert Hints At Gasoline, Oil Rations in Winter

Brown Indicates Need for More Output to Safeguard Defenses

Jennings, La., Sept. 21 (AP)—The U. S. government's top oil expert hinted broadly today that gasoline and oil rationing may be necessary next winter unless petroleum output is increased.

Bruce K. Brown, deputy administrator of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, also warned that free-nation defenses may collapse unless petroleum production is hiked.

In a prepared address, Brown said that if the oil industry is denied the steel it needs for expansion, "it is only a question of time before there will be a new wave of protests from automobile owners and home owners heating with oil."

"That conclusion is not a happy one with all its implications of rationing, but it is inescapable," he added.

Brown, a speaker at Louisiana's celebration of the 50th anniversary of its oil industry, said oil production must be increased "not just here, but in every friendly nation in the world."

"The alternative could all too easily be a collapse of the closely intertwined defense of the free world," he said.

Hurley Fire Calls Will Be Made to Central Station

Beginning today all fire calls for Fire District No. 1, Hurley, will be made directly to the Central Fire Station, Kingston.

This means that any resident who wishes to report a fire can obtain immediate response by saying simply to the telephone operator, "I want to report a fire in Hurley." The call will be relayed to the Central Fire Station, where the dispatcher will note the location and then touch off the Hurley fire siren.

Once the siren has been opened by the Kingston Central Fire Station dispatcher, it will continue to sound until the telephone is answered at the Hurley firehouse and the location of the fire is learned from the Kingston firemen.

The new plan has been put into effect by the board of fire commissioners of Hurley to give improved service to the district. Dispatchers at Kingston are on 24-hour duty.

The announcement was made by Edmund Czerwinski of Hurley, president of the fire board.

When General Will Give Reply Is Uncertain, Is Report

Tokyo, Sept. 21 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway withheld his answer today to a Communist proposal to resume the Korean truce talks as Kaesong.

The battle of words over how to get the wheels of peace revolving again was muted.

Even Red China's Peiping radio—the Communist sounding board that pours out tens of thousands of words each day in anti-United Nations command propaganda—was notably silent.

There was only a dribble of hashed-over complaints of Kaesong neutrality violations where torrents used to flow.

U. S. Air Force Corporal Is Among Dead—45 Are Injured

Weedon, Eng., Sept. 21 (AP)—A speeding express train jumped the tracks here today, smashing five coaches and killing at least eight persons, including an unidentified U. S. Air Force corporal.

Another 45 passengers on the 15-coach train, bound from Liverpool to London, were injured.

Hours after the crash, police and British Army rescue workers were still combing the wreckage for possible further casualties. Earlier police had said 20 persons were killed.

The accident occurred as the train was leaving Stowe Hill tunnel, half a mile south of here on the main London-Liverpool line.

The locomotive plunged down a steep embankment. Five of the leading coaches piled up, badly smashing the first two.

The engineer, buried under tons of coal which slid from the tender,

Fake Is Tried

Korean Reds Pounded After False Move to Surrender

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Sept. 21 (AP)—Allied tanks and infantry crashed into the apex of the old Communist iron triangle on Korea's central front today in perhaps the heaviest armored blow of the war.

Elements of three United Nations divisions powered the mighty assault.

A field dispatch said the giant task force late Friday completed its first day objective. The mission: To seek out Communist strong points and shoot up every target in sight.

The assault force rolled deep into the broad valley massing area before it ran into firm resistance.

"The boys are beginning to have a little trouble," an allied officer said.

Front line reports said one spearhead was locked in savage combat with Red troops swarming on all sides.

Overhead, allied warplanes darkened the skies.

'Operation Cleaver'

The thrust was dubbed "operation cleaver." But it was not officially labeled an offensive. Rather, it was an armored raid.

Pyonggang, apex of the triangle which also is bounded by the key cities of Chorwon on the southwest and Kumhwa on the southeast, is 29 miles north of Parallel 38.

Bitter fighting flared across 80 miles of the Korean front, all the way from the triangle area eastward to the Sea of Japan.

On the east-central front the Reds hurled fresh troops into the bloody "battle of the hills." They stopped the month-old allied advance in its tracks.

Only local patrol clashes were reported from the western front.

Eleven times UN infantry stormed the spiny ridges of the east. Eleven times they were thrown back. It was the strongest Communist stand in months.

200 Reds Pull Fake

Early Friday 200 armed Korean Reds tried to enter Allied lines with a fake offer to surrender. When their ruse became apparent, UN artillery and warplanes opened up on them.

At least 50 Reds were killed by the artillery. Pilots said they couldn't estimate casualties from the air strikes, because the North Koreans took refuge in thick foliage. But the air force reported "80 to 90 per cent coverage" of the area where the Reds sought cover.

Ten miles away 22 Korean Reds did surrender. The group, stunned by constant pounding from the air, laid down their arms and crossed the lines with their hands held high.

"Operation Cleaver" kicked off at dawn Friday. Armored spearheads ranged out ahead with the infantry right behind to mop up.

New Phase of War

It was a new phase of the Korean war. Until now, save for the Naktong breakthrough last fall, armored operations have been comparatively small.

This newest armored thrust recalled the raids of Rommel and Montgomery in the African desert and the horse cavalry sweeps of Jeb Stuart and Phil Sheridan in the war between the states.

Anything Communist was a target — troops, command posts, supplies, gun positions and fortifications.

Most of the armor-tipped prongs reported fairly easy going. The heaviest fighting involved one of the most famous tank outfits in Korea. Censors banned its identification. Far behind the front, allied aircraft smashed hard at Red airfields, rail yards, rolling stock and supply lines.

Allied fighter-bombers destroyed seven T-34 Russian-built tanks and damaged two others in

Postal Employes and Other Workers to Get About $400 More Yearly in Pay Envelopes

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—More than a million and a half postal employes and government white collar workers can each look forward today to around $400 a year more in their pay envelopes from now on.

Three pay increase bills retroactive to July 1 and totaling $670,000,000 annually were shouted through by the House in rapid-fire order late yesterday.

The Senate had approved almost similar measures earlier—one of the biggest pay boosts ever given federal employes at one time—and a Senate-House compromise committee now must iron out the differences.

The big salary hike even had the House talking about more money for its own members, now getting $15,000 a year in salary and expenses.

Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts told the House he hoped that before the next session ends 15 months from now, Congress would have "the courage" to vote its members $25,000 a year. Members applauded.

McCormack said the present pay of senators and representatives is "unfortunate" and he thought their constituents favored more money for hard-working congressmen.

The pay increases voted yesterday were to help government workers—especially those in the lower pay brackets—offset the rising cost of living.

About 500,000 employes of the postal field service get the basic $400 pay boost, although new employes entering the postal service will get as much as $700.

Postmasters of small fourth-class postoffices would get a 20 per cent increase in their salary. Hour employes would get 20 cents an hour more.

In another bill, the House also voted salary boosts aggregating $16,900,000 to the nation's 42,000 postmasters and 26,000 postal supervisors.

Principal difference in the House and Senate postal bills is that the Senate voted a $400 floor and an $800 ceiling, while the House provided a basic increase of only $400.

The House then voted $417,445,000 a year in increases for approximately 1,043,614 employes of the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government.

Legislative employes — those working for Congress—got a special break. The House adopted an amendment by Rep. Sutton (D.-Tenn.) giving them a pay boost of ten per cent or $400, whichever was the higher, with a top of $800.

The Senate bill for non-postal employes provides a ten per cent increase and an $800 maximum for all.

About 995,000 of the non-postal service workers covered by the increase are civil service employes. The remainder are employed by federal courts, Congress, the Veterans Administration department of medicine and surgery, and the foreign service.

Taft Declares Proposals On Farm Subsidies Fraud

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) said today Truman administration farm subsidy proposals are a "fraud" to promise high prices to farmers and low prices to consumers.

The Ohio senator said in a speech prepared for a cooperative power plant dedication here that farmers are entitled to support prices just as much as laborers are to minimum wages.

But Taft assailed the Brannan farm subsidy payment plan which congress has rejected, without directly naming it. The Brannan plan, named for the secretary of agriculture, called for subsidies to farmers to make up the difference between the amount they received for perishable commodities in the open market and a predetermined "farm price."

"I have always thought this subsidy business was a fraud," Taft declared. "It enables an administration to promise a farmer high prices and a consumer low prices at the same time.

"The idea is that the difference is charged to the taxpayers, but in the long run the consumer and the farmer pay most of the taxes and so they really do not get the benefits which are promised them. In fact, they get a bill for the benefits almost before they receive them."

Taft's Grand Forks talk was billed in advance by his aides as a major farm address. The Ohioan has said he won't decide until later in the year whether he will actively seek the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

Taft said he regards minimum price supports for any commodity as generally inconsistent with the free price competitive system, but he added he believes "special considerations justify a farm price

In loving memory of my beloved daughter, Amy Louise Burger, who passed away September 20, 1948.

You had to go, it was God's will
But in my heart I love you still.
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
I little thought your death so near.
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.
Still loved, still missed and ever dear.
Always in my thoughts.
Forever in my heart.

John A. Hartford Dies in New York; Headed A&P Chain

JOHN A. HARTFORD

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—John A. Hartford, 79, chairman of the board of the A. & P. chain food stores, died yesterday after a heart attack in a Manhattan skyscraper elevator.

Hartford succumbed after he stepped into an elevator on the 56th floor of the Chrysler Building. He had been attending a board meeting of the Chrysler Corp., of which he was a director.

The A. & P.—the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company—was founded by his father, George Huntington Hartford, in 1859, with a single store on New York's lower East Side. The business then was called the "Great American Tea Co."

The son conceived the idea of an "economy store," which he opened in Newark, N. J., in 1912. This idea developed into more than 15,000 stores in 1935, when the super-market method was introduced and food store consolidations started. There now are about 4,700 A. & P. stores.

'Mystery Man' of Business

Long known as a "mystery man" of big business because he shunned publicity, Hartford hit the headlines in 1945 when he said he loaned Elliott Roosevelt $200,000 in 1939 and finally settled the debt for $4,000.

The son of the late President Roosevelt then was interested in a Texas radio chain.

The matter became a political football before the House Ways and Means Committee allowed Hartford a tax deduction on his $196,000 loss.

Hartford was known as "Mr. John" to the thousands of A. & P. employes. He frequently visited as many as 3,000 of the company's stores in a single year.

Lived at Valhalla

Born in Orange, N. J., Hartford lived on a 365-acre estate at Valhalla.

His closest survivor is his older brother, George, also an official of the food chain.

Hartford was married twice. His first wife was the former Pauline Corwin of Middletown, whom he divorced in 1923. After a brief second marriage ended in divorce, Hartford and his first wife were remarried. She died in 1949. They had no children.

Funeral arrangements were not announced immediately.

Hearing Is Postponed

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 21 (AP)—A Superior Court hearing was postponed today on a petition for an injunction to prevent enforcement of Connecticut's new liquor minimum price law. The postponement until September 27 was announced after Judge Abraham S. Bordon had conferred in chambers with counsel for the 10 Fairfield county liquor retailers seeking the injunction and counsel for the State Liquor Control Commission.

11 Churches Talk Plans for Funds In United Drive

Representatives from 11 churches of the city met last evening at the YMCA to discuss plans for the United Church Canvass and to name officers to carry on the canvass. This will be the third year that a united Protestant move for soliciting funds through an every member canvass on Loyalty Day has been held in the city.

Loyalty Sunday this year will be on November 11 and on that day the congregations of each of the churches participating in the United Church Canvass will be canvassed for their annual contribution for the support of their church.

The 11 churches represented at the meeting last night all signified an intention to participate and it is anticipated there will be other churches in the city also participating. It is expected there will be at least 14. Any other church wishing to participate in the United Church Canvass may contact an official or any member of the committee.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, who served as chairman for the 1950 United Church Canvass, presided at the meeting last evening.

William MacElveen, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate which was elected:

William S. Keyser, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, chairman; Arthur Hutton, Fair Street Reformed Church, vice chairman; Isaac Craig, Rondout Presbyterian-Baptist Church, treasurer; Edsil Flowers, First Presbyterian Church, secretary; George Chilson, St. John's Episcopal Church, corresponding secretary.

Authority was granted the officers to order sample packets of literature for distribution among the ministers of the churches participating.

William MacElveen reported he had been authorized to offer the facilities of the First Dutch Reformed Church for the kick-off dinner which will be held prior to the canvass. The date for this dinner was not set last evening.

Four Young Men Held; Two Released To Military Police

Two of four young men arrested Wednesday on disorderly conduct charges were turned over to military authorities from Albany yesterday for allegedly having been absent without leave from the army.

James E. Rowles, 19, of 13 Meadow street, and Arthur Ferro, 19, of 22 Post street, were released to the custody of military police late yesterday afternoon.

Another of the group, Richard C. Bell, 16, of 61 Broadway, who when arraigned Wednesday in city court, pleaded not guilty, changed the plea today and was sentenced by City Judge Raymond J. Mino to three days in the county jail. This time had already been served and he was released.

George Mayr, 18, of 5 Wurts street, was sentenced Wednesday to five days in jail, and police said today they were checking to determine if he was involved as a parolee.

The arrests early Wednesday, police said, were made because the four "could not give an account of their actions" in the DeMicco used car lot to the rear of 334 Broadway.

Three automobile tires, two of them mounted on wheels, figured in a police investigation of the four following their arrests, Lt. William Leonard said, but no charges followed the probe.

Denies McCarthy Act

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Benton (D-Conn.) demanded today that Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) give a U. S. district attorney "any evidence he has to support his charge that several members of Congress have known Communists on their staffs."

Appeal Will Be Made on Monday

Attorney Frank Martocci for the petitioners in the police-firemen pay boost referendum move said at 1:50 p. m. today that the Court of Appeals will hear his appeal on the Appellate Division's decision Monday afternoon.

The petitioners' appeal for a high court order has been denied by the Supreme Court and Appellate Division. The Court of Appeals is scheduled to convene on another matter Monday.

The deadline for filing with the election board to place the proposition on the ballot is Sept. 25.

Meanwhile, the petitioners are scheduled to meet tonight with Frank Martocci, their attorney, to discuss "important matters" pertaining to the effort to place a pay-boost proposition on the November ballot.

Martocci held today that the Appellate Division decision was not conclusive on the point that the petitioners did not have a plan, but said their position does not present "a sufficient plan" to provide for means to raise the required money.

The petitioners' attorney contends that the presenting of "a plan" is all that is required to get the proposition on the ballot, and he holds that the placing of the revenue responsibility with the Common Council in effect is a plan.

Supreme Court Justice Herbert D. Hamm, in his decision on Martocci's move for an order of mandamus to compel the city clerk and the corporation counsel to perform their duties and certify the petition for the November ballot, said the petition failed to contain a plan within the meaning of an amendment to the City Home Rule Law which requires a plan.

This decision in effect was affirmed by that of the Appellate Division yesterday.

No Cause Verdict Given in Accident

Two car owners who were involved in an accident at the junction of the South Ohioville road and route 299 near New Paltz last November failed to recover damages to their cars when a jury in County Court Thursday afternoon returned verdicts of "no cause" on the theory both drivers were negligent. However the wife of each driver received a verdict for personal injuries suffered.

Albert C. Arras and Rocco Simonette sued each other for damage to their cars. Both actions were lost. However, Rose Simonette, a passenger in the car of her husband, was awarded $700 for personal injuries. She sued for $3,000. Dora W. Arras, wife of Albert C. Arras, was awarded $300 for personal injuries. She sued for $1,000. In each of the cases the driver of the other car was the defendant. David W. Corwin appeared for Mr. and Mrs. Simonette and Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Mr. and Mrs. Arras.

Thrift-Minded Americans

Vancouver (AP)—Mike McCormick, Vancouver Tourist Association secretary, claims American tourists are refusing to buy Canadian goods because of "exorbitant prices." He says American visitors spend only 25 per cent of the money they bring across the border.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Fairly general profit-taking today pulled the stock market down from its 1951 peak.

Losses ran to an extreme of a little past $2 a share among leaders. Holdouts against the lower trend were scattered.

Selling started slowly and expanded to a moderate volume, but there was no excessive pressure apparent. Buyers stepped in promptly as prices fell.

At the opening the market was higher but it turned around within an hour.

Nickel Plate moved ahead a couple of points at the opening and then sagged to the minus side before recovering and going higher again. It was one of yesterday's star performers after the Interstate Commerce Commission oked the five-for-one split plan.

Paramount Pictures fell back between 2 and 3 points as holders cashed in their profits on yesterday's startling 6-point jump. The buying yesterday was stirred up by Paramount's presentation of its new color-TV tube as a competitor for the tubes of RCA and CBS. Celotex held on to a portion of its gain today as the aftermath of the 37½-cent extra dividend declaration of two days ago. For a time the action of that company encouraged buying in other building material companies.

Trading was light and price changes small in the bond market. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market were steady.

Krum Is Through, Examination Due; No More Leaves

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren announced today that the Board of Police Commissioners acted yesterday to terminate the leave of Detective William Krum who left the department earlier in the year to take a position with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The board also voted that the department will allow no further leaves of absence unless they are due to illness. They will not be given where the acceptance of other jobs are concerned.

The leave of absence granted to Detective Krum ended Sept. 9. The board voted to ask the Municipal Civil Service Commission to submit a list of eligibility so that an appointment to fill the department vacancy can be made at the October meeting.

The chief said neither the department nor board had heard from the former detective recently and he apparently had made no application for an extension of the leave.

Says U. S. Has Capacity

San Francisco, Sept. 21 (AP)—The nation's defense production chief said today the U. S. has the capacity to pour out 30,000 tanks and 50,000 planes a year—plus strategic stockpiles "to carry us through a year of total war."

121 Arrests Made During August

Two arrests were made for burglary, third degree, and two for driving while intoxicated. One arrest was made on a second degree assault charge.

Of the 23 injured in accidents, 15 were due to collisions with other motor vehicles, four involved pedestrians, two bicycles, and two were caused by vehicles running off the highway.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my beloved daughter, Amy Louise Burger, who passed away September 20, 1948.

You had to go, it was God's will
But in my heart I love you still.
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
I little thought your death so near.
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.
Still loved, still missed and ever dear.
Always in my thoughts.
Forever in my heart.

John A. Hartford Dies in New York; Headed A&P Chain

JOHN A. HARTFORD

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—John A. Hartford, 79, chairman of the board of the A. & P. chain food stores, died yesterday after a heart attack in a Manhattan skyscraper elevator.

Hartford succumbed after he stepped into an elevator on the 56th floor of the Chrysler Building. He had been attending a board meeting of the Chrysler Corp., of which he was a director.

The A. & P.—the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company—was founded by his father, George Huntington Hartford, in 1859, with a single store on New York's lower East Side. The business then was called the "Great American Tea Co."

The son conceived the idea of an "economy store," which he opened in Newark, N. J., in 1912. This idea developed into more than 15,000 stores in 1935, when the super-market method was introduced and food store consolidations started. There now are about 4,700 A. & P. stores.

'Mystery Man' of Business

Long known as a "mystery man" of big business because he shunned publicity, Hartford hit the headlines in 1945 when he said he loaned Elliott Roosevelt $200,000 in 1939 and finally settled the debt for $4,000.

The son of the late President Roosevelt then was interested in a Texas radio chain.

The matter became a political football before the House Ways and Means Committee allowed Hartford a tax deduction on his $196,000 loss.

Hartford was known as "Mr. John" to the thousands of A. & P. employes. He frequently visited as many as 3,000 of the company's stores in a single year.

Lived at Valhalla

Born in Orange, N. J., Hartford lived on a 365-acre estate at Valhalla.

His closest survivor is his older brother, George, also an official of the food chain.

Hartford was married twice. His first wife was the former Pauline Corwin of Middletown, whom he divorced in 1923. After a brief second marriage ended in divorce, Hartford and his first wife were remarried. She died in 1949. They had no children.

Funeral arrangements were not announced immediately.

Hearing Is Postponed

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 21 (AP)—A Superior Court hearing was postponed today on a petition for an injunction to prevent enforcement of Connecticut's new liquor minimum price law. The postponement until September 27 was announced after Judge Abraham S. Bordon had conferred in chambers with counsel for the 10 Fairfield county liquor retailers seeking the injunction and counsel for the State Liquor Control Commission.

11 Churches Talk Plans for Funds In United Drive

Representatives from 11 churches of the city met last evening at the YMCA to discuss plans for the United Church Canvass and to name officers to carry on the canvass. This will be the third year that a united Protestant move for soliciting funds through an every member canvass on Loyalty Day has been held in the city.

Loyalty Sunday this year will be on November 11 and on that day the congregations of each of the churches participating in the United Church Canvass will be canvassed for their annual contribution for the support of their church.

The 11 churches represented at the meeting last night all signified an intention to participate and it is anticipated there will be other churches in the city also participating. It is expected there will be at least 14. Any other church wishing to participate in the United Church Canvass may contact an official or any member of the committee.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, who served as chairman for the 1950 United Church Canvass, presided at the meeting last evening.

William MacElveen, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate which was elected:

William S. Keyser, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, chairman; Arthur Hutton, Fair Street Reformed Church, vice chairman; Isaac Craig, Rondout Presbyterian-Baptist Church, treasurer; Edsil Flowers, First Presbyterian Church, secretary; George Chilson, St. John's Episcopal Church, corresponding secretary.

Authority was granted the officers to order sample packets of literature for distribution among the ministers of the churches participating.

William MacElveen reported he had been authorized to offer the facilities of the First Dutch Reformed Church for the kick-off dinner which will be held prior to the canvass. The date for this dinner was not set last evening.

The code will be introduced in the 1952 session of the New York State Legislature, and later in other states.

Four Young Men Held; Two Released To Military Police

Two of four young men arrested Wednesday on disorderly conduct charges were turned over to military authorities from Albany yesterday for allegedly having been absent without leave from the army.

James E. Rowles, 19, of 13 Meadow street, and Arthur Ferro, 19, of 22 Post street, were released to the custody of military police late yesterday afternoon.

Another of the group, Richard C. Bell, 16, of 61 Broadway, who when arraigned Wednesday in city court, pleaded not guilty, changed the plea today and was sentenced by City Judge Raymond J. Mino to three days in the county jail. This time had already been served and he was released.

George Mayr, 18, of 5 Wurts street, was sentenced Wednesday to five days in jail, and police said today they were checking to determine if he was involved as a parolee.

The arrests early Wednesday, police said, were made because the four "could not give an account of their actions" in the DeMicco used car lot to the rear of 334 Broadway.

Three automobile tires, two of them mounted on wheels, figured in a police investigation of the four following their arrests, Lt. William Leonard said, but no charges followed the probe.

Denies McCarthy Act

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Benton (D-Conn.) demanded today that Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) give a U. S. district attorney "any evidence he has to support his charge that several members of Congress have known Communists on their staffs."

Appeal Will Be Made on Monday

Attorney Frank Martocci for the petitioners in the police-firemen pay boost referendum move said at 1:50 p. m. today that the Court of Appeals will hear his appeal on the Appellate Division's decision Monday afternoon.

The petitioners' appeal for a high court order has been denied by the Supreme Court and Appellate Division. The Court of Appeals is scheduled to convene on another matter Monday.

The deadline for filing with the election board to place the proposition on the ballot is Sept. 25.

Meanwhile, the petitioners are scheduled to meet tonight with Frank Martocci, their attorney, to discuss "important matters" pertaining to the effort to place a pay-boost proposition on the November ballot.

Martocci held today that the Appellate Division decision was not conclusive on the point that the petitioners did not have a plan, but said their position does not present "a sufficient plan" to provide for means to raise the required money.

The petitioners' attorney contends that the presenting of "a plan" is all that is required to get the proposition on the ballot, and he holds that the placing of the revenue responsibility with the Common Council in effect is a plan.

Supreme Court Justice Herbert D. Hamm, in his decision on Martocci's move for an order of mandamus to compel the city clerk and the corporation counsel to perform their duties and certify the petition for the November ballot, said the petition failed to contain a plan within the meaning of an amendment to the City Home Rule Law which requires a plan.

This decision in effect was affirmed by that of the Appellate Division yesterday.

No Cause Verdict Given in Accident

Two car owners who were involved in an accident at the junction of the South Ohioville road and route 299 near New Paltz last November failed to recover damages to their cars when a jury in County Court Thursday afternoon returned verdicts of "no cause" on the theory both drivers were negligent. However the wife of each driver received a verdict for personal injuries suffered.

Albert C. Arras and Rocco Simonette sued each other for damage to their cars. Both actions were lost. However, Rose Simonette, a passenger in the car of her husband, was awarded $700 for personal injuries. She sued for $3,000. Dora W. Arras, wife of Albert C. Arras, was awarded $300 for personal injuries. She sued for $1,000. In each of the cases the driver of the other car was the defendant. David W. Corwin appeared for Mr. and Mrs. Simonette and Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Mr. and Mrs. Arras.

Thrift-Minded Americans

Vancouver (AP)—Mike McCormick, Vancouver Tourist Association secretary, claims American tourists are refusing to buy Canadian goods because of "exorbitant prices." He says American visitors spend only 25 per cent of the money they bring across the border.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Fairly general profit-taking today pulled the stock market down from its 1951 peak.

Losses ran to an extreme of a little past $2 a share among leaders. Holdouts against the lower trend were scattered.

Selling started slowly and expanded to a moderate volume, but there was no excessive pressure apparent. Buyers stepped in promptly as prices fell.

At the opening the market was higher but it turned around within an hour.

Nickel Plate moved ahead a couple of points at the opening and then sagged to the minus side before recovering and going higher again. It was one of yesterday's star performers after the Interstate Commerce Commission oked the five-for-one split plan.

Paramount Pictures fell back between 2 and 3 points as holders cashed in their profits on yesterday's startling 6-point jump. The buying yesterday was stirred up by Paramount's presentation of its new color-TV tube as a competitor for the tubes of RCA and CBS. Celotex held on to a portion of its gain today as the aftermath of the 37½-cent extra dividend declaration of two days ago. For a time the action of that company encouraged buying in other building material companies.

Trading was light and price changes small in the bond market. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market were steady.

Krum Is Through, Examination Due; No More Leaves

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren announced today that the Board of Police Commissioners acted yesterday to terminate the leave of Detective William Krum who left the department earlier in the year to take a position with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The board also voted that the department will allow no further leaves of absence unless they are due to illness. They will not be given where the acceptance of other jobs are concerned.

The leave of absence granted to Detective Krum ended Sept. 9. The board voted to ask the Municipal Civil Service Commission to submit a list of eligibility so that an appointment to fill the department vacancy can be made at the October meeting.

The chief said neither the department nor board had heard from the former detective recently and he apparently had made no application for an extension of the leave.

Says U. S. Has Capacity

San Francisco, Sept. 21 (AP)—The nation's defense production chief said today the U. S. has the capacity to pour out 30,000 tanks and 50,000 planes a year—plus strategic stockpiles "to carry us through a year of total war."

121 Arrests Made During August

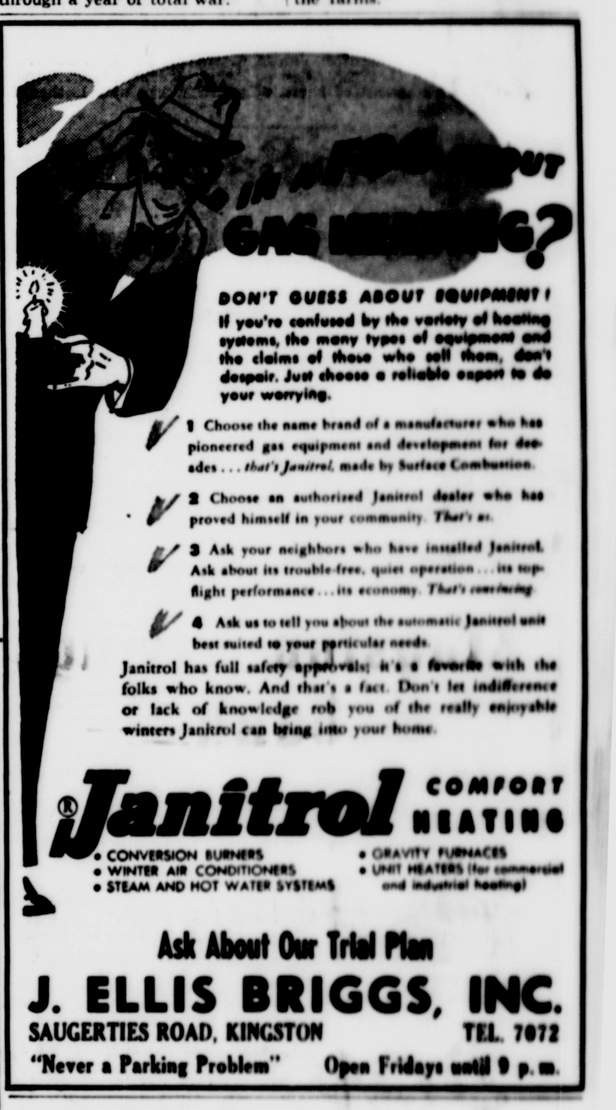

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren reported to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday that 121 arrests were made in the city during August and 23 persons were injured in 12 traffic accidents.

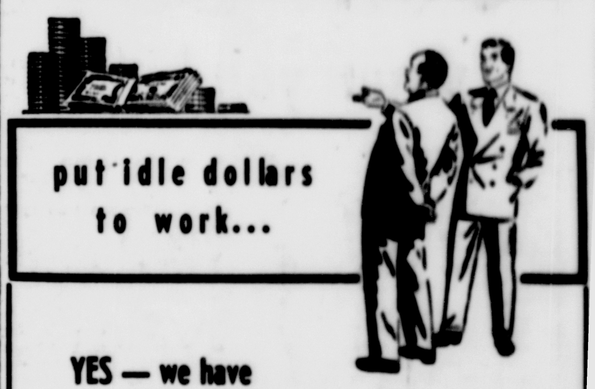

Of the arrests, 38 were for public intoxication, 26 for disorderly conduct, 24 for violation of the city traffic code, 16 for violations of the vehicle and traffic laws, and six for third degree assault. Two arrests were made for burglary, third degree, and two for driving while intoxicated. One arrest was made on a second degree assault charge.

Of the 23 injured in accidents, 15 were due to collisions with other motor vehicles, four involved pedestrians, two bicycles, and two were caused by vehicles running off the highway.

Through Red Eyes

Des Moines (AP)—In the Senate recently, Sen. Benton (D-Conn.) reading excerpts from a new Soviet encyclopedia, quoted this item about Iowa. "State in the middle west of the United States . . . Large capitalist farms provide the basic production. All farmers are in great debt to the banks, and farmers' debts, even in the case of full owners, are more than 50 per cent of the value of the farms."

Memoriam

In loving memory of my beloved daughter, Amy Louise Burger, who passed away September 20, 1948

You had to go, it was God's will
But in my heart I love you still.
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
I little thought your death so near.
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of passing without farewell.
Still loved, still missed and ever dear.
Always in my thoughts.
Forever in my heart.

John A. Hartford Dies in New York; Headed A&P Chain

JOHN A. HARTFORD

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—John A. Hartford, 79, chairman of the board of the A. & P. chain food stores, died yesterday after a heart attack in a Manhattan skyscraper elevator.

Hartford succumbed after he stepped into an elevator on the 56th floor of the Chrysler Building. He had been attending a board meeting of the Chrysler Corp., of which he was a director.

The A. & P.—the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company—was founded by his father, George Huntington Hartford, in 1859, with a single store on New York's lower East Side. The business then was called the "Great American Tea Co."

The son conceived the idea of an "economy store," which he opened in Newark, N. J., in 1912. This idea developed into more than 15,000 stores in 1935, when the super-market method was introduced and food store consolidations started. There now are about 4,700 A. & P. stores.

'Mystery Man' of Business

Long known as a "mystery man" of big business because he shunned publicity, Hartford hit the headlines in 1945 when he said he loaned Elliott Roosevelt $200,000 in 1939 and finally settled the debt for $4,000.

The son of the late President Roosevelt then was interested in a Texas radio chain.

The matter became a political football before the House Ways and Means Committee allowed Hartford a tax deduction on his $196,000 loss.

Hartford was known as "Mr. John" to the thousands of A. & P. employes. He frequently visited as many as 3,000 of the company's stores in a single year.

Lived at Valhalla

Born in Orange, N. J., Hartford lived on a 365-acre estate at Valhalla.

His closest survivor is his older brother, George, also an official of the food chain.

Hartford was married twice. His first wife was the former Pauline Corwin of Middletown, whom he divorced in 1923. After a brief second marriage ended in divorce, Hartford and his first wife were remarried. She died in 1949. They had no children.

Funeral arrangements were not announced immediately.

Hearing Is Postponed

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 21 (AP)—A Superior Court hearing was postponed today on a petition for an injunction to prevent enforcement of Connecticut's new liquor minimum price law. The postponement until September 27 was announced after Judge Abraham S. Bordon had conferred in chambers with counsel for the 10 Fairfield county liquor retailers seeking the injunction and counsel for the State Liquor Control Commission.

11 Churches Talk Plans for Funds In United Drive

Representatives from 11 churches of the city met last evening at the YMCA to discuss plans for the United Church Canvass and to name officers to carry on the canvass. This will be the third year that a united Protestant move for soliciting funds through an every member canvass on Loyalty Day has been held in the city.

Loyalty Sunday this year will be on November 11 and on that day the congregations of each of the churches participating in the United Church Canvass will be canvassed for their annual contribution for the support of their church.

The 11 churches represented at the meeting last night all signified an intention to participate and it is anticipated there will be other churches in the city also participating. It is expected there will be at least 14. Any other church wishing to participate in the United Church Canvass may contact an official or any member of the committee.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, who served as chairman for the 1950 United Church Canvass, presided at the meeting last evening.

William MacElveen, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate which was elected:

William S. Keyser, Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, chairman; Arthur Hutton, Fair Street Reformed Church, vice chairman; Isaac Craig, Rondout Presbyterian-Baptist Church, treasurer; Edsil Flowers, First Presbyterian Church, secretary; George Chilson, St. John's Episcopal Church, corresponding secretary.

Authority was granted the officers to order sample packets of literature for distribution among the ministers of the churches participating.

William MacElveen reported he had been authorized to offer the facilities of the First Dutch Reformed Church for the kick-off dinner which will be held prior to the canvass. The date for this dinner was not set last evening.

The code will be introduced in the 1952 session of the New York State Legislature, and later in other states.

Four Young Men Held; Two Released To Military Police

Two of four young men arrested Wednesday on disorderly conduct charges were turned over to military authorities from Albany yesterday for allegedly having been absent without leave from the army.

James E. Rowles, 19, of 13 Meadow street, and Arthur Ferro, 19, of 22 Post street, were released to the custody of military police late yesterday afternoon.

Another of the group, Richard C. Bell, 16, of 61 Broadway, who when arraigned Wednesday in city court, pleaded not guilty, changed the plea today and was sentenced by City Judge Raymond J. Mino to three days in the county jail. This time had already been served and he was released.

George Mayr, 18, of 5 Wurts street, was sentenced Wednesday to five days in jail, and police said today they were checking to determine if he was involved as a parolee.

The arrests early Wednesday, police said, were made because the four "could not give an account of their actions" in the DeMicco used car lot to the rear of 334 Broadway.

Three automobile tires, two of them mounted on wheels, figured in a police investigation of the four following their arrests, Lt. William Leonard said, but no charges followed the probe.

Denies McCarthy Act

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Senator Benton (D-Conn.) demanded today that Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) give a U. S. district attorney "any evidence he has to support his charge that several members of Congress have known Communists on their staffs."

Appeal Will Be Made on Monday

Attorney Frank Martocci for the petitioners in the police-firemen pay boost referendum move said at 1:50 p. m. today that the Court of Appeals will hear his appeal on the Appellate Division's decision Monday afternoon.

The petitioners' appeal for a high court order has been denied by the Supreme Court and Appellate Division. The Court of Appeals is scheduled to convene on another matter Monday.

The deadline for filing with the election board to place the proposition on the ballot is Sept. 25.

Meanwhile, the petitioners are scheduled to meet tonight with Frank Martocci, their attorney, to discuss "important matters" pertaining to the effort to place a pay-boost proposition on the November ballot.

Martocci held today that the Appellate Division decision was not conclusive on the point that the petitioners did not have a plan, but said their position does not present "a sufficient plan" to provide for means to raise the required money.

The petitioners' attorney contends that the presenting of "a plan" is all that is required to get the proposition on the ballot, and he holds that the placing of the revenue responsibility with the Common Council in effect is a plan.

Supreme Court Justice Herbert D. Hamm, in his decision on Martocci's move for an order of mandamus to compel the city clerk and the corporation counsel to perform their duties and certify the petition for the November ballot, said the petition failed to contain a plan within the meaning of an amendment to the City Home Rule Law which requires a plan.

This decision in effect was affirmed by that of the Appellate Division yesterday.

No Cause Verdict Given in Accident

Two car owners who were involved in an accident at the junction of the South Ohioville road and route 299 near New Paltz last November failed to recover damages to their cars when a jury in County Court Thursday afternoon returned verdicts of "no cause" on the theory both drivers were negligent. However the wife of each driver received a verdict for personal injuries suffered.

Albert C. Arras and Rocco Simonette sued each other for damage to their cars. Both actions were lost. However, Rose Simonette, a passenger in the car of her husband, was awarded $700 for personal injuries. She sued for $3,000. Dora W. Arras, wife of Albert C. Arras, was awarded $300 for personal injuries. She sued for $1,000. In each of the cases the driver of the other car was the defendant. David W. Corwin appeared for Mr. and Mrs. Simonette and Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Mr. and Mrs. Arras.

Thrift-Minded Americans

Vancouver (AP)—Mike McCormick, Vancouver Tourist Association secretary, claims American tourists are refusing to buy Canadian goods because of "exorbitant prices." He says American visitors spend only 25 per cent of the money they bring across the border.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Fairly general profit-taking today pulled the stock market down from its 1951 peak.

Losses ran to an extreme of a little past $2 a share among leaders. Holdouts against the lower trend were scattered.

Selling started slowly and expanded to a moderate volume, but there was no excessive pressure apparent. Buyers stepped in promptly as prices fell.

At the opening the market was higher but it turned around within an hour.

Nickel Plate moved ahead a couple of points at the opening and then sagged to the minus side before recovering and going higher again. It was one of yesterday's star performers after the Interstate Commerce Commission oked the five-for-one split plan.

Paramount Pictures fell back between 2 and 3 points as holders cashed in their profits on yesterday's startling 6-point jump. The buying yesterday was stirred up by Paramount's presentation of its new color-TV tube as a competitor for the tubes of RCA and CBS. Celotex held on to a portion of its gain today as the aftermath of the 37½-cent extra dividend declaration of two days ago. For a time the action of that company encouraged buying in other building material companies.

Trading was light and price changes small in the bond market. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market were steady.

Krum Is Through, Examination Due; No More Leaves

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren announced today that the Board of Police Commissioners acted yesterday to terminate the leave of Detective William Krum who left the department earlier in the year to take a position with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The board also voted that the department will allow no further leaves of absence unless they are due to illness. They will not be given where the acceptance of other jobs are concerned.

The leave of absence granted to Detective Krum ended Sept. 9. The board voted to ask the Municipal Civil Service Commission to submit a list of eligibility so that an appointment to fill the department vacancy can be made at the October meeting.

The chief said neither the department nor board had heard from the former detective recently and he apparently had made no application for an extension of the leave.

Says U. S. Has Capacity

San Francisco, Sept. 21 (AP)—The nation's defense production chief said today the U. S. has the capacity to pour out 30,000 tanks and 50,000 planes a year—plus strategic stockpiles "to carry us through a year of total war."

121 Arrests Made During August

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren reported to the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday that 121 arrests were made in the city during August and 23 persons were injured in 12 traffic accidents.

Of the arrests, 38 were for public intoxication, 26 for disorderly conduct, 24 for violation of the city traffic code, 16 for violations of the vehicle and traffic laws, and six for third degree assault. Two arrests were made for burglary, third degree, and two for driving while intoxicated. One arrest was made on a second degree assault charge.

Of the 23 injured in accidents, 15 were due to collisions with other motor vehicles, four involved pedestrians, two bicycles, and two were caused by vehicles running off the highway.

Through Red Eyes

Des Moines (AP)—In the Senate recently, Sen. Benson (D-Conn.) reading excerpts from a new Soviet encyclopedia, quoted this item about Iowa. "State in the middle west of the United States . . . Large capitalist farms provide the basic production. All farmers are in great debt to the banks, and farmers' debts, even in the case of full owners, are more than 50 per cent of the value of the farms."

DON'T GUESS ABOUT EQUIPMENT!

If you're confused by the variety of heating systems, the many types of equipment and the claims of those who sell them, don't despair. Just choose a reliable expert to do your worrying.

1 Choose the name brand of a manufacturer who has pioneered gas equipment and development for decades . . . that's Janitrol, made by Surface Combustion.

2 Choose an authorized Janitrol dealer who has proved himself in your community. That's us.

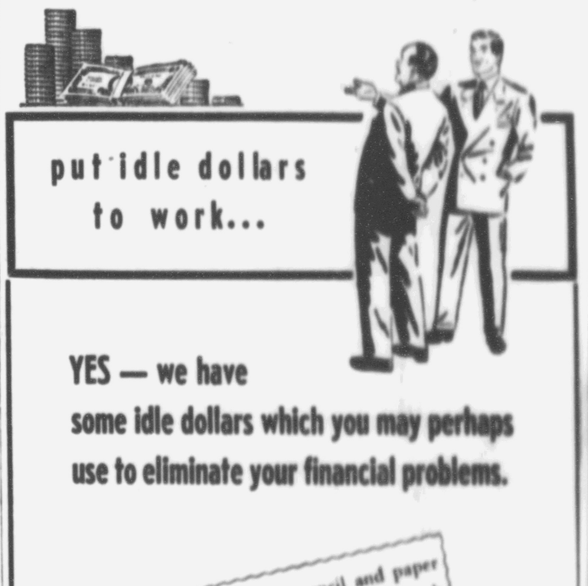

3 Ask your neighbors who have installed Janitrol. Ask about its trouble-free, quiet operation . . . its top-flight performance . . . its economy. That's convincing.

4 Ask us to tell you about the automatic Janitrol unit best suited to your particular needs.

Janitrol has full safety approvals; it's a favorite with the folks who know. And that's a fact. Don't let indifference or lack of knowledge rob you of the really enjoyable winters Janitrol can bring into your home.

FORCING RELEASE OF OATIS

In his lecture tour throughout the country, Frederic Snyder is carrying the cause to free AP Newsman William Oatis, who languishes in a Czechoslovakian jail.

Rotary clubs in all parts of the country have passed vibrant resolutions, similar to the Kingston Rotary Club, seeking the release of this reporter. They also are distributing labels, "Keep Notice of Oatis."

The efforts of this service organization together with other clubs in bringing this matter to the State Department are bringing results in the form of painful pressure on the Czechs. The goal is to isolate the Czechs from the trade benefits of the free world. If we succeed in tightening the noose, the anguish should soon be acute.

The most effective step thus far is the Western powers' blockade of the Czech Air Line, which now is barred from France to Britain and over Western Germany. Since the cost of round-about flights to other western nations is almost prohibitive and the returns insufficient, this to all practical intents puts the Czech line out of business internationally.

They understand that to get rid of the airban and other restrictions they will have to release Oatis. Publicly they declare this impossible, and Moscow has even joined the refrain. But if we continue our efforts, the story is very likely to be a different one.

Home building contractors must enjoy the buyers who can hardly wait until the dream home is far enough along that they can start making changes.

ATTITUDE TOWARD WORK

Two men who owned adjoining properties started to dig foundations for new houses on the same day. Both of the men were hard workers, and although they were using only picks and shovels they had made considerable progress by lunch time.

As the afternoon wore on one of the men grew tired; he was able to think only of the work he had done and the work that lay before him. With every stroke of the pick and each scoop of the shovel he thought of the many feet of digging he would still have to do. After a while he was so frightened by the prospect of the great hole he would have to dig that he gave up.

The other man also felt the effects of his labor but he was not thinking about digging a hole. He was too busy concentrating on the fact that he was making ready a foundation for future comfort. As he perspired he thought how pleasant it would be to sit on the front porch of the house which might be built over the spot where he dug. He was able to maintain this state of mind, and after much hard work he finished his digging and went on to build his home.

A little imagination and the ability to see the benefit of the completed task will often make the difficult labor of the moment seem easier. This same reasoning may apply to the job of making our nation strong. The hardship of the work and the taxation we shall have to undergo might be easier to bear if we regard each sacrifice as a step toward an eventual peace and a sense of security.

All may come to him who waits, but the fellow who puts his shoulder to the wheel can hurry the coming.

MODERN SUITS OF ARMOR

Some of the American soldiers in Korea may soon be outfitted with a twentieth century version of the armor worn by medieval knights. Plastic clothing designed to protect soldiers from shrapnel and some small-arms fire may be introduced in Korea, to see whether it is effective, and whether its use impedes the mobility of the combat soldier.

Also developed is a new plastic helmet to replace the steel helmet worn by soldiers during World War II. The plastic helmets will be covered with a removable aluminum cover which the wearer can use for washing clothes, boiling water, bathing and the countless other uses to which soldiers put the steel helmets during the last war.

The Army is constantly seeking news ways to improve the efficiency of its troops. It may be that the protective clothing will have as much effect on the morale of the soldiers as it has in any other way. If the clothing would serve to reduce the number of wounded and dead by only a few it would be worth all the money and time spent to develop it.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

MR. COUSINS'S REPLIES

Some time ago, I published in this column various statements made by Representative John Taber of New York concerning Norman Cousins, editor of "The Saturday Review of Literature," and his activities in India under the auspices of the State Department. The main contention of John Taber was that Cousins spoke not for the United States but for the World Federalists, although he travelled on the American taxpayers' expense account.

Mr. Cousins telephoned to me and wrote me a letter. He did not quarrel with me or accuse me of lack of good faith. Nor did he say that Representative John Taber spoke in bad faith. His attitude is stated in his opening sentence:

"I do not question Congressman Taber's good faith in criticizing my trip, nor your good faith in commenting on the case in your column. . . ."

Now when anyone approaches a difference of opinion in that spirit, he is entitled to state his case. And Mr. Cousins' case is that he did a good job for the United States and lost money on it. This is what he says his job in India was:

"My job, as it was explained to me, was to talk to opinion moulders—writers, editors, newspapermen, teachers, ministers, government officials, businessmen, etc.—as well as to lecture before university groups, commerce associations, civic organizations, etc. The arrangements for these lectures were to be made by our local consular and information service people. I was to speak as an individual American citizen. It would be made clear to the lecture groups that, though I came under the auspices of the American government, I was completely free to give my own opinions, just as I did in the United States. The advantage of this was obvious: It would dramatize the traditional concept of American free speech."

Of course, the question is not the wisdom of speaking to persons in foreign countries about the United States, but what one says. For example, if, the Lord forbid, I were running the Voice of America, I should not do the job as it is now being done, because I think much that is being beamed to various countries, while well-intentioned, is not understandable to some of these peoples. Many are not interested in things but in ideas. Unfortunately William Benton, an advertising man, gave our propaganda agency its general tone, and his forte is selling things, not propagating ideas, beliefs, faiths.

So, my quarrel with Mr. Cousins was based on newspaper clippings reporting what he said, which gave Congressman Taber and myself the impression that Cousins was promoting world federalism, a concept which has never been part of American policy. It has never been supported either by the people, Congress or publicly by the State Department.

On the subject of what he said on the trip to India and other places, Mr. Cousins comments:

". . . I was frequently asked why it is that a great deal of war talk emanates from the United States, and why it is that only talk of peace comes from the Soviet Union. I tried to establish the fact that, Communist propaganda to the contrary, the American people were openly dedicated to the cause of peace. It was important for the world's peoples to know (that) . . . we were not interested in peace if it meant the shattering of moral and democratic values in the world. We were not interested in peace if it could be obtained only by spending our lives on our knees. . . .

"Making it clear that I spoke only for myself, and as an individual American citizen, I said I believed that true peace could only be achieved through the creation of world law. The United Nations, I said, required the full support of all peoples sincerely concerned with the conditions of peace. . . .

". . . In short, I argued for a United Nations authority to enact, interpret, and enforce world law. . . ."

Although I cannot see how the United Nations can enforce the law or anything else, Norman Cousins is entitled, in a free country, to his views and to an opportunity to say it. The human race has been seeking a road to peace since Isaiah and has not found it. Shall we say that no one will ever discover a road to peace? That is too pessimistic a view of human mentality and character. Thus far, there is no evidence, however, that the United Nations has the formula for peace.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

SEX HORMONES IN TREATMENT OF ACNE

Acne (pimples) is neither painful nor dangerous, and it clears up itself in the majority of cases shortly after puberty (12 to 14 in girls and 14 to 16 in boys). However, acne causes a great amount of embarrassment and may be the cause of an inferiority complex. It occurs just when boys and girls want to look their best.

For many years the cause of acne was unknown, although physicians and skin specialists found that diet was a factor and cutting out or cutting down on certain foods helped many cases. In recent years, since the importance of the endocrine glands (ductless glands) has been observed, and as most cases of acne in boys and girls first appear at or shortly before puberty, gland change is considered the most important factor.

The fact that gland change is the cause, not lack of personal cleanliness, removes any stigma regarding acne.

In Archives of Dermatology and Syphilology, Drs. Stuart C. Way (San Francisco) and George C. Andrews (New York city) report their observations on the treatment of acne by sex extracts. Average age of the 100 patients (girls and young women) was 23.7 years and acne had been present about 4.6 years. Acne was on the face only in 61 per cent; on other parts of the body also in the rest.

Other forms of treatment had given temporary relief in 26 per cent. Diet treatment definitely influenced the disease in 45 per cent. The monthly periods were normal in 90 per cent, but in 74 per cent the acne was worse before monthlies began.

Treatment was with the female sex hormone—X-estradiol—and also male hormone—progesterone or testosterone—dissolved in propylene glycol. An interval of seven days between injections was found most satisfactory. This was increased to 14 days as soon as improvement was noted. Lack of improvement after six injections was followed by a change of treatment. Progesterone was used in 95 per cent of the patients, testosterone in 44 per cent and x-estradiol in 7 per cent. X-estradiol was discontinued because of its lack of effect.

Results were judged by the number of acne lesions (pimples) at the patient's last visit and recurrences while she was under observation. The response was good in 50 per cent, fair in 22 per cent; there was no improvement in the rest. Acne returned in 56 per cent but further treatment was again successful.

The strange part about these cases of acne is that they seem to be caused by too much hormone in one person and by not enough in another.

A Coy Trick Invented by Democratic Presidents

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — It was never meant to be published, but Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the army chief of staff, has written a private letter to the spokesman for the 88 discharged West Point cadets. In it he made the strange statement that while they were not good enough to be West Point officers they were still good enough to be army officers.

"I will say for the army that your separation from West Point in itself will not be grounds for disbarment from the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, Officer Candidate Schools, or other similar programs under army jurisdiction," General Collins wrote to the discharged cadets through their spokesman, Herbert Johnson.

In other words, the army's military boss officially recognizes what reserve officers have so bitterly criticized, that the West Point clique is a separate and superior caste. In contrast, General Marshall, who retired last week, was not a West Pointer, while many civilian universities which turn out reserve officers maintain the highest ethical and academic standards.

General Collins' letter, explaining his policy, stated: "The frank admission of guilt and wholesome spirit of repentance which I find . . . confirm my first impression that those involved in this affair, while openly admitting their violation of the cadet code of honor, are not fundamentally men of bad morals or character.

Reasons for Leniency

"They have, however, fallen into evil ways. They have not, in the words of the cadet prayer, preferred the 'harder right instead of the easier wrong,' and in their failure have brought sorrow upon themselves and upon the military academy.

"Many of your group," General Collins continued, "have made partial amends for this past offense by the straightforward way in which you have assisted the authorities in investigating this matter and in putting the situation to rights.

"I sincerely hope that you will all leave the academy determined to redeem this early fault by the character of the lives which you lead hereafter."

NOTE: Though past violators of the honor code received dishonorable discharges, Collins showed special leniency to the 88. He explained to them: "I did not feel that the conduct of the cadets warranted the usual discharge presently given in honor cases; that is to say, one which indicated discharge under conditions other than honorable. However, in justice to cadets who have received this type of discharge for honor offenses in the past, one cannot justify an honorable discharge in the present case. Instead, it has been decided to allow the cadets to resign and to receive a simple administrative discharge without specification as to circumstances."

Eisenhower Reports

General Eisenhower is well satisfied with the progress of western Europe's defense program, he told a congressional group in Paris recently. Then he added: "But the job I'd like to see accomplished isn't half done."

Eisenhower figures it will take another year, "probably by the end of 1952," to get our Atlantic Pact allies in top shape, militarily and economically.

He explained that he was thinking in terms of "total defense" against possible Soviet aggression anywhere this side of the Iron Curtain. This didn't mean, he said, that Atlantic Pact armies under him aren't already prepared to give a good account of themselves if called to action in the meantime.

Ike added some pointed provisos to the Capitol Hill delegation, led by Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, one of which was that the people of the United States and Congress must not "let down" in their support of the Atlantic Pact program.

"I know that most Americans realize that we cannot afford to let that happen, with the world in its present state," Eisenhower emphasized. "Too much is at stake."

Selling America

Other provisos Ike mentioned were the continuance of some economic aid to our European allies as well as efforts to sell America behind the Iron Curtain. While he didn't mention specifically propaganda balloons, he made it clear that we cannot afford to overlook any device to get the truth of our sincere peace efforts to Russian satellites.

He also strongly endorsed a proposal by Rep. Harold Cooley of North Carolina, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, that advanced American farming techniques be put to work in western Europe to conserve the soil and increase food production.

Eisenhower said he wasn't too much concerned about Communist activity and anti-U. S. propaganda this side of the Iron Curtain. But he is seriously concerned about another Israeli-Arab outbreak, which Russia might parlay into a third world war.

None of Eisenhower's callers had the nerve to ask him about the top political question on this side of the Atlantic—whether he will run for president. One or two looked at each other hopefully, thinking the other would pop the question. But when they filed out, not one extra ray of light had been shed on this subject.

Senate Dialects

Everyone likes handsome Sen. Burnett Maybank of South Carolina, but his colleagues sometimes have difficulty understanding him. Maybank comes from the low country" around Charleston, where both Negroes and whites speak a dialect of their own.

As a result, senators sitting right next to Maybank sometimes have no idea what he is saying.

At a recent Senate Banking Committee meeting, for instance, Maybank rattled off an explanation of a new bill. Senator Flanders, Vermont Republican, listened carefully. Then in his New England drawl he remarked: "To paraphrase Voltaire, I don't understand a word you say, but I'll defend your right to say it."

Washington Pipeline

Though she stands aces with new Secretary of Defense Lovett, dynamic Assistant Secretary Anna Rosenberg may resign. She was brought in by George Marshall to cut the waste out of armed services' manpower and has nearly accomplished her mission. . . . In a swift week-end operation, Michigan's Sen. Blair Moody and Walter Reuther, of the Auto Workers, talked Defense Mobilizer Charley Wilson out of $800,000 in contracts to keep 40,000 Detroit workers from walking the streets. . . . Writer Frieda Utley, a violent Chiang Kai-shek partisan and ally of the Chinese Embassy, is coaching Sen. Pat McCarran's probe of alleged Communists in the State Department. . . . Conscientious Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois is one of the most sensitive men ever to enter politics. When a Senate Banking Committee toured the miserable slums of Washington, the gentle, Quaker-taught Douglas wept just a little.

Truman Statement Shows He Needs Different Code of Ethics as Regards Agencies

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 21—President Truman needs a new code of ethics if upon further reflection what he said at his press conference Thursday isn't soon reversed.

The President declared, for instance, it was all right for the officials and workers in the Democratic National Committee to introduce people to such lending agencies as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation just so long as they didn't get any fees or payment for establishing such contacts.

But doesn't Mr. Truman realize that an introduction from the Democratic National Committee member of its personnel carries with it far more influence than an introduction to a private bank which has an altogether different attitude toward its depositors' money than RFC officials seem to have had?

For one thing, it is the rule under the Truman administration that most all important appointments have to be "cleared" through the office of the Democratic national chairman. So long as appointments to office are made on such a political basis, every appointee is bound to respect the wishes or at least consider with greater weight the introductions or contacts brought about through Democratic National Committee help.

It has been disclosed that William M. Boyle received fees as a lawyer just before he became Democratic national chairman and that his law partner continued to receive fees after a loan was obtained from the RFC by a St. Louis printing firm. That same loan had previously been denied by the RFC three times. The Senate testimony shows that suddenly after some telephone conversations between the RFC office in St. Louis and a friend of Mr. Boyle in which reference was made to the "committee," the RFC loan was granted. The friend was E. Merl Young, whose wife used to work at the White House and got a "mink coat." Mr. Young admitted he was a "volunteer worker" on the Democratic National Committee at the time the St. Louis printing company loan was being sought.

Yet Mr. Truman washes his hands of the whole business and says that while nobody, not even a volunteer worker, should get fees if he is a part of the Democratic National Committee, nevertheless it is the duty of the committee personnel to help anybody who comes along and wants an introduction to government lending agencies.

The President overlooks the fact that there are Republicans as well as Democrats paying taxes and that their money also is being loaned by the RFC. To allow a lending agency entrusted with public funds to be in any way related to a national political committee which engages in this type of political influence is something that ought to be repudiated instead of condoned.

Coming on top of the various scandals in the RFC, uncovered by the Senate Investigating Committee, Mr. Truman's attitude at his press conference gives an impression of casualness which is either the product of the Pendergast school of politics or the manisfestation of a curious naivete.

Mr. Truman cannot seriously believe that the American people will accept his indifference to unethical conduct on the part of members of his political family and that "prosperity" will erase all opposition to his administration at the polls next time.

For the history of politics shows that morality is a deeper cause of concern and can wipe out the "prosperity" advantage of any incumbent party. To say, for example, that a mayor or governor or Democratic member of Congress can be a crook and yet if the people are prosperous he will be re-elected is to reflect on the intelligence of the men and women who today compose the American electorate.

Mr. Truman's attitude toward the wrongdoing that surrounds his administration is one of bold indifference. He calls it all a smear or a misrepresentation. But the facts that are coming out of the congressional committees will be weighed by the voters. The big issue of 1952 may be reminiscent of the slogans of yesteryears when the people were asked to "turn the rascals out!" —and usually did.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 20—In the Cosmopolitan magazine for September, Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning, a fictioneer who has always maintained the standard, optimtistic decencies, tees off on the forthcoming Kinsey report to be entitled "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female." Mrs. Banning is a distaff Clarence Budington Kelland, if they don't mind, as neither of them should, because the comparison is mutually complimentary. Dirty situations, and dialog appropriate thereto, have been out of their line and although they have been held in mild derision by the backfence literati for their avoidance of filth, they have depicted the American scene in a time of turmoil much more truly than the school whose own depravity has led them into the error of judging the genteel southern white population by themselves.

Mrs. Banning shrewdly observes that the new Kinsey report has a long ballyhoo! Which justifies a doubt that it is intended only as a scientific survey of human behavior to add to the sum of our knowledge. Even though Kinsey deplores and refutes some of this propaganda, nevertheless, Mrs. Banning says, "no great novel, no vital war record, no statesman's revelations ever had such advance publicity—publicity that emanates not only from those interested in promoting the volume but also from those who have nothing to do with it but hope to capitalize on the public's avid interest in the Kinsey studies. Any normal scientific study would shrink from such fanfare. Perhaps the authors of this report do. But the freakish success of the first Kinsey book created an unprecedented situation. And because the sexual life of the female has always been more mysterious than that of the male, public curiosity is reaching a new high."

Independently, I have suspected that, with very few exceptions, women who would submit to the impudent inquiries which are the basis of the Kinsey discussion and findings and answer them, whether truthfully or not, are tramps whose experience would be worthless except as a confirmation of the notorious wantonnes of tramps. If I am right, and Mrs. Banning seems to me to share my opinion, then the book would seem to be merely a compilation of unreliable statements of a generally immoral quality, tending to confirm the obvious.

"We all know women who are willing and eager to talk about themselves in relation to sex," Mrs. Banning writes. "They will not only tell all to the Kinsey investigator but they are likely to get you in a corner and pour out their experiences. In my experience, they far outnumber the frank, honest, thoughtful women who because it might be useful to society, would agree to such an interview and approach it in a cool and precise attempt to add to the data on female sex life. There are such women. I only hope doctor Kinsey and his staff reached many of them. But how many such women are there and can they be considered typical? x x x I cannot believe that approximately 10,000 women, many inevitably victims of maladjusted sexual lives, can be representative of those millions whose religion, modesty and reticence would keep them from a heart-to-heart talk with a Kinsey investigator."

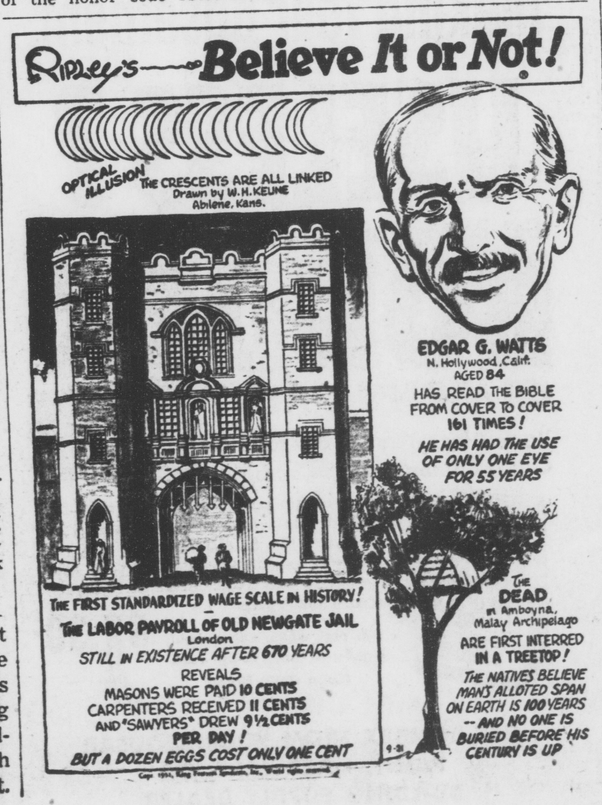

I wonder how a lady of such sensitive intelligence and spiritual dignity could have brought herself to write an outlandish endorsement of Eleanor Roosevelt's autobiography when it began to roll in 1949. In that case she turned to and hammered an old wash-boiler as gracelessly as anyone has hollered up the Kinsey books.

It is not my intention to discuss Mrs. Roosevelt in relation to the subjects in the Kinsey report, but she and Mrs. Banning seem to be at odds in their attitude toward sexual depravity. Only a few months ago, in that department of McCall's Magazine which Mrs. Banning gratuitously recommended, even to absolute strangers, Mrs. Roosevelt expressed an evasive opinion on the subject of sexual abnormality. If I judge her character fairly, Mrs. Banning would have written an unmistakable condemnation instead of Mrs. Roosevelt's comment:

". . . Homosexuality is thought of as an abnormality and people usually are somewhat harder on anything that seems to them somewhat abnormal." She had been asked whether homosexual

FORCING RELEASE OF OATIS

In his lecture tour throughout the country, Frederic Snyder is carrying the cause to free AP Newsman William Oatis, who languishes in a Czechoslovakian jail.

Rotary clubs in all parts of the country have passed vibrant resolutions, similar to the Kingston Rotary Club, seeking the release of this reporter. They also are distributing labels, "Keep Notice of Oatis."

The efforts of this service organization together with other clubs in bringing this matter to the State Department are bringing results in the form of painful pressure on the Czechs. The goal is to isolate the Czechs from the trade benefits of the free world. If we succeed in tightening the noose, the anguish should soon be acute.

The most effective step thus far is the Western powers' blockade of the Czech Air Line, which now is barred from France to Britain and over Western Germany. Since the cost of round-about flights to other western nations is almost prohibitive and the returns insufficient, this to all practical intents puts the Czech line out of business internationally.

They understand that to get rid of the airban and other restrictions they will have to release Oatis. Publicly they declare this impossible, and Moscow has even joined the refrain. But if we continue our efforts, the story is very likely to be a different one.

Home building contractors must enjoy the buyers who can hardly wait until the dream home is far enough along that they can start making changes.

ATTITUDE TOWARD WORK

Two men who owned adjoining properties started to dig foundations for new houses on the same day. Both of the men were hard workers, and although they were using only picks and shovels they had made considerable progress by lunch time.

As the afternoon wore on one of the men grew tired; he was able to think only of the work he had done and the work that lay before him. With every stroke of the pick and each scoop of the shovel he thought of the many feet of digging he would still have to do. After a while he was so frightened by the prospect of the great hole he would have to dig that he gave up.

The other man also felt the effects of his labor but he was not thinking about digging a hole. He was too busy concentrating on the fact that he was making ready a foundation for future comfort. As he perspired he thought how pleasant it would be to sit on the front porch of the house which might be built over the spot where he dug. He was able to maintain this state of mind, and after much hard work he finished his digging and went on to build his home.

A little imagination and the ability to see the benefit of the completed task will often make the difficult labor of the moment seem easier. This same reasoning may apply to the job of making our nation strong. The hardship of the work and the taxation we shall have to undergo might be easier to bear if we regard each sacrifice as a step toward an eventual peace and a sense of security.

All may come to him who waits, but the fellow who puts his shoulder to the wheel can hurry the coming.

MODERN SUITS OF ARMOR

Some of the American soldiers in Korea may soon be outfitted with a twentieth century version of the armor worn by medieval knights. Plastic clothing designed to protect soldiers from shrapnel and some small-arms fire may be introduced in Korea, to see whether it is effective, and whether its use impedes the mobility of the combat soldier.

Also developed is a new plastic helmet to replace the steel helmet worn by soldiers during World War II. The plastic helmets will be covered with a removable aluminum cover which the wearer can use for washing clothes, boiling water, bathing and the countless other uses to which soldiers put the steel helmets during the last war.

The Army is constantly seeking news ways to improve the efficiency of its troops. It may be that the protective clothing will have as much effect on the morale of the soldiers as it has in any other way. If the clothing would serve to reduce the number of wounded and dead by only a few it would be worth all the money and time spent to develop it.

'These Days'

MR. COUSINS'S REPLIES

Some time ago, I published in this column various statements made by Representative John Taber of New York concerning Norman Cousins, editor of "The Saturday Review of Literature," and his activities in India under the auspices of the State Department. The main contention of John Taber was that Cousins spoke not for the United States but for the World Federalists, although he travelled on the American taxpayers' expense account.

Mr. Cousins telephoned to me and wrote me a letter. He did not quarrel with me or accuse me of lack of good faith. Nor did he say that Representative John Taber spoke in bad faith. His attitude is stated in his opening sentence:

"I do not question Congressman Taber's good faith in criticizing my trip, nor your good faith in commenting on the case in your column. . . ."

Now when anyone approaches a difference of opinion in that spirit, he is entitled to state his case. And Mr. Cousins' case is that he did a good job for the United States and lost money on it. This is what he says his job in India was:

"My job, as it was explained to me, was to talk to opinion moulders—writers, editors, newspapermen, teachers, ministers, government officials, businessmen, etc.—as well as to lecture before university groups, commerce associations, civic organizations, etc. The arrangements for these lectures were to be made by our local consular and information service people. I was to speak as an individual American citizen. It would be made clear to the lecture groups that, though I came under the auspices of the American government, I was completely free to give my own opinions, just as I did in the United States. The advantage of this was obvious: It would dramatize the traditional concept of American free speech."

Of course, the question is not the wisdom of speaking to persons in foreign countries about the United States, but what one says. For example, if, the Lord forbid, I were running the Voice of America, I should not do the job as it is now being done, because I think much that is being beamed to various countries, while well-intentioned, is not understandable to some of these peoples. Many are not interested in things but in ideas. Unfortunately William Benton, an advertising man, gave our propaganda agency its general tone, and his forte is selling things, not propagating ideas, beliefs, faiths.

So, my quarrel with Mr. Cousins was based on newspaper clippings reporting what he said, which gave Congressman Taber and myself the impression that Cousins was promoting world federalism, a concept which has never been part of American policy. It has never been supported either by the people, Congress or publicly by the State Department.

On the subject of what he said on the trip to India and other places, Mr. Cousins comments:

". . . I was frequently asked why it is that a great deal of war talk emanates from the United States, and why it is that only talk of peace comes from the Soviet Union. I tried to establish the fact that, Communist propaganda to the contrary, the American people were openly dedicated to the cause of peace. It was important for the world's peoples to know (that) . . . we were not interested in peace if it meant the shattering of moral and democratic values in the world. We were not interested in peace if it could be obtained only by spending our lives on our knees. . . .

"Making it clear that I spoke only for myself, and as an individual American citizen, I said I believed that true peace could only be achieved through the creation of world law. The United Nations, I said, required the full support of all peoples sincerely concerned with the conditions of peace. . . .

". . . In short, I argued for a United Nations authority to enact, interpret, and enforce world law. . . ."

Although I cannot see how the United Nations can enforce the law or anything else, Norman Cousins is entitled, in a free country, to his views and to an opportunity to say it. The human race has been seeking a road to peace since Isaiah and has not found it. Shall we say that no one will ever discover a road to peace? That is too pessimistic a view of human mentality and character. Thus far, there is no evidence, however, that the United Nations has the formula for peace.

SEX HORMONES IN TREATMENT OF ACNE

Acne (pimples) is neither painful nor dangerous, and it clears up itself in the majority of cases shortly after puberty (12 to 14 in girls and 14 to 16 in boys). However, acne causes a great amount of embarrassment and may be the cause of an inferiority complex. It occurs just when boys and girls want to look their best.

For many years the cause of acne was unknown, although physicians and skin specialists found that diet was a factor and cutting out or cutting down on certain foods helped many cases. In recent years, since the importance of the endocrine glands (ductless glands) has been observed, and as most cases of acne in boys and girls first appear at or shortly before puberty, gland change is considered the most important factor.

The fact that gland change is the cause, not lack of personal cleanliness, removes any stigma regarding acne.

In Archives of Dermatology and Syphilology, Drs. Stuart C. Way (San Francisco) and George C. Andrews (New York city) report their observations on the treatment of acne by sex extracts. Average age of the 100 patients (girls and young women) was 23.7 years and acne had been present about 4.6 years. Acne was on the face only in 61 per cent; on other parts of the body also in the rest.

Other forms of treatment had given temporary relief in 26 per cent. Diet treatment definitely influenced the disease in 45 per cent. The monthly periods were normal in 90 per cent, but in 74 per cent the acne was worse before monthlies began.

Treatment was with the female sex hormone—X-estradiol—and also male hormone—progesterone or testosterone—dissolved in propylene glycol. An interval of seven days between injections was found most satisfactory. This was increased to 14 days as soon as improvement was noted. Lack of improvement after six injections was followed by a change of treatment. Progesterone was used in 95 per cent of the patients, testosterone in 44 per cent and x-estradiol in 7 per cent. X-estradiol was discontinued because of its lack of effect.

Results were judged by the number of acne lesions (pimples) at the patient's last visit and recurrences while she was under observation. The response was good in 50 per cent, fair in 22 per cent; there was no improvement in the rest. Acne returned in 56 per cent but further treatment was again successful.

The strange part about these cases of acne is that they seem to be caused by too much hormone in one person and by not enough in another.

A Coy Trick Invented by Democratic Presidents

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — It was never meant to be published, but Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the army chief of staff, has written a private letter to the spokesman for the 88 discharged West Point cadets. In it he made the strange statement that while they were not good enough to be West Point officers they were still good enough to be army officers.

"I will say for the army that your separation from West Point in itself will not be grounds for disbarment from the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, Officer Candidate Schools, or other similar programs under army jurisdiction," General Collins wrote to the discharged cadets through their spokesman, Herbert Johnson.

In other words, the army's military boss officially recognizes what reserve officers have so bitterly criticized, that the West Point clique is a separate and superior caste. In contrast, General Marshall, who retired last week, was not a West Pointer, while many civilian universities which turn out reserve officers maintain the highest ethical and academic standards.

General Collins' letter, explaining his policy, stated: "The frank admission of guilt and wholesome spirit of repentance which I find . . . confirm my first impression that those involved in this affair, while openly admitting their violation of the cadet code of honor, are not fundamentally men of bad morals or character.

Reasons for Leniency

"They have, however, fallen into evil ways. They have not, in the words of the cadet prayer, preferred the 'harder right instead of the easier wrong,' and in their failure have brought sorrow upon themselves and upon the military academy.

"Many of your group," General Collins continued, "have made partial amends for this past offense by the straightforward way in which you have assisted the authorities in investigating this matter and in putting the situation to rights.

"I sincerely hope that you will all leave the academy determined to redeem this early fault by the character of the lives which you lead hereafter."

NOTE: Though past violators of the honor code received dishonorable discharges, Collins showed special leniency to the 88. He explained to them: "I did not feel that the conduct of the cadets warranted the usual discharge presently given in honor cases; that is to say, one which indicated discharge under conditions other than honorable. However, in justice to cadets who have received this type of discharge for honor offenses in the past, one cannot justify an honorable discharge in the present case. Instead, it has been decided to allow the cadets to resign and to receive a simple administrative discharge without specification as to circumstances."

Eisenhower Reports

General Eisenhower is well satisfied with the progress of western Europe's defense program, he told a congressional group in Paris recently. Then he added: "But the job I'd like to see accomplished isn't half done."

Eisenhower figures it will take another year, "probably by the end of 1952," to get our Atlantic Pact allies in top shape, militarily and economically.

He explained that he was thinking in terms of "total defense" against possible Soviet aggression anywhere this side of the Iron Curtain. This didn't mean, he said, that Atlantic Pact armies under him aren't already prepared to give a good account of themselves if called to action in the meantime.

Ike added some pointed provisos to the Capitol Hill delegation, led by Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, one of which was that the people of the United States and Congress must not "let down" in their support of the Atlantic Pact program.

"I know that most Americans realize that we cannot afford to let that happen, with the world in its present state," Eisenhower emphasized. "Too much is at stake."

Selling America

Other provisos Ike mentioned were the continuance of some economic aid to our European allies as well as efforts to sell America behind the Iron Curtain. While he didn't mention specifically propaganda balloons, he made it clear that we cannot afford to overlook any device to get the truth of our sincere peace efforts to Russian satellites.

He also strongly endorsed a proposal by Rep. Harold Cooley of North Carolina, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, that advanced American farming techniques be put to work in western Europe to conserve the soil and increase food production.

Eisenhower said he wasn't too much concerned about Communist activity and anti-U. S. propaganda this side of the Iron Curtain. But he is seriously concerned about another Israeli-Arab outbreak, which Russia might parlay into a third world war.

None of Eisenhower's callers had the nerve to ask him about the top political question on this side of the Atlantic—whether he will run for president. One or two looked at each other hopefully, thinking the other would pop the question. But when they filed out, not one extra ray of light had been shed on this subject.

Senate Dialects

Everyone likes handsome Sen. Burnett Maybank of South Carolina, but his colleagues sometimes have difficulty understanding him. Maybank comes from the low country around Charleston, where both Negroes and whites speak a dialect of their own.

As a result, senators sitting right next to Maybank sometimes have no idea what he is saying.

At a recent Senate Banking Committee meeting, for instance, Maybank rattled off an explanation of a new bill. Senator Flanders, Vermont Republican, listened carefully. Then in his New England drawl he remarked: "To paraphrase Voltaire, I don't understand a word you say, but I'll defend your right to say it."

Truman Statement Shows He Needs Different Code of Ethics as Regards Agencies

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 21—President Truman needs a new code of ethics if upon further reflection what he said at his press conference Thursday isn't soon reversed.

The President declared, for instance, it was all right for the officials and workers in the Democratic National Committee to introduce people to such lending agencies as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation just so long as they didn't get any fees or payment for establishing such contacts.

But doesn't Mr. Truman realize that an introduction from the Democratic National Committee member of its personnel carries with it far more influence than an introduction to a private bank which has an altogether different attitude toward its depositors' money than RFC officials seem to have had?

For one thing, it is the rule under the Truman administration that most all important appointments have to be "cleared" through the office of the Democratic national chairman. So long as appointments to office are made on such a political basis, every appointee is bound to respect the wishes or at least consider with greater weight the introductions or contacts brought about through Democratic National Committee help.

It has been disclosed that William M. Boyle received fees as a lawyer just before he became Democratic national chairman and that his law partner continued to receive fees after a loan was obtained from the RFC by a St. Louis printing firm. That same loan had previously been denied by the RFC three times. The Senate testimony shows that suddenly after some telephone conversations between the RFC office in St. Louis and a friend of Mr. Boyle in which reference was made to the "committee," the RFC loan was granted. The friend was E. Merl Young, whose wife used to work at the White House and got a "mink coat." Mr. Young admitted he was a "volunteer worker" on the Democratic National Committee at the time the St. Louis printing company loan was being sought.

Yet Mr. Truman washes his hands of the whole business and says that while nobody, not even a volunteer worker, should get fees if he is a part of the Democratic National Committee, nevertheless it is the duty of the committee personnel to help anybody who comes along and wants an introduction to government lending agencies.

The President overlooks the fact that there are Republicans as well as Democrats paying taxes and that their money also is being loaned by the RFC. To allow a lending agency entrusted with public funds to be in any way related to a national political committee which engages in this type of political influence is something that ought to be repudiated instead of condoned.

Coming on top of the various scandals in the RFC, uncovered by the Senate Investigating Committee, Mr. Truman's attitude at his press conference gives an impression of casualness which is either the product of the Pendergast school of politics or the manisfestation of a curious naivete.

Mr. Truman cannot seriously believe that the American people will accept his indifference to unethical conduct on the part of members of his political family and that "prosperity" will erase all opposition to his administration at the polls next time.

For the history of politics shows that morality is a deeper cause of concern and can wipe out the "prosperity" advantage of any incumbent party. To say, for example, that a mayor or governor or Democratic member of Congress can be a crook and yet if the people are prosperous he will be re-elected is to reflect on the intelligence of the men and women who today compose the American electorate.

Mr. Truman's attitude toward the wrongdoing that surrounds his administration is one of bold indifference. He calls it all a smear or a misrepresentation. But the facts that are coming out of the congressional committees will be weighed by the voters. The big issue of 1952 may be reminiscent of the slogans of yesteryears when the people were asked to "turn the rascals out!"—and usually did.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 20—In the Cosmopolitan magazine for September, Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning, a fictioneer who has always maintained the standard, optimtistic decencies, tees off on the forthcoming Kinsey report to be entitled "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female." Mrs. Banning is a distaff Clarence Budington Kelland, if they don't mind, as neither of them should, because the comparison is mutually complimentary. Dirty situations, and dialog appropriate thereto, have been out of their line and although they have been held in mild derision by the backfence literati for their avoidance of filth, they have depicted the American scene in a time of turmoil much more truly than the school whose own depravity has led them into the error of judging the genteel southern white population by themselves.

Mrs. Banning shrewdly observes that the new Kinsey report has a long ballyhoo! Which justifies a doubt that it is intended only as a scientific survey of human behavior to add to the sum of our knowledge. Even though Kinsey deplores and refutes some of this propaganda, nevertheless, Mrs. Banning says, "no great novel, no vital war record, no statesman's revelations ever had such advance publicity—publicity that emanates not only from those interested in promoting the volume but also from those who have nothing to do with it but hope to capitalize on the public's avid interest in the Kinsey studies. Any normal scientific study would shrink from such fanfare. Perhaps the authors of this report do. But the freakish success of the first Kinsey book created an unprecedented situation. And because the sexual life of the female has always been more mysterious than that of the male, public curiosity is reaching a new high."

Independently, I have suspected that, with very few exceptions, women who would submit to the impudent inquiries which are the basis of the Kinsey discussion and findings and answer them, whether truthfully or not, are tramps whose experience would be worthless except as a confirmation of the notorious wantonnes of tramps. If I am right, and Mrs. Banning seems to me to share my opinion, then the book would seem to be merely a compilation of unreliable statements of a generally immoral quality, tending to confirm the obvious.

"We all know women who are willing and eager to talk about themselves in relation to sex," Mrs. Banning writes. "They will not only tell all to the Kinsey investigator but they are likely to get you in a corner and pour out their experiences. In my experience, they far outnumber the frank, honest, thoughtful women who because it might be useful to society, would agree to such an interview and approach it in a cool and precise attempt to add to the data on female sex life. There are such women. I only hope doctor Kinsey and his staff reached many of them. But how many such women are there and can they be considered typical? x x x I cannot believe that approximately 10,000 women, many inevitably victims of maladjusted sexual lives, can be representative of those millions whose religion, modesty and reticence would keep them from a heart-to-heart talk with a Kinsey investigator."

I wonder how a lady of such sensitive intelligence and spiritual dignity could have brought herself to write an outlandish endorsement of Eleanor Roosevelt's autobiography when it began to roll in 1949. In that case she turned to and hammered an old wash-boiler as gracelessly as anyone has hollered up the Kinsey books.

It is not my intention to discuss Mrs. Roosevelt in relation to the subjects in the Kinsey report, but she and Mrs. Banning seem to be at odds in their attitude toward sexual depravity. Only a few months ago, in that department of McCall's Magazine which Mrs. Banning gratuitously recommended, even to absolute strangers, Mrs. Roosevelt expressed an evasive opinion on the subject of sexual abnormality. If I judge her character fairly, Mrs. Banning would have written an unmistakable condemnation instead of Mrs. Roosevelt's comment:

". . . Homosexuality is thought of as an abnormality and people usually are somewhat harder on anything that seems to them somewhat abnormal." She had been asked whether homosexual

FORCING RELEASE OF OATIS

In his lecture tour throughout the country, Frederic Snyder is carrying the cause to free AP Newsman William Oatis, who languishes in a Czechoslovakian jail.

Rotary clubs in all parts of the country have passed vibrant resolutions, similar to the Kingston Rotary Club, seeking the release of this reporter. They also are distributing labels, "Keep Notice of Oatis."

The efforts of this service organization together with other clubs in bringing this matter to the State Department are bringing results in the form of painful pressure on the Czechs. The goal is to isolate the Czechs from the trade benefits of the free world. If we succeed in tightening the noose, the anguish should soon be acute.

The most effective step thus far is the Western powers' blockade of the Czech Air Line, which now is barred from France to Britain and over Western Germany. Since the cost of round-about flights to other western nations is almost prohibitive and the returns insufficient, this to all practical intents puts the Czech line out of business internationally.

They understand that to get rid of the airban and other restrictions they will have to release Oatis. Publicly they declare this impossible, and Moscow has even joined the refrain. But if we continue our efforts, the story is very likely to be a different one.

Home building contractors must enjoy the buyers who can hardly wait until the dream home is far enough along that they can start making changes.

ATTITUDE TOWARD WORK

Two men who owned adjoining properties started to dig foundations for new houses on the same day. Both of the men were hard workers, and although they were using only picks and shovels they had made considerable progress by lunch time.

As the afternoon wore on one of the men grew tired; he was able to think only of the work he had done and the work that lay before him. With every stroke of the pick and each scoop of the shovel he thought of the many feet of digging he would still have to do. After a while he was so frightened by the prospect of the great hole he would have to dig that he gave up.

The other man also felt the effects of his labor but he was not thinking about digging a hole. He was too busy concentrating on the fact that he was making ready a foundation for future comfort. As he perspired he thought how pleasant it would be to sit on the front porch of the house which might be built over the spot where he dug. He was able to maintain this state of mind, and after much hard work he finished his digging and went on to build his home.

A little imagination and the ability to see the benefit of the completed task will often make the difficult labor of the moment seem easier. This same reasoning may apply to the job of making our nation strong. The hardship of the work and the taxation we shall have to undergo might be easier to bear if we regard each sacrifice as a step toward an eventual peace and a sense of security.

All may come to him who waits, but the fellow who puts his shoulder to the wheel can hurry the coming.

MODERN SUITS OF ARMOR

Some of the American soldiers in Korea may soon be outfitted with a twentieth century version of the armor worn by medieval knights. Plastic clothing designed to protect soldiers from shrapnel and some small-arms fire may be introduced in Korea, to see whether it is effective, and whether its use impedes the mobility of the combat soldier.

Also developed is a new plastic helmet to replace the steel helmet worn by soldiers during World War II. The plastic helmets will be covered with a removable aluminum cover which the wearer can use for washing clothes, boiling water, bathing and the countless other uses to which soldiers put the steel helmets during the last war.

The Army is constantly seeking news ways to improve the efficiency of its troops. It may be that the protective clothing will have as much effect on the morale of the soldiers as it has in any other way. If the clothing would serve to reduce the number of wounded and dead by only a few it would be worth all the money and time spent to develop it.

MR. COUSINS'S REPLIES

Some time ago, I published in this column various statements made by Representative John Taber of New York concerning Norman Cousins, editor of "The Saturday Review of Literature," and his activities in India under the auspices of the State Department. The main contention of John Taber was that Cousins spoke not for the United States but for the World Federalists, although he travelled on the American taxpayers' expense account.

Mr. Cousins telephoned to me and wrote me a letter. He did not quarrel with me or accuse me of lack of good faith. Nor did he say that Representative John Taber spoke in bad faith. His attitude is stated in his opening sentence:

"I do not question Congressman Taber's good faith in criticizing my trip, nor your good faith in commenting on the case in your column. . . ."

Now when anyone approaches a difference of opinion in that spirit, he is entitled to state his case. And Mr. Cousins' case is that he did a good job for the United States and lost money on it. This is what he says his job in India was:

"My job, as it was explained to me, was to talk to opinion moulders—writers, editors, newspapermen, teachers, ministers, government officials, businessmen, etc.—as well as to lecture before university groups, commerce associations, civic organizations, etc. The arrangements for these lectures were to be made by our local consular and information service people. I was to speak as an individual American citizen. It would be made clear to the lecture groups that, though I came under the auspices of the American government, I was completely free to give my own opinions, just as I did in the United States. The advantage of this was obvious: It would dramatize the traditional concept of American free speech."

Of course, the question is not the wisdom of speaking to persons in foreign countries about the United States, but what one says. For example, if, the Lord forbid, I were running the Voice of America, I should not do the job as it is now being done, because I think much that is being beamed to various countries, while well-intentioned, is not understandable to some of these peoples. Many are not interested in things but in ideas. Unfortunately William Benton, an advertising man, gave our propaganda agency its general tone, and his forte is selling things, not propagating ideas, beliefs, faiths.

So, my quarrel with Mr. Cousins was based on newspaper clippings reporting what he said, which gave Congressman Taber and myself the impression that Cousins was promoting world federalism, a concept which has never been part of American policy. It has never been supported either by the people, Congress or publicly by the State Department.

On the subject of what he said on the trip to India and other places, Mr. Cousins comments:

". . . I was frequently asked why it is that a great deal of war talk emanates from the United States, and why it is that only talk of peace comes from the Soviet Union. I tried to establish the fact that, Communist propaganda to the contrary, the American people were openly dedicated to the cause of peace. It was important for the world's peoples to know (that) . . . we were not interested in peace if it meant the shattering of moral and democratic values in the world. We were not interested in peace if it could be obtained only by spending our lives on our knees. . . .

"Making it clear that I spoke only for myself, and as an individual American citizen, I said I believed that true peace could only be achieved through the creation of world law. The United Nations, I said, required the full support of all peoples sincerely concerned with the conditions of peace. . . .

". . . In short, I argued for a United Nations authority to enact, interpret, and enforce world law. . . ."

Although I cannot see how the United Nations can enforce the law or anything else, Norman Cousins is entitled, in a free country, to his views and to an opportunity to say it. The human race has been seeking a road to peace since Isaiah and has not found it. Shall we say that no one will ever discover a road to peace? That is too pessimistic a view of human mentality and character. Thus far, there is no evidence, however, that the United Nations has the formula for peace.

SEX HORMONES IN TREATMENT OF ACNE

Acne (pimples) is neither painful nor dangerous, and it clears up itself in the majority of cases shortly after puberty (12 to 14 in girls and 14 to 16 in boys). However, acne causes a great amount of embarrassment and may be the cause of an inferiority complex. It occurs just when boys and girls want to look their best.

For many years the cause of acne was unknown, although physicians and skin specialists found that diet was a factor and cutting out or cutting down on certain foods helped many cases. In recent years, since the importance of the endocrine glands (ductless glands) has been observed, and as most cases of acne in boys and girls first appear at or shortly before puberty, gland change is considered the most important factor.

The fact that gland change is the cause, not lack of personal cleanliness, removes any stigma regarding acne.

In Archives of Dermatology and Syphilology, Drs. Stuart C. Way (San Francisco) and George C. Andrews (New York city) report their observations on the treatment of acne by sex extracts. Average age of the 100 patients (girls and young women) was 23.7 years and acne had been present about 4.6 years. Acne was on the face only in 61 per cent; on other parts of the body also in the rest.

Other forms of treatment had given temporary relief in 26 per cent. Diet treatment definitely influenced the disease in 45 per cent. The monthly periods were normal in 90 per cent, but in 74 per cent the acne was worse before monthlies began.

Treatment was with the female sex hormone—X-estradiol—and also male hormone—progesterone or testosterone—dissolved in propylene glycol. An interval of seven days between injections was found most satisfactory. This was increased to 14 days as soon as improvement was noted. Lack of improvement after six injections was followed by a change of treatment. Progesterone was used in 95 per cent of the patients, testosterone in 44 per cent and x-estradiol in 7 per cent. X-estradiol was discontinued because of its lack of effect.

Results were judged by the number of acne lesions (pimples) at the patient's last visit and recurrences while she was under observation. The response was good in 50 per cent, fair in 22 per cent; there was no improvement in the rest. Acne returned in 56 per cent but further treatment was again successful.

The strange part about these cases of acne is that they seem to be caused by too much hormone in one person and by not enough in another.

A Coy Trick Invented by Democratic Presidents

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — It was never meant to be published, but Gen. J. Lawton Collins, the army chief of staff, has written a private letter to the spokesman for the 88 discharged West Point cadets. In it he made the strange statement that while they were not good enough to be West Point officers they were still good enough to be army officers.

"I will say for the army that your separation from West Point in itself will not be grounds for disbarment from the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, Officer Candidate Schools, or other similar programs under army jurisdiction," General Collins wrote to the discharged cadets through their spokesman, Herbert Johnson.

In other words, the army's military boss officially recognizes what reserve officers have so bitterly criticized, that the West Point clique is a separate and superior caste. In contrast, General Marshall, who retired last week, was not a West Pointer, while many civilian universities which turn out reserve officers maintain the highest ethical and academic standards.

General Collins' letter, explaining his policy, stated: "The frank admission of guilt and wholesome spirit of repentance which I find . . . confirm my first impression that those involved in this affair, while openly admitting their violation of the cadet code of honor, are not fundamentally men of bad morals or character.

Reasons for Leniency

"They have, however, fallen into evil ways. They have not, in the words of the cadet prayer, preferred the 'harder right instead of the easier wrong,' and in their failure have brought sorrow upon themselves and upon the military academy.

"Many of your group," General Collins continued, "have made partial amends for this past offense by the straightforward way in which you have assisted the authorities in investigating this matter and in putting the situation to rights.

"I sincerely hope that you will all leave the academy determined to redeem this early fault by the character of the lives which you lead hereafter."

NOTE: Though past violators of the honor code received dishonorable discharges, Collins showed special leniency to the 88. He explained to them: "I did not feel that the conduct of the cadets warranted the usual discharge presently given in honor cases; that is to say, one which indicated discharge under conditions other than honorable. However, in justice to cadets who have received this type of discharge for honor offenses in the past, one cannot justify an honorable discharge in the present case. Instead, it has been decided to allow the cadets to resign and to receive a simple administrative discharge without specification as to circumstances."

Eisenhower Reports

General Eisenhower is well satisfied with the progress of western Europe's defense program, he told a congressional group in Paris recently. Then he added: "But the job I'd like to see accomplished isn't half done."

Eisenhower figures it will take another year, "probably by the end of 1952," to get our Atlantic Pact allies in top shape, militarily and economically.

He explained that he was thinking in terms of "total defense" against possible Soviet aggression anywhere this side of the Iron Curtain. This didn't mean, he said, that Atlantic Pact armies under him aren't already prepared to give a good account of themselves if called to action in the meantime.

Ike added some pointed provisos to the Capitol Hill delegation, led by Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, one of which was that the people of the United States and Congress must not "let down" in their support of the Atlantic Pact program.

"I know that most Americans realize that we cannot afford to let that happen, with the world in its present state," Eisenhower emphasized. "Too much is at stake."

Selling America

Other provisos Ike mentioned were the continuance of some economic aid to our European allies as well as efforts to sell America behind the Iron Curtain. While he didn't mention specifically propaganda balloons, he made it clear that we cannot afford to overlook any device to get the truth of our sincere peace efforts to Russian satellites.

He also strongly endorsed a proposal by Rep. Harold Cooley of North Carolina, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, that advanced American farming techniques be put to work in western Europe to conserve the soil and increase food production.

Eisenhower said he wasn't too much concerned about Communist activity and anti-U. S. propaganda this side of the Iron Curtain. But he is seriously concerned about another Israeli-Arab outbreak, which Russia might parlay into a third world war.

None of Eisenhower's callers had the nerve to ask him about the top political question on this side of the Atlantic—whether he will run for president. One or two looked at each other hopefully, thinking the other would pop the question. But when they filed out, not one extra ray of light had been shed on this subject.

Truman Statement Shows He Needs Different Code of Ethics as Regards Agencies

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 21—President Truman needs a new code of ethics if upon further reflection what he said at his press conference Thursday isn't soon reversed.

The President declared, for instance, it was all right for the officials and workers in the Democratic National Committee to introduce people to such lending agencies as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation just so long as they didn't get any fees or payment for establishing such contacts.

But doesn't Mr. Truman realize that an introduction from the Democratic National Committee member of its personnel carries with it far more influence than an introduction to a private bank which has an altogether different attitude toward its depositors' money than RFC officials seem to have had?

For one thing, it is the rule under the Truman administration that most all important appointments have to be "cleared" through the office of the Democratic national chairman. So long as appointments to office are made on such a political basis, every appointee is bound to respect the wishes or at least consider with greater weight the introductions or contacts brought about through Democratic National Committee help.

It has been disclosed that William M. Boyle received fees as a lawyer just before he became Democratic national chairman and that his law partner continued to receive fees after a loan was obtained from the RFC by a St. Louis printing firm. That same loan had previously been denied by the RFC three times. The Senate testimony shows that suddenly after some telephone conversations between the RFC office in St. Louis and a friend of Mr. Boyle in which reference was made to the "committee," the RFC loan was granted. The friend was E. Merl Young, whose wife used to work at the White House and got a "mink coat." Mr. Young admitted he was a "volunteer worker" on the Democratic National Committee at the time the St. Louis printing company loan was being sought.

Yet Mr. Truman washes his hands of the whole business and says that while nobody, not even a volunteer worker, should get fees if he is a part of the Democratic National Committee, nevertheless it is the duty of the committee personnel to help anybody who comes along and wants an introduction to government lending agencies.

The President overlooks the fact that there are Republicans as well as Democrats paying taxes and that their money also is being loaned by the RFC. To allow a lending agency entrusted with public funds to be in any way related to a national political committee which engages in this type of political influence is something that ought to be repudiated instead of condoned.

Coming on top of the various scandals in the RFC, uncovered by the Senate Investigating Committee, Mr. Truman's attitude at his press conference gives an impression of casualness which is either the product of the Pendergast school of politics or the manisfestation of a curious naivete.

Mr. Truman cannot seriously believe that the American people will accept his indifference to unethical conduct on the part of members of his political family and that "prosperity" will erase all opposition to his administration at the polls next time.

For the history of politics shows that morality is a deeper cause of concern and can wipe out the "prosperity" advantage of any incumbent party. To say, for example, that a mayor or governor or Democratic member of Congress can be a crook and yet if the people are prosperous he will be re-elected is to reflect on the intelligence of the men and women who today compose the American electorate.

Mr. Truman's attitude toward the wrongdoing that surrounds his administration is one of bold indifference. He calls it all a smear or a misrepresentation. But the facts that are coming out of the congressional committees will be weighed by the voters. The big issue of 1952 may be reminiscent of the slogans of yesteryears when the people were asked to "turn the rascals out!"—and usually did.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 20—In the Cosmopolitan magazine for September, Mrs. Margaret Culkin Banning, a fictioneer who has always maintained the standard, optimtistic decencies, tees off on the forthcoming Kinsey report to be entitled "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female." Mrs. Banning is a distaff Clarence Budington Kelland, if they don't mind, as neither of them should, because the comparison is mutually complimentary. Dirty situations, and dialog appropriate thereto, have been out of their line and although they have been held in mild derision by the backfence literati for their avoidance of filth, they have depicted the American scene in a time of turmoil much more truly than the school whose own depravity has led them into the error of judging the genteel southern white population by themselves.

Mrs. Banning shrewdly observes that the new Kinsey report has a long ballyhoo! Which justifies a doubt that it is intended only as a scientific survey of human behavior to add to the sum of our knowledge. Even though Kinsey deplores and refutes some of this propaganda, nevertheless, Mrs. Banning says, "no great novel, no vital war record, no statesman's revelations ever had such advance publicity—publicity that emanates not only from those interested in promoting the volume but also from those who have nothing to do with it but hope to capitalize on the public's avid interest in the Kinsey studies. Any normal scientific study would shrink from such fanfare. Perhaps the authors of this report do. But the freakish success of the first Kinsey book created an unprecedented situation. And because the sexual life of the female has always been more mysterious than that of the male, public curiosity is reaching a new high."

Independently, I have suspected that, with very few exceptions, women who would submit to the impudent inquiries which are the basis of the Kinsey discussion and findings and answer them, whether truthfully or not, are tramps whose experience would be worthless except as a confirmation of the notorious wantonnes of tramps. If I am right, and Mrs. Banning seems to me to share my opinion, then the book would seem to be merely a compilation of unreliable statements of a generally immoral quality, tending to confirm the obvious.

"We all know women who are willing and eager to talk about themselves in relation to sex," Mrs. Banning writes. "They will not only tell all to the Kinsey investigator but they are likely to get you in a corner and pour out their experiences. In my experience, they far outnumber the frank, honest, thoughtful women who because it might be useful to society, would agree to such an interview and approach it in a cool and precise attempt to add to the data on female sex life. There are such women. I only hope doctor Kinsey and his staff reached many of them. But how many such women are there and can they be considered typical? x x x I cannot believe that approximately 10,000 women, many inevitably victims of maladjusted sexual lives, can be representative of those millions whose religion, modesty and reticence would keep them from a heart-to-heart talk with a Kinsey investigator."

I wonder how a lady of such sensitive intelligence and spiritual dignity could have brought herself to write an outlandish endorsement of Eleanor Roosevelt's autobiography when it began to roll in 1949. In that case she turned to and hammered an old wash-boiler as gracelessly as anyone has hollered up the Kinsey books.

It is not my intention to discuss Mrs. Roosevelt in relation to the subjects in the Kinsey report, but she and Mrs. Banning seem to be at odds in their attitude toward sexual depravity. Only a few months ago, in that department of McCall's Magazine which Mrs. Banning gratuitously recommended, even to absolute strangers, Mrs. Roosevelt expressed an evasive opinion on the subject of sexual abnormality. If I judge her character fairly, Mrs. Banning would have written an unmistakable condemnation instead of Mrs. Roosevelt's comment:

". . . Homosexuality is thought of as an abnormality and people usually are somewhat harder on anything that seems to them somewhat abnormal." She has been asked whether homosexual

Modern Fantasia of Victorian Gingerbread on Kingston Houses

Back in grandma and great-grandma's day, life was simple and things were not. Grandma would have been appalled at today's straight symmetrical lines, plate glass, chrome and steel. She much preferred furbelows and flourish. One of the last things she chose for her house was the porch and eave trim. Most of the designs above are standard, repeated on any one of a dozen Kingston homes. Motifs were derived from the classic, like the modified fleur-de-lis in the lower right hand corner. Much of the trim was mill work turned out by Kingston firms like the now defunct H. W. Palen and Sons. Today's counterparts are made by such interstate companies as Iroquois Woodwork. Only on the oldest houses, dating back to the early 19th century, was the woodwork made and designed by the actual carpenter. The work above dates from the mid-Victorian through the late Victorian period. Examples were photographed on Wurts, St. James, McEntee, Franklin, Green and Pearl streets, Hurley avenue, and Lindsley avenue in the Ponckhockie section.

"Gingerbread," however, is on its way out. As one housewife remarked: "We're going to get rid of all that old stuff. My husband's discovered it's much too hard to paint." (Freeman Photos).

New Paltz School Has Training Car

A new dual-control Ford was presented to the New Paltz Central School by George N. Shivery of the Old Capital Motors, Inc., for use in the school's driver education program. Keys to the car were turned over to Frank Bugar, principal of the school.

The car will be used by 24 students enrolled in the course at the high school. The course is presented as an elective subject as a regular part of the curriculum for which students receive one-half unit of credit toward graduation. Instruction will be given by Messrs. MacDonald, Mack, and Johnson, who were trained to teach the course at a special teacher preparation institute conducted by the American Automobile Association.

"We are happy to make this car available to the high school students of New Paltz," Shivery said. "We are confident that the course will make better drivers of our young people and reduce traffic accidents in our communities."

Statistics prove that drivers of high school age have five times as many fatal accidents in proportion to the number of miles of driving as drivers from 45 to 50 years. Youngsters who have received a high school driver education course have a much better record with only one-half as many accidents.

Bucar said: "The Old Capital Motors, Inc., is to be congratulated for its public-spirited attitude in making this car available for training our students."

"The day is past when learning to drive was a simple matter of the youngster taking over the keys from father as soon as he could operate the controls. The high frequency of traffic accidents is more often the fault of the driver than of his car. Studies prove that the best driver is the trained driver. As important as the matter of mechanical skill in operating a car is the attitude of sportsmanlike and courteous driving which proper educational methods can emphasize."

The car is one of more than 4,500 which have been made available to schools offering similar courses throughout the country under a program developed by the American Automobile Association and state education departments. It will be loaned to the school for one year.

And Mrs. Banning may learn with interest that Mr. Loomis said her letter struck him "as a variation of the old scheme of extracting dollars from the Spelvins for the benefit of the Roosevelts."

Discuss State Policy Of Inspecting Buses

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—The New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Interstate Cooperation held a closed meeting yesterday to discuss the possibility of reciprocity in inspection of buses.

Assemblyman Elisha T. Barret, (R-Suffolk) chairman of the committee, said the discussion centered about the possibility of New York state recognizing inspection certificates of other states on buses operating through the northeast.

However, he said, this state has a high standard of inspections and the committee is anxious to know whether other states have such rigid requirements.

A continuing study committee is to be appointed, he said, to consider all aspects of the situation and if possible obtain a uniform code of regulations to justify reciprocity.

Discuss State Policy Of Inspecting Buses

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—The New York State Joint Legislative Committee on Interstate Cooperation held a closed meeting yesterday to discuss the possibility of reciprocity in inspection of buses.

Assemblyman Elisha T. Barret, (R-Suffolk) chairman of the committee, said the discussion centered about the possibility of New York state recognizing inspection certificates of other states on buses operating through the northeast.

However, he said, this state has a high standard of inspections and the committee is anxious to know whether other states have such rigid requirements.

A continuing study committee is to be appointed, he said, to consider all aspects of the situation and if possible obtain a uniform code of regulations to justify reciprocity.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Sept. 20—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Monaco and three children who came here from New York and occupied the Emma Holden bungalow last spring, have gone back to the city. Herb was employed by a Kingston dairy firm during the summer months.

Merlin Wilber of Lake Hill is now driving the Sheffield milk distributing truck through this section. He is a relative of Joseph Dewitt, Shokan War 2 veteran who has lived in Kingston for the past several years.

Local Methodists have been apprised of the date, Tuesday, Sept. 5, for the New York conference WSCS meeting at the Clinton Avenue Church in Kingston. The sessions will begin at 10 o'clock.

Clarence Phillips of the Glenford hill road neighborhood recently killed a good-sized copperhead snake while working with the Hurley town roads crew. Several copperheads are reported to have been killed at the site of an old sawmill in the Hurley mountains.

Birthdays falling on Sunday, Sept. 23, include that of Sonia Berg, daughter of Edward and Anna Berg of the church hill section of Shokan. Sonia came here from New York in 1942 and attended Kingston High School.

George Gulnick who has been working in Poughkeepsie had the misfortune to be struck in the eye by a piece of steel.

Donoch Lynch is driving a new Ford open car with a cheery red paint job. Donoch's old car was pretty well banged up in a trailer-truck accident down county last month.

Richard Phillips, former Shokan boy who has been in training with an ordnance outfit at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Knox, Ky., expects soon to spend a 10-day furlough at his Glenford home before going overseas.

Echoes of waterworks days: Sept. 20, 1913—The Alfred Scotts are building a house in new village of Shokan . . . Elmer Bedell's new house is first stucco residence here . . . John Hasbrouck is preparing to move to Kingston. The Hasbroucks have sold their house on the corner to Elwyn Winchell . . . Granville Weeks has moved into new home (now Wallerstein's) . . . Harold Davis, Krumville boy, wins 2nd prize in corn contest at Kingston Academy.

Henry Gebbelein has installed a ground floor lavatory in his house. Henry did the plumbing and carpentry work himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Aspinwall of Brown's are the parents of a girl baby born last Saturday.

Old Timer was properly amazed the other day at sight of three small boys smoking cigarettes on the village main street. Asked where they got them the kids replied "We make 'em." O.T. opined that times have changed, all right; in his day a knee-high youngster who got the smoking urge went behind the barn or in the bushes to light up. "They knew, effen they got caught, it meant a dressing down with harness strap or buggy whip, sure 'nough."

Bud Irwin, manager of the new Packard agency and garage in Kingston, has razed the old barn on his place overlooking the west basin of the Ashokan. He will utilize the sound lumber in building a garage near his driveway on the Oneora Trail. The barn was built for Joseph H. Dewitt about the time the new road was built in waterworks days.

Godfrey on TV

Berlin (AP)—Arthur Godfrey, who is a pretty big man in it himself, says that, except for sports, most television programs in the United States are no good. "Peeew," said Godfrey of television programs in a radio interview broadcast here during his recent European visit. The versatile Arthur, who handles his several radio and television programs like a juggler, said the only things he could commend on American television were the sports casts.

Prehistoric Indians left a pile of oyster shells in Maine estimated to contain 8,000,000 bushels of shells.

MARSHALL PLAN AT WORK—Gen. George C. Marshall, who retired recently as secretary of Defense, finds time now to visit with his wife, Katherine, in the flower garden on their estate, the "Dodona Manor," at Leesburg, Va. The general's wish to spend more time relaxing at Leesburg is believed to be one of the "personal reasons" that led to his retirement as defense chief.

One of the strong points of the expert bridge player is that he makes life as difficult as possible for his opponents. For example, suppose the opponents can defeat the expert's contract—is he downhearted? Not a bit of it. It's still their job to find the right defense, and the expert will do what he can to complicate their job.

Today's hand would be muffed by most average players but would be made by most experts for just the reason described. Let's examine the difference.

The average player wins the first club in dummy or in his own hand at random, draws two rounds of trumps, and then leads the jack of diamonds. West naturally ducks in order to let East win with the king of diamonds. East, just naturally, returns the jack of spades; and the fat is in the fire.

South must take the spade finesse, and the contract is defeated when the finesse loses. Two diamonds and a club must be lost no matter what happens, so the loss of a spade trick is fatal.

The expert sees all this coming and therefore wins the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs. His next step is to return the deuce of diamonds from the dummy.

The opponents can still defeat the contract, but they have to find the right defense instead of having it handed to them on the proverbial silver platter. At the second trick East must put up the king of diamonds. Do you know anybody who will make that defensive play?

I'll agree that a great expert will occasionally come up with the right defense. But if this type of play is made against him ten times a month, he'll meekly play low six or seven times out of the ten. (Eight or nine times would be closer to the truth, but I wouldn't want to be considered ungenerous.)

Once East is persuaded to play a low diamond at the second trick, the hand is home. West must win the first diamond, and West is in no position to lead spades. West must lead another club (as good as any), and South wins with the king. South then draws two rounds of trumps and leads his other diamond.

This sets up dummy's queen before the spades have been touched. South can get to dummy with the ten of trumps to discard his queen of spades on the queen of diamonds. The rest, of course, is child's play.

Our Older Folks

Editor, The Freeman:

I read recently that the state claims "Our Older Folks" are much more contented in their own homes, no matter how "humble" then in an "Institution for the Aged" and I agree, wholeheartedly, but, I ask: "Why then, don't they grant these "folks" in their "twilight hours of life" an adequate allowance to make their life worth the living, rather then dreading the day when they reach the age of 65 and forced through circumstances to ask for this allowance?"

There is a saying: "Charity is hell" and again I agree. Having had a "blind mother", caring for her, for over twenty years, I can "speak from experience." Not that I regret one minute any sacrifice I might of made for her, to me it was not a sacrifice, but a pleasure.

But what I do regret, was that we had to accept "charity" from the state, the town, in which we resided, for the allowance granted was barely enough to keep body and soul together. But I say: Thank "God," it is all over for my "mother" for "God" has called her home, and she is at last safe in His care, free of life's struggles. But, I do wish so, that "our government" would be a little more generous, with their "allowance, allotment, old age assistance" (call it what you will) to "our" future "old agers" and our "blind" of "our" country, so they can look forward to this age, with pleasure rather, then with dread, as I feel many do.

Very truly yours,
MISS ETHEL BENDELL
Kingston, N. Y.

NATO'S NEW SUPPLY CHANNELS—Newsmap above shows main routes and installations of a new alternate supply route to Germany, for General Eisenhower's North Atlantic Treaty army, on which the U. S. Army has spent approximately $1,000,000,000 during the past year. System calls for maximum use of France's west coast ports, funneling supplies and equipment through Metz to Kaiserslautern, Germany. The new system will receive its first test during Allied maneuvers in West Germany in October.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 21—The other day I visted an old schoolhouse which I attended when a boy. It then had a big wood stove, two outhouses in the back yard (with various "inscriptions" thereon) and two grades in each room to teach us concentration, and it surely did.

This old schoolhouse turned out workers and our parents then set us a good example by working hard themselves. We then walked to school, some of us two or more miles. Now this has changed. Schoolhouses now have modern toilets, with tiled walls so that the boys cannot write sassy inscriptions thereon. They have expensive central heating and ventilating systems. Busses take the children to school, with gymnasiums to exercise them after they get to school!

The whole idea now is to eliminate hardships and make the children soft. Yet, don't blame the school principals. These luxuries are demanded by the parents. Whether, however, the primitive system by which I was educated or the luxury system which exists today produces better men and women is debatable.

Bamboos and Blackboards

In my day, the teachers used the bamboo on us when reasoning failed to get results. I had my share of lickings and my parents never complained to the teachers because they spanked their "darling boy." For some reason the bamboo was not used on the girls, but they had a blackboard treatment. For instance, if a girl was caught using unbecoming language, she was compelled to write on the blackboard a hundred times the following: "A soft answer turneth away wrath."

I remember being taught to read from the McGuffey Readers and having to learn such sayings as "Habit is a cable. We weave a strand of it each day until it becomes so strong we cannot break it"; or "All that you do, do with all your might"; or "Things that are half done are never done right."

We Want Lower Prices

We want to reduce the cost of living, but the present price controls are the bunk. These laws are enacted to fool the voters and to make more jobs for Democrats. To reduce the cost of living, we must start with the schools and teach the children to love work instead of to love play. Turn to the yearbook which your high school seniors issue and you will see that 90 per cent of it is given to the various extra-curricular activities. This long name, used to fool us parents, really refers to sports, clubs and other things which teach children to spend money instead of to earn it. I have never found in one of these yearbooks the account of a spelling or mental arithmetic contest.

It may be that the merchants don't want lower prices, but want the children taught to be spenders. The merchants root for bands, baseball, football and other athletics. But again I say, don't blame the school principals. They are simply giving the parents what they demand. As long as parents are primarily interested in whom the high school employs as an athletic coach, we have only ourselves to blame.

We Want Religious Instruction

I am glad to say that the Bible continues to be read in Gloucester every morning. But the School Committee no longer seeks teachers who regularly attend church or teach in Sunday School. A woman who smoked or went to cocktail parties would then never be hired as a teacher. This change for the worse is wholly due to parents who have substituted canasta for family prayers, and cocktail parties for mid-week church services.

We blame juvenile delinquency upon the schools. We criticize the schools when boys break windows and the students go on strikes; but again the parents are to blame. Parents seem to be interested in only one thing—not what their children learn—but to have their children get a diploma. Even Parent-Teacher Associations seem more interested in the childrens' sports than in their studies. Of course, some day parents will see their present mistakes, and demand returning to fundamentals. This does not mean that we should return to outhouses, wood stoves and bamboos, but it does mean that we may return to the McGuffey Readers, the three R's, good discipline and creating among students the love to work and save.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Sept. 20—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Monaco and three children who came here from New York and occupied the Emma Holden bungalow last spring, have gone back to the city. Herb was employed by a Kingston dairy firm during the summer months.

Merlin Wilber of Lake Hill is now driving the Sheffield milk distributing truck through this section. He is a relative of Joseph Dewitt, Shokan War 2 veteran who has lived in Kingston for the past several years.

Local Methodists have been apprised of the date, Tuesday, Sept. 5, for the New York conference WSCS meeting at the Clinton Avenue Church in Kingston. The sessions will begin at 10 o'clock.

Clarence Phillips of the Glenford hill road neighborhood recently killed a good-sized copperhead snake while working with the Hurley town roads crew. Several copperheads are reported to have been killed at the site of an old sawmill in the Hurley mountains.

Birthdays falling on Sunday, Sept. 23, include that of Sonia Berg, daughter of Edward and Anna Berg of the church hill section of Shokan. Sonia came here from New York in 1942 and attended Kingston High School.

George Gulnick who has been working in Poughkeepsie had the misfortune to be struck in the eye by a piece of steel.

Donoch Lynch is driving a new Ford open car with a cheery red paint job. Donoch's old car was pretty well banged up in a trailer-truck accident down county last month.

Richard Phillips, former Shokan boy who has been in training with an ordnance outfit at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Knox, Ky., expects soon to spend a 10-day furlough at his Glenford home before going overseas.

Echoes of waterworks days: Sept. 20, 1913—The Alfred Scotts are building a house in new village of Shokan . . . Elmer Bedell's new house is first stucco residence here . . . John Hasbrouck is preparing to move to Kingston. The Hasbroucks have sold their house on the corner to Elwyn Winchell . . . Granville Weeks has moved into new home (now Wallerstein's) . . . Harold Davis, Krumville boy, wins 2nd prize in corn contest at Kingston Academy.

Henry Gebbelein has installed a ground floor lavatory in his house. Henry did the plumbing and carpentry work himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Aspinwall of Brown's are the parents of a girl baby born last Saturday.

Old Timer was properly amazed the other day at sight of three small boys smoking cigarettes on the village main street. Asked where they got them the kids replied "We make 'em." O.T. opined that times have changed, all right; in his day a knee-high youngster who got the smoking urge went behind the barn or in the bushes to light up. "They knew, effen they got caught, it meant a dressing down with harness strap or buggy whip, sure 'nough."

Bud Irwin, manager of the new Packard agency and garage in Kingston, has razed the old barn on his place overlooking the west basin of the Ashokan. He will utilize the sound lumber in building a garage near his driveway on the Oneora Trail. The barn was built for Joseph H. Dewitt about the time the new road was built in waterworks days.

Godfrey on TV

Berlin (AP)—Arthur Godfrey, who is a pretty big man in it himself, says that, except for sports, most television programs in the United States are no good. "Peeew," said Godfrey of television programs in a radio interview broadcast here during his recent European visit. The versatile Arthur, who handles his several radio and television programs like a juggler, said the only things he could commend on American television were the sports casts.

Prehistoric Indians left a pile of oyster shells in Maine estimated to contain 8,000,000 bushels of shells.

MARSHALL PLAN AT WORK—Gen. George C. Marshall, who retired recently as secretary of Defense, finds time now to visit with his wife, Katherine, in the flower garden on their estate, the "Dodona Manor," at Leesburg, Va. The general's wish to spend more time relaxing at Leesburg is believed to be one of the "personal reasons" that led to his retirement as defense chief.

One of the strong points of the expert bridge player is that he makes life as difficult as possible for his opponents. For example, suppose the opponents can defeat the expert's contract—is he downhearted? Not a bit of it. It's still their job to find the right defense, and the expert will do what he can to complicate their job.

Today's hand would be muffed by most average players but would be made by most experts for just the reason described. Let's examine the difference.

The average player wins the first club in dummy or in his own hand at random, draws two rounds of trumps, and then leads the jack of diamonds. West naturally ducks in order to let East win with the king of diamonds. East, just naturally, returns the jack of spades; and the fat is in the fire.

South must take the spade finesse, and the contract is defeated when the finesse loses. Two diamonds and a club must be lost no matter what happens, so the loss of a spade trick is fatal.

The expert sees all this coming and therefore wins the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs. His next step is to return the deuce of diamonds from the dummy.

The opponents can still defeat the contract, but they have to find the right defense instead of having it handed to them on the proverbial silver platter. At the second trick East must put up the king of diamonds. Do you know anybody who will make that defensive play?

I'll agree that a great expert will occasionally come up with the right defense. But if this type of play is made against him ten times a month, he'll meekly play low six or seven times out of the ten. (Eight or nine times would be closer to the truth, but I wouldn't want to be considered ungenerous.)

Once East is persuaded to play a low diamond at the second trick, the hand is home. West must win the first diamond, and West is in no position to lead spades. West must lead another club (as good as any), and South wins with the king. South then draws two rounds of trumps and leads his other diamond.

This sets up dummy's queen before the spades have been touched. South can get to dummy with the ten of trumps to discard his queen of spades on the queen of diamonds. The rest, of course, is child's play.

Our Older Folks

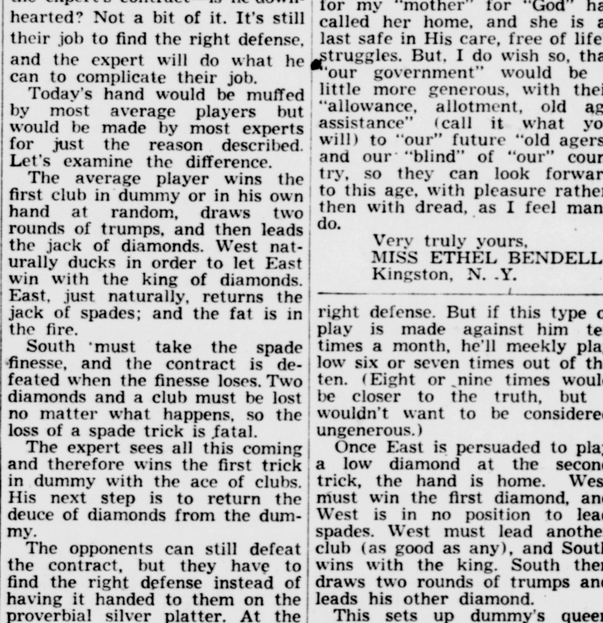

Editor, The Freeman:

I read recently that the state claims "Our Older Folks" are much more contented in their own homes, no matter how "humble" then in an "Institution for the Aged" and I agree, wholeheartedly, but, I ask: "Why then, don't they grant these "folks" in their "twilight hours of life" an adequate allowance to make their life worth the living, rather then dreading the day when they reach the age of 65 and forced through circumstances to ask for this allowance?"

There is a saying: "Charity is hell" and again I agree. Having had a "blind mother", caring for her, for over twenty years, I can "speak from experience." Not that I regret one minute any sacrifice I might of made for her, to me it was not a sacrifice, but a pleasure.

But what I do regret, was that we had to accept "charity" from the state, the town, in which we resided, for the allowance granted was barely enough to keep body and soul together. But I say: Thank "God," it is all over for my "mother" for "God" has called her home, and she is at last safe in His care, free of life's struggles. But, I do wish so, that "our government" would be a little more generous, with their "allowance, allotment, old age assistance" (call it what you will) to "our" future "old agers" and our "blind" of "our" country, so they can look forward to this age, with pleasure rather, then with dread, as I feel many do.

Very truly yours,
MISS ETHEL BENDELL
Kingston, N. Y.

NATO'S NEW SUPPLY CHANNELS—Newsmap above shows main routes and installations of a new alternate supply route to Germany, for General Eisenhower's North Atlantic Treaty army, on which the U. S. Army has spent approximately $1,000,000,000 during the past year. System calls for maximum use of France's west coast ports, funneling supplies and equipment through Metz to Kaiserslautern, Germany. The new system will receive its first test during Allied maneuvers in West Germany in October.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 21—The other day I visted an old schoolhouse which I attended when a boy. It then had a big wood stove, two outhouses in the back yard (with various "inscriptions" thereon) and two grades in each room to teach us concentration, and it surely did.

This old schoolhouse turned out workers and our parents then set us a good example by working hard themselves. We then walked to school, some of us two or more miles. Now this has changed. Schoolhouses now have modern toilets, with tiled walls so that the boys cannot write sassy inscriptions thereon. They have expensive central heating and ventilating systems. Busses take the children to school, with gymnasiums to exercise them after they get to school!

The whole idea now is to eliminate hardships and make the children soft. Yet, don't blame the school principals. These luxuries are demanded by the parents. Whether, however, the primitive system by which I was educated or the luxury system which exists today produces better men and women is debatable.

Bamboos and Blackboards

In my day, the teachers used the bamboo on us when reasoning failed to get results. I had my share of lickings and my parents never complained to the teachers because they spanked their "darling boy." For some reason the bamboo was not used on the girls, but they had a blackboard treatment. For instance, if a girl was caught using unbecoming language, she was compelled to write on the blackboard a hundred times the following: "A soft answer turneth away wrath."

I remember being taught to read from the McGuffey Readers and having to learn such sayings as "Habit is a cable. We weave a strand of it each day until it becomes so strong we cannot break it"; or "All that you do, do with all your might"; or "Things that are half done are never done right."

We Want Lower Prices

We want to reduce the cost of living, but the present price controls are the bunk. These laws are enacted to fool the voters and to make more jobs for Democrats. To reduce the cost of living, we must start with the schools and teach the children to love work instead of to love play. Turn to the yearbook which your high school seniors issue and you will see that 90 per cent of it is given to the various extra-curricular activities. This long name, used to fool us parents, really refers to sports, clubs and other things which teach children to spend money instead of to earn it. I have never found in one of these yearbooks the account of a spelling or mental arithmetic contest.

It may be that the merchants don't want lower prices, but want the children taught to be spenders. The merchants root for bands, baseball, football and other athletics. But again I say, don't blame the school principals. They are simply giving the parents what they demand. As long as parents are primarily interested in whom the high school employs as an athletic coach, we have only ourselves to blame.

We Want Religious Instruction

I am glad to say that the Bible continues to be read in Gloucester every morning. But the School Committee no longer seeks teachers who regularly attend church or teach in Sunday School. A woman who smoked or went to cocktail parties would then never be hired as a teacher. This change for the worse is wholly due to parents who have substituted canasta for family prayers, and cocktail parties for mid-week church services.

We blame juvenile delinquency upon the schools. We criticize the schools when boys break windows and the students go on strikes; but again the parents are to blame. Parents seem to be interested in only one thing—not what their children learn—but to have their children get a diploma. Even Parent-Teacher Associations seem more interested in the childrens' sports than in their studies. Of course, some day parents will see their present mistakes, and demand returning to fundamentals. This does not mean that we should return to outhouses, wood stoves and bamboos, but it does mean that we may return to the McGuffey Readers, the three R's, good discipline and creating among students the love to work and save.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Sept. 20—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Monaco and three children who came here from New York and occupied the Emma Holden bungalow last spring, have gone back to the city. Herb was employed by a Kingston dairy firm during the summer months.

Merlin Wilber of Lake Hill is now driving the Sheffield milk distributing truck through this section. He is a relative of Joseph Dewitt, Shokan War 2 veteran who has lived in Kingston for the past several years.

Local Methodists have been apprised of the date, Tuesday, Sept. 5, for the New York conference WSCS meeting at the Clinton Avenue Church in Kingston. The sessions will begin at 10 o'clock.

Clarence Phillips of the Glenford hill road neighborhood recently killed a good-sized copperhead snake while working with the Hurley town roads crew. Several copperheads are reported to have been killed at the site of an old sawmill in the Hurley mountains.

Birthdays falling on Sunday, Sept 23, include that of Sonia Berg, daughter of Edward and Anna Berg of the church hill section of Shokan. Sonia came here from New York in 1942 and attended Kingston High School.

George Gulnick who has been working in Poughkeepsie had the misfortune to be struck in the eye by a piece of steel.

Donoch Lynch is driving a new Ford open car with a cheery red paint job. Donoch's old car was pretty well hanged up in a trailer-truck accident down county last month.

Richard Phillips, former Shokan boy who has been in training with an ordnance outfit at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Fort Knox, Ky., expects soon to spend a 10-day furlough at his Glenford home before going overseas.

Echoes of waterworks days: Sept. 20, 1913—The Alfred Scotts are building a house in new village of Shokan . . . Elmer Bedell's new house is first stucco residence here . . . John Hasbrouck is preparing to move to Kingston. The Hasbroucks have sold their house on the corner to Elwyn Winchell . . . Granville Weeks has moved into new home (now Wallerstein's) . . . Harold Davis, Krumville boy, wins 2nd prize in corn contest at Kingston Academy.

Henry Gebbelein has installed a ground floor lavatory in his house. Henry did the plumbing and carpentry work himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Aspinwall of Brown's are the parents of a girl baby born last Saturday.

Old Timer was properly amazed the other day at sight of three small boys smoking cigarettes on the village main street. Asked where they got them the kids replied "We make 'em." O.T. opined that times have changed, all right; in his day a knee-high youngster who got the smoking urge went behind the barn or in the bushes to light up. "They knew, effen they got caught, it meant a dressing down with harness strap or buggy whip, sure 'nough."

Bud Irwin, manager of the new Packard agency and garage in Kingston, has razed the old barn on his place overlooking the west basin of the Ashokan. He will utilize the sound lumber in building a garage near his driveway on the Oneora Trail. The barn was built for Joseph H. Dewitt about the time the new road was built in waterworks days.

Godfrey on TV

Berlin (AP)—Arthur Godfrey, who is a pretty big man in it himself, says that, except for sports, most television programs in the United States are no good. "Peeew," said Godfrey of television programs in a radio interview broadcast here during his recent European visit. The versatile Arthur, who handles his several radio and television programs like a juggler, said the only things he could commend on American television were the sports casts.

Prehistoric Indians left a pile of oyster shells in Maine estimated to contain 8,000,000 bushels of shells.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Gloucester, Mass., Sept. 21—The other day I visted an old schoolhouse which I attended when a boy. It then had a big wood stove, two outhouses in the back yard (with various "inscriptions" thereon) and two grades in each room to teach us concentration, and it surely did.

This old schoolhouse turned out workers and our parents then set us a good example by working hard themselves. We then walked to school, some of us two or more miles. Now this has changed. Schoolhouses now have modern toilets, with tiled walls so that the boys cannot write sassy inscriptions thereon. They have expensive central heating and ventilating systems. Busses take the children to school, with gymnasiums to exercise them after they get to school!

The whole idea now is to eliminate hardships and make the children soft. Yet, don't blame the school principals. These luxuries are demanded by the parents. Whether, however, the primitive system by which I was educated or the luxury system which exists today produces better men and women is debatable.

Bamboos and Blackboards

In my day, the teachers used the bamboo on us when reasoning failed to get results. I had my share of lickings and my parents never complained to the teachers because they spanked their "darling boy." For some reason the bamboo was not used on the girls, but they had a blackboard treatment. For instance, if a girl was caught using unbecoming language, she was compelled to write on the blackboard a hundred times the following: "A soft answer turneth away wrath."

I remember being taught to read from the McGuffey Readers and having to learn such sayings as "Habit is a cable. We weave a strand of it each day until it becomes so strong we cannot break it"; or "All that you do, do with all your might"; or "Things that are half done are never done right."

We Want Lower Prices

We want to reduce the cost of living, but the present price controls are the bunk. These laws are enacted to fool the voters and to make more jobs for Democrats. To reduce the cost of living, we must start with the schools and teach the children to love work instead of to love play. Turn to the yearbook which your high school seniors issue and you will see that 90 per cent of it is given to the various extra-curricular activities. This long name, used to fool us parents, really refers to sports, clubs and other things which teach children to spend money instead of to earn it. I have never found in one of these yearbooks the account of a spelling or mental arithmetic contest.

It may be that the merchants don't want lower prices, but want the children taught to be spenders. The merchants root for bands, baseball, football and other athletics. But again I say, don't blame the school principals. They are simply giving the parents what they demand. As long as parents are primarily interested in whom the high school employs as an athletic coach, we have only ourselves to blame.

We Want Religious Instruction

I am glad to say that the Bible continues to be read in Gloucester every morning. But the School Committee no longer seeks teachers who regularly attend church or teach in Sunday School. A woman who smoked or went to cocktail parties would then never be hired as a teacher. This change for the worse is wholly due to parents who have substituted canasta for family prayers, and cocktail parties for mid-week church services.

We blame juvenile delinquency upon the schools. We criticize the schools when boys break windows and the students go on strikes; but again the parents are to blame. Parents seem to be interested in only one thing—not what their children learn—but to have their children get a diploma. Even Parent-Teacher Associations seem more interested in the childrens' sports than in their studies. Of course, some day parents will see their present mistakes, and demand returning to fundamentals. This does not mean that we should return to outhouses, wood stoves and bamboos, but it does mean that we may return to the McGuffey Readers, the three R's, good discipline and creating among students the love to work and save.

One of the strong points of the expert bridge player is that he makes life as difficult as possible for his opponents. For example, suppose the opponents can defeat the expert's contract—is he downhearted? Not a bit of it. It's still their job to find the right defense, and the expert will do what he can to complicate their job.

Today's hand would be muffed by most average players but would be made by most experts for just the reason described. Let's examine the difference.

The average player wins the first club in dummy or in his own hand at random, draws two rounds of trumps, and then leads the jack of diamonds. West naturally ducks in order to let East win with the king of diamonds. East, just naturally, returns the jack of spades; and the fat is in the fire.

South must take the spade finesse, and the contract is defeated when the finesse loses. Two diamonds and a club must be lost no matter what happens, so the loss of a spade trick is fatal.

The expert sees all this coming and therefore wins the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs. His next step is to return the deuce of diamonds from the dummy.

The opponents can still defeat the contract, but they have to find the right defense instead of having it handed to them on the proverbial silver platter. At the second trick East must put up the king of diamonds. Do you know anybody who will make that defensive play?

I'll agree that a great expert will occasionally come up with the right defense. But if this type of play is made against him ten times a month, he'll meekly play low six or seven times out of the ten. (Eight or nine times would be closer to the truth, but I wouldn't want to be considered ungenerous.)

Once East is persuaded to play a low diamond at the second trick, the hand is home. West must win the first diamond, and West is in no position to lead spades. West must lead another club (as good as any), and South wins with the king. South then draws two rounds of trumps and leads his other diamond.

This sets up dummy's queen before the spades have been touched. South can get to dummy with the ten of trumps to discard his queen of spades on the queen of diamonds. The rest, of course, is child's play.

Our Older Folks

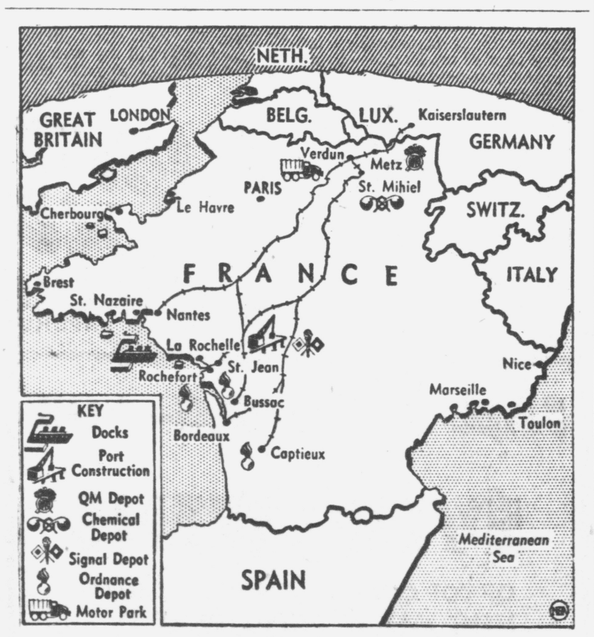

Editor, The Freeman:

I read recently that the state claims "Our Older Folks" are much more contented in their own homes, no matter how "humble" then in an "Institution for the Aged" and I agree, wholeheartedly, but, I ask: "Why then, don't they grant these "folks" in their "twilight hours of life" an adequate allowance to make their life worth the living, rather then dreading the day when they reach the age of 65 and forced through circumstances to ask for this allowance?"

There is a saying: "Charity is hell" and again I agree. Having had a "blind mother", caring for her, for over twenty years, I can "speak from experience." Not that I regret one minute any sacrifice I might of made for her, to me it was not a sacrifice, but a pleasure.

But what I do regret, was that we had to accept "charity" from the state, the town, in which we resided, for the allowance granted was barely enough to keep body and soul together. But I say: Thank "God," it is all over for my "mother" for "God" has called her home, and she is at last safe in His care, free of life's struggles. But, I do wish so, that "our government" would be a little more generous, with their "allowance, allotment, old age assistance" (call it what you will) to "our" future "old agers" and our "blind" of "our" country, so they can look forward to this age, with pleasure rather, then with dread, as I feel many do.

Very truly yours,
MISS ETHEL BENDELL

NATO'S NEW SUPPLY CHANNELS—Newsmap above shows main routes and installations of a new alternate supply route to Germany, for General Eisenhower's North Atlantic Treaty army, on which the U. S. Army has spent approximately $1,000,000,000 during the past year. System calls for maximum use of France's west coast ports, funneling supplies and equipment through Metz to Kaiserslautern, Germany. The new system will receive its first test during Allied maneuvers in West Germany in October.

Gray-Jeff Nuptials Solemnized Saturday In Church Ceremony

A 2 o'clock double ring ceremony Saturday in the Samsonville Methodist Church marked the marriage of Miss Jessie Bradford Jeff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jeff, Samsonville, to Pfc. Richard Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gray of Tabasco, now stationed at Belvoire, Va. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Jack Savage of that congregation, with Miss Carol Davis as organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length satin gown, en train, made with a fitted bodice and long sleeves with lace-edged pointed cuffs. Her hip-length veil was caught to a close-fitting cap, and she carried a cascade of white gladioli.

Mrs. Vaughn Decker, Jr. of Dairyland, was her sister's matron of honor. She was dressed in a ballerina-length gown of blue chiffon, and carried a cascade bouquet of peach gladioli. The Misses Edith and Lillian Jeff, both sisters of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Ushers were Alex Jeff, brother of the bride, and Herbert Gray, brother of the groom.

A reception followed at the church hall. The couple then left for a wedding trip to the Adirondacks and Lake George. The bride's going-away outfit included a dark brown suit with cobra skin accessories to match.

Upon their return Mrs. Gray will resume her duties with the New York Telephone Co., and her husband will return to Virginia.

Kingston Hospital School of Nursing Graduates 18 at Exercises Last Night

Eighteen young women from Kingston Hospital School of Nursing were graduated last night at exercises in Kingston High School auditorium.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. William J. McVey of the First Presbyterian Church, this city, while the commencement address was given by Dr. Marguerite J. Fisher of Syracuse University.

Lois Lorraine Aldridge, who gave the valedictory address, told her fellow students graduation "is by no means the end of our education . . . each day brings something new in the field of medicine. We, as nurses, must keep abreast of the times to more ably assist the medical profession as a whole."

She reminded her audience that at one time nurses were "the lowest type of women" without moral standards or professional training.

"During the last 150 years," Miss Aldridge added, "thanks to Florence Nightingale and others, nursing standards have improved." She spoke of the "larger place in the life of the world" nurses are now taking," and "the growing demand for supervisors, school and industrial nurses, and nurse educators."

"Because of the present high standard of the nursing profession," she concluded, "we realize there has been a spiritual as well as a material aid to mankind. This, in part, explains the motto of the class of '51: 'The most acceptable service to God, is doing good to man'."

The processional was played by Jeanette Spring, while Geraldine Peters Nathan, accompanied by Mrs. W. Earl Rylance, sang two selections. John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., president of the board of trustees, presided.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

MOTHER SHOULD BE FRANK!

This is certainly the most unusual letter I have ever received: "What can a mother do when she knows her daughter will probably not make a good wife and yet the man in question is so in love with her he seems to take her bad disposition; even appears to the mother to try to influence the girl in his direction. As long as he takes her places and spends money she will go out with him but whenever they happen to have to stay home of an evening she treats him badly. I think he's a grand man and would like to have him in the family, but how can a girl's own mother tell someone she considers her own daughter unworthy of him?

Since it is so out of the ordinary for a mother to feel as this one does, it would seem that the provocation is sufficiently great to warrant her speaking frankly to him about the one trait which might be destroying to his, and therefore the daughter's happiness.

Man Usually Pays

Dear Mrs. Post: When a friend and her husband are visiting me and we go out for lunch, movie or some other place similar, is it proper for me (a woman) to pay the bill or is it an insult to the man?

Answer: Unless you go to your club or some place where you sign the check, it could be very embarrassing to the husband to have you pay for him.

Same Godparents

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it impossible to ask the same friends to be godparents for all our children? It seems that there would be an advantage in this should anything happen to us. You are supposed to have said it isn't proper.

Answer: This would not be improper but it would certainly seem to be putting too much responsibility on the same friends. This is, however, a question of their willingness which you should be sure of, before making a such a suggestion.

Where to Put Knife and Fork

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper way to leave the knife and fork, and possibly a spoon, on the plate when finished eating?

Answer: Handles close together on the lower right edge of your plate.

Is it good taste to use place cards for a small dinner party? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her booklet No. 504, "Table Setting," includes the rule for place cards. To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Gray-Jeff Nuptials Solemnized Saturday In Church Ceremony

A 2 o'clock double ring ceremony Saturday in the Samsonville Methodist Church marked the marriage of Miss Jessie Bradford Jeff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jeff, Samsonville, to Pfc. Richard Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gray of Tabasco, now stationed at Belvoire, Va. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Jack Savage of that congregation, with Miss Carol Davis as organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length satin gown, en train, made with a fitted bodice and long sleeves with lace-edged pointed cuffs. Her hip-length veil was caught to a close-fitting cap, and she carried a cascade of white gladioli.

Mrs. Vaughn Decker, Jr. of Dairyland, was her sister's matron of honor. She was dressed in a ballerina-length gown of blue chiffon, and carried a cascade bouquet of peach gladioli. The Misses Edith and Lillian Jeff, both sisters of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Ushers were Alex Jeff, brother of the bride, and Herbert Gray, brother of the groom.

A reception followed at the church hall. The couple then left for a wedding trip to the Adirondacks and Lake George. The bride's going-away outfit included a dark brown suit with cobra skin accessories to match.

Upon their return Mrs. Gray will resume her duties with the New York Telephone Co., and her husband will return to Virginia.

MOTHER SHOULD BE FRANK!

This is certainly the most unusual letter I have ever received: "What can a mother do when she knows her daughter will probably not make a good wife and yet the man in question is so in love with her he seems to take her bad disposition; even appears to the mother to try to influence the girl in his direction. As long as he takes her places and spends money she will go out with him but whenever they happen to have to stay home of an evening she treats him badly. I think he's a grand man and would like to have him in the family, but how can a girl's own mother tell someone she considers her own daughter unworthy of him?

Since it is so out of the ordinary for a mother to feel as this one does, it would seem that the provocation is sufficiently great to warrant her speaking frankly to him about the one trait which might be destroying to his, and therefore the daughter's happiness.

Man Usually Pays

Dear Mrs. Post: When a friend and her husband are visiting me and we go out for lunch, movie or some other place similar, is it proper for me (a woman) to pay the bill or is it an insult to the man?

Answer: Unless you go to your club or some place where you sign the check, it could be very embarrassing to the husband to have you pay for him.

Same Godparents

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it impossible to ask the same friends to be godparents for all our children? It seems that there would be an advantage in this should anything happen to us. You are supposed to have said it isn't proper.

Answer: This would not be improper but it would certainly seem to be putting too much responsibility on the same friends. This is, however, a question of their willingness which you should be sure of, before making a such a suggestion.

Where to Put Knife and Fork

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper way to leave the knife and fork, and possibly a spoon, on the plate when finished eating?

Answer: Handles close together on the lower right edge of your plate.

Fewer Cars in Showrooms

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—There are one-fifth fewer passenger cars in dealers' showrooms today than there were in June. The number is expected to drop even lower in early 1952. The National Production Authority (NPA) told an automobile advisory committee meeting here yesterday the drop began in June when stocks were at an all-time high. Industry sources said yesterday they anticipate a 1952 output of between 3,300,000 to 4,400,000 passenger cars, compared with 5,400,000 in 1951.

Gray-Jeff Nuptials Solemnized Saturday In Church Ceremony

A 2 o'clock double ring ceremony Saturday in the Samsonville Methodist Church marked the marriage of Miss Jessie Bradford Jeff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jeff, Samsonville, to Pfc. Richard Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gray of Tabasco, now stationed at Belvoire, Va. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Jack Savage of that congregation, with Miss Carol Davis as organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length satin gown, en train, made with a fitted bodice and long sleeves with lace-edged pointed cuffs. Her hip-length veil was caught to a close-fitting cap, and she carried a cascade of white gladioli.

Mrs. Vaughn Decker, Jr. of Dairyland, was her sister's matron of honor. She was dressed in a ballerina-length gown of blue chiffon, and carried a cascade bouquet of peach gladioli. The Misses Edith and Lillian Jeff, both sisters of the bride, served as bridesmaids. Ushers were Alex Jeff, brother of the bride, and Herbert Gray, brother of the groom.

A reception followed at the church hall. The couple then left for a wedding trip to the Adirondacks and Lake George. The bride's going-away outfit included a dark brown suit with cobra skin accessories to match.

Upon their return Mrs. Gray will resume her duties with the New York Telephone Co., and her husband will return to Virginia.

Three Paltz Music Groups to Begin Autumn Rehearsals

Rehearsals for three New Paltz college-community musical organizations are scheduled to begin the week of September 24, it was announced yesterday. All former members and persons interested in joining the mixed chorus, orchestra or band are urged to attend each organization's opening meeting.

The chorus will begin its fifth season under the direction of Robert J. Strothenke Monday at 7:45 p. m., in Room 111, main college building. The group will rehearse Monday nights throughout the year. Immediate performance plans include a public concert during the Christmas season. According to Mr. Strothenke, "anyone who can carry a tune and wants to sing is welcome."

Orchestra rehearsals will be resumed Tuesday at 7:15 p. m., in the college band room. At the outset of its sixth season under the leadership of Dr. O. Lincoln Igou, the group plans three concerts and a joint appearance with the choral group. Membership includes amateur instrumentalists from West Shokan, Kingston, Ellenville, Highland, New Paltz and neighboring communities.

"There are openings in almost every section, and any interested musicians in the area are urged to join," Dr. Igou has explained. "We may not be the best in the world, but I doubt if any group has more fun rubbing elbows with some of the world's best music."

The College-Community Band, directed by Victor Landau, is scheduled to begin weekly rehearsals Wednesday. They also will be held in the college band room. Players of all band instruments are welcome. This year's innovation will be outdoor concerts both fall and spring, ccoupled with indoor performances during the winter months.

They have made two feature movies, and have appeared in leading hotels and theatres across the country.

Kingston Hospital School of Nursing Graduates 18 at Exercises Last Night

Eighteen young women from Kingston Hospital School of Nursing were graduated last night at exercises in Kingston High School auditorium.

The invocation and benediction were given by the Rev. William J. McVey of the First Presbyterian Church, this city, while the commencement address was given by Dr. Marguerite J. Fisher of Syracuse University.

Lois Lorraine Aldridge, who gave the valedictory address, told her fellow students graduation "is by no means the end of our education . . . each day brings something new in the field of medicine. We, as nurses, must keep abreast of the times to more ably assist the medical profession as a whole."

She reminded her audience that at one time nurses were "the lowest type of women" without moral standards or professional training.

"During the last 150 years," Miss Aldridge added, "thanks to Florence Nightingale and others, nursing standards have improved." She spoke of the "larger place in the life of the world" nurses are now taking," and "the growing demand for supervisors, school and industrial nurses, and nurse educators."

"Because of the present high standard of the nursing profession," she concluded, "we realize there has been a spiritual as well as a material aid to mankind. This, in part, explains the motto of the class of '51: 'The most acceptable service to God, is doing good to man'."

Awards and Prizes

It was announced that the Alumnae Association has given a $500 scholarship to be applied within two years of graduation for post-graduate study in nursing education or supervision, which any member of the class may apply for.

The following awards and prizes were given:

Fewer Cars in Showrooms

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—There are one-fifth fewer passenger cars in dealers' showrooms today than there were in June. The number is expected to drop even lower in early 1952. The National Production Authority (NPA) told an automobile advisory committee meeting here yesterday the drop began in June when stocks were at an all-time high. Industry sources said yesterday they anticipate a 1952 output of between 3,300,000 to 4,400,000 passenger cars, compared with 5,400,000 in 1951.

Are Back From Arctic

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Four U. S. Navy ships and a coast guard icebreaker are back from Arctic waters where they pushed their way during recent months to carry seasonal supplies to six weather stations in the far north. The navy announced yesterday the return of the group. It was the fourth such mission since 1947 to go into the high latitudes to supply the chain of weather stations. Of the chain, five are operated jointly by the U. S. and Canada and one by the U. S. and Denmark.

Says Controls Hurt

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—The National Retail Dry Goods Association says government wage and price controls are hurting department and specialty store business. The association said yesterday that a survey of 228 stores with an annual sales volume of over $1,000,000 each shows that 45 per cent lost money during the first half of 1951.

Acker Favors More Niagara Electricity By Private Sources

Ernest R. Acker, president of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., today urged the people of New York "to stop a definite socialistic trend in the government," by calling for Congressional approval of the immediate development of additional power from the Niagara river by private enterprise.

Acker said that a joint plan of five New York State Utilities for development of the Niagara would bring about savings of hundreds of millions of tax-payers dollars "that could be put to better use."

"Our economy is in a precarious position, top heavy from the demand of armament and defense," he stated. "Here is an opportunity to hold the line on unnecessary government expenditures. We believe we can construct the redevelopment at less cost and operate it with greater efficiency than could any agency of the government." He noted that because of the reasonable source of power the five utilities would annually save an estimated 17 million dollars which in turn would be passed on to the customer.

Would Organize Company

The five utilities, serving 90 per cent of the New York state area, have offered to organize and finance a company to construct the project without expense to federal or state government. These utilities, aside from the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., are Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., New York State Electric and Gas Corp., Consolidated Edison Co., of New York, Inc., and the Rochester Gas and Electric Corp.

A representative of the five utilities appeared today in support of a bill calling for their plan introduced by Representative William E. Miller of New York. He opposed bills introduced by Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, which provide for a federally financed and constructed re-development, and by Representative W. Sterling Cole which would permit the State of New York to construct and operate the project.

In calling for approval of the Miller Bill, Acker pointed out that the five utilities would be able to transmit and distribute the power through existing inter-connecting systems so that maximum power would flow to the most electric consumers. The five New York companies serve over four million customers.

Tercentenary Plans Need Full Cooperation: Rigby

Kingston's 300th Anniversary celebration next year will be a gigantic civic undertaking in which nearly everybody will be asked to cooperate, Harry Rigby, Jr., temporary chairman, told members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The celebration is a civic event, not a charitable event, he said, and as such everything will be done to make the year-long celebration as nearly self supporting as possible. More important than financial help, at the moment, is the contribution of the talents, time and effort "of about 30,000 people from Kingston and its vicinity," Rigby said.

Rigby reviewed the tentative plans that have been discussed by the temporary committee. They include an invitation to Queen Juliana of the Netherlands to visit Kingston and dedicate a large planting of Holland tulip bulbs; invitations to the French, Dutch and English to send warships to dock in the river off Kingston and to send marines to parade here; January 1 services in all churches; a re-enactment of the inauguration of the first governor of New York state on the steps of the Ulster County Court House, with the present governor invited to attend along with the state judiciary and the state Senate. A historical pageant is being planned for June, a military and patriotic celebration for July 4, and an "Old Home Week" in August during which all former Kingstonians will be invited to visit here. All plans are tentative, Rigby stressed.

Election of permanent directors for the newly incorporated "Kingston's 300th Anniversary" group has been scheduled for September 24 during an evening meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Following that election, the board of directors will choose the permanent officers to head the group.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

"This Week Magazine" of Sept. 9th, was brought to me. One feature is about the some 5,000 auctions held monthly in the New York area. They run from local ones on farm porches to fancy ones at swank auction galleries like the Parke-Bernet in their new Madison avenue building. They did some five and a half million dollar's worth of business this year, an increase of a million over last year. So can you blame anyone for trying to get in the act.

Auctions are popular right here in our own Ulster county. The author of the articles tells the following: "One elderly woman had to dispose of a modest home of well-used household items. She was offered only $20, for the furniture and knick-knacks by a second hand dealer. Her friends advised her, "Auction it off!" A professional auctioneer brought her the gratifying sum of $580, taking off, of course his well deserved 20 per cent."

The author also tells of a lady, auction-fan, who was driving through Rye, N. Y. and slowed down as she saw a pair of fine bronzes go up for $1. She bid loudly, "A dollar and a half!" She promptly sent them to the Parke-Bernet galleries on consignment, and a week later, they were auctioned off again, this time bringing $100 for each. Of course this doesn't happen every day.

Clarence Luedtke phoned me that in his travels in his outboard motorboat he runs across some interesting items. His chief interest is history on Indians. He said, he often has stopped at Kreuger Island, across the Hudson, opposite Glasco. He thinks the Ward Baking Co. has a lease on it as it is often called Ward Manor.

Just lately a historical, scientific group has been doing some excavation there as they have a shell bed of some 60 to 100 feet long and three feet thick. The Indians used to catch them in their nets and threw the shells away where they were consumed. Perhaps other readers know more about this island.

The mention of the Indian Tennis Court at Pierpont street in this column the other evening interested him as he has found arrow heads in other parts of the city. He found one up at the building of a garage in back of the State Armory. Just think of it, an arrowhead was made by the Indians some couple of hundred years ago and it outlasted them all.

Mr. Luedtke says it is very difficult to get books on local history and Indians. If they are in the library they are for reference and usually cannot be taken out as there are so few copies left and are not being reprinted. What I would like to see done, for the coming 300 Anniversary, is the reprinting of all the volumes such as "Clearwater's, Schoonmaker's, Van Buren, Brink's "Olde Ulster" and combined in four or five volumes and put on sale to the general public. No doubt rights could be obtained if necessary. Also copies made from pages in books like the two large "Hudson-Fulton Celebration" which pertains to Kingston and Ulster county. If this is not done soon, all these valuable books will soon disappear. Only copies will remain in vaults or attics, either unfit for human use or put away so that no one can see or get to them.

I remember when my father bought me the "Book of Knowledge" some 20 volumes, he paid so much each month. Perhaps such an arrangement could be made now, with a subscription before they are sent to print. Also perhaps some advertisers could buy space so that it would absorb printing costs to some extent. Or even use the 'commercial autobiography' idea to cover costs of printing so that they could be sold for a reasonable amount.

What I would like to see done, for the coming 300 Anniversary, is the reprinting of all the volumes such as "Clearwater's, Schoonmaker's, Van Buren, Brink's "Olde Ulster" and combined in four or five volumes and put on sale to the general public. No doubt rights could be obtained if necessary. Also copies made from pages in books like the two large "Hudson-Fulton Celebration" which pertains to Kingston and Ulster county. If this is not done soon, all these valuable books will soon disappear. Only copies will remain in vaults or attics, either unfit for human use or put away so that no one can see or get to them.

I remember when my father bought me the "Book of Knowledge" some 20 volumes, he paid so much each month. Perhaps such an arrangement could be made now, with a subscription before they are sent to print. Also perhaps some advertisers could buy space so that it would absorb printing costs to some extent. Or even use the 'commercial autobiography' idea to cover costs of printing so that they could be sold for a reasonable amount.

Children Get Day Free

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Sept. 21 (AP)—Argentine school children got today off to take part in fiesta parades—it was the first day of spring in this part of the world and it was celebrated officially. In North America, it was just two days away from autumn with winter ahead. The season begins officially at 3:38 p. m. (EST) Sunday. In New York, yesterday's temperature went over 80 degrees.

Are Back From Arctic

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Four U. S. Navy ships and a coast guard icebreaker are back from Arctic waters where they pushed their way during recent months to carry seasonal supplies to six weather stations in the far north. The navy announced yesterday the return of the group. It was the fourth such mission since 1947 to go into the high latitudes to supply the chain of weather stations. Of the chain, five are operated jointly by the U. S. and Canada and one by the U. S. and Denmark.

Says Controls Hurt

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—The National Retail Dry Goods Association says government wage and price controls are hurting department and specialty store business. The association said yesterday that a survey of 228 stores with an annual sales volume of over $1,000,000 each shows that 45 per cent lost money during the first half of 1951.

Acker Favors More Niagara Electricity By Private Sources

Ernest R. Acker, president of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., today urged the people of New York "to stop a definite socialistic trend in the government," by calling for Congressional approval of the immediate development of additional power from the Niagara river by private enterprise.

Acker said that a joint plan of five New York State Utilities for development of the Niagara would bring about savings of hundreds of millions of tax-payers dollars "that could be put to better use."

"Our economy is in a precarious position, top heavy from the demand of armament and defense," he stated. "Here is an opportunity to hold the line on unnecessary government expenditures. We believe we can construct the redevelopment at less cost and operate it with greater efficiency than could any agency of the government." He noted that because of the reasonable source of power the five utilities would annually save an estimated 17 million dollars which in turn would be passed on to the customer.

Would Organize Company

The five utilities, serving 90 per cent of the New York state area, have offered to organize and finance a company to construct the project without expense to federal or state government. These utilities, aside from the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., are Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., New York State Electric and Gas Corp., Consolidated Edison Co., of New York, Inc., and the Rochester Gas and Electric Corp.

A representative of the five utilities appeared today in support of a bill calling for their plan introduced by Representative William E. Miller of New York. He opposed bills introduced by Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, which provide for a federally financed and constructed re-development, and by Representative W. Sterling Cole which would permit the State of New York to construct and operate the project.

In calling for approval of the Miller Bill, Acker pointed out that the five utilities would be able to transmit and distribute the power through existing inter-connecting systems so that maximum power would flow to the most electric consumers. The five New York companies serve over four million customers.

Tercentenary Plans Need Full Cooperation: Rigby

Kingston's 300th Anniversary celebration next year will be a gigantic civic undertaking in which nearly everybody will be asked to cooperate, Harry Rigby, Jr., temporary chairman, told members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The celebration is a civic event, not a charitable event, he said, and as such everything will be done to make the year-long celebration as nearly self supporting as possible. More important than financial help, at the moment, is the contribution of the talents, time and effort "of about 30,000 people from Kingston and its vicinity," Rigby said.

Rigby reviewed the tentative plans that have been discussed by the temporary committee. They include an invitation to Queen Juliana of the Netherlands to visit Kingston and dedicate a large planting of Holland tulip bulbs; invitations to the French, Dutch and English to send warships to dock in the river off Kingston and to send marines to parade here; January 1 services in all churches; a re-enactment of the inauguration of the first governor of New York state on the steps of the Ulster County Court House, with the present governor invited to attend along with the state judiciary and the state Senate. A historical pageant is being planned for June, a military and patriotic celebration for July 4, and an "Old Home Week" in August during which all former Kingstonians will be invited to visit here. All plans are tentative, Rigby stressed.

Election of permanent directors for the newly incorporated "Kingston's 300th Anniversary" group has been scheduled for September 24 during an evening meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Following that election, the board of directors will choose the permanent officers to head the group.

Three British divisions and troops from the United States, France, Belgium and The Netherlands are taking part in the maneuvers.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Sept. 21 (AP)—Time went fast for machinist Earl Meek overnight. He brought home a fancy, new 1952 calendar, laid it on the kitchen table and went to bed. His wife saw it, tore off the first nine months and hung it up. Meek pointed out to her in the morning that it was a 1952 calendar.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

"This Week Magazine" of Sept. 9th, was brought to me. One feature is about the some 5,000 auctions held monthly in the New York area. They run from local ones on farm porches to fancy ones at swank auction galleries like the Parke-Bernet in their new Madison avenue building. They did some five and a half million dollar's worth of business this year, an increase of a million over last year. So can you blame anyone for trying to get in the act.

Auctions are popular right here in our own Ulster county. The author of the articles tells the following: "One elderly woman had to dispose of a modest home of well-used household items. She was offered only $20, for the furniture and knick-knacks by a second hand dealer. Her friends advised her, "Auction it off!" A professional auctioneer brought her the gratifying sum of $580, taking off, of course his well deserved 20 per cent."

The author also tells of a lady, auction-fan, who was driving through Rye, N. Y. and slowed down as she saw a pair of fine bronzes go up for $1. She bid loudly, "A dollar and a half!" She promptly sent them to the Parke-Bernet galleries on consignment, and a week later, they were auctioned off again, this time bringing $100 for each. Of course this doesn't happen every day.

Clarence Luedtke phoned me that in his travels in his outboard motorboat he runs across some interesting items. His chief interest is history on Indians. He said, he often has stopped at Kreuger Island, across the Hudson, opposite Glasco. He thinks the Ward Baking Co. has a lease on it as it is often called Ward Manor.

Just lately a historical, scientific group has been doing some excavation there as they have a shell bed of some 60 to 100 feet long and three feet thick. The Indians used to catch them in their nets and threw the shells away where they were consumed. Perhaps other readers know more about this island.

The mention of the Indian Tennis Court at Pierpont street in this column the other evening interested him as he has found arrow heads in other parts of the city. He found one up at the building of a garage in back of the State Armory. Just think of it, an arrowhead was made by the Indians some couple of hundred years ago and it outlasted them all.

Mr. Luedtke says it is very difficult to get books on local history and Indians. If they are in the library they are for reference and usually cannot be taken out as there are so few copies left and are not being reprinted. What I would like to see done, for the coming 300 Anniversary, is the reprinting of all the volumes such as "Clearwater's, Schoonmaker's, Van Buren, Brink's "Olde Ulster" and combined in four or five volumes and put on sale to the general public. No doubt rights could be obtained if necessary. Also copies made from pages in books like the two large "Hudson-Fulton Celebration" which pertains to Kingston and Ulster county. If this is not done soon, all these valuable books will soon disappear. Only copies will remain in vaults or attics, either unfit for human use or put away so that no one can see or get to them.

I remember when my father bought me the "Book of Knowledge" some 20 volumes, he paid so much each month. Perhaps such an arrangement could be made now, with a subscription before they are sent to print. Also perhaps some advertisers could buy space so that it would absorb printing costs to some extent. Or even use the 'commercial autobiography' idea to cover costs of printing so that they could be sold for a reasonable amount.

Kingston High Launches 1951 Grid Season Saturday at Schenectady

Only Three Vets Will Start Game; Home Next Friday

Nine Lettermen Back With Mont Pleasant

A green and inexperienced team but one which Coach Bill Burke says may come along before the season ends will launch Kingston High School's 1951 football season Saturday afternoon in Schenectady against Mont Pleasant.

They always grow them big and powerful up in Schenectady and the local gridders know well that it won't be any tea party.

With only three veterans back from last year's undefeated pennant-winning club, the outlook is anything but promising for the Burkemen as they open another big season.

Slated for practically full-time jobs this year are Bruce "Red" Hinkley at center, Al Carpino at fullback and Charlie Tiano, end. Frank Fiore, who saw considerable defensive service last year, is due to break into the offensive alignment with the KHS gridders this year at one of the halfback posts.

Meanwhile, reports out of Schenectady indicate that Mont Pleasant has another rugged ball team. Nine lettermen are reported to be the nucleus of the club and if that means anything the Dorpiah eleven should be a tough assignment on this first week's outing for Coach Burke's club.

Home Next Friday

After tomorrow's opener, the Maroon and White gridders will return for the first home contest next Friday, September 28, at 8 p. m. against Highland High School, at municipal stadium.

Reports from other DUSO League clubs indicate that last year's graduation hit all league contenders very hard.

Middletown, which appears in Kingston Friday night, October 19, will field only three lettermen in its opener against New Rochelle High School Saturday afternoon at Wilson Field.

The depleted ranks of the Middies show only John Dineen, quarterback; Bill Parry, center; and Roger McClurg, fullback, as the returning veterans.

Such standout Middie players from last year's squad as Charlie Newkirk, Gene Currier and John Volpe from the backfield alone will be among the missing. Gone also are linemen Marty Cosgrove, Stu Decker, Jim Frangos and Frank Morris.

Practically the same situation prevails at Newburgh where Coach Stu Hemingway is having his troubles in finding suitable replacements for graduated stars. Back this year are Dick Spreer, quarter; Bob Jackson, end last year and slated for fullback duty this fall; and Sam Leghorn, quarterback last year who will be at the end position when the curtain goes up. Newburgh plays host to Ossining Saturday afternoon at the Academy Field.

Similar reports come from Port Jervis and Poughkeepsie.

Only a handful of vets will be in Port's lineup this year including Doug Cherry at center, Mel Decker, regarded as the most improved player on the 1950 squad; and Tracy Longwell, halfback. Dick Shewchuk, captain, will be at fullback. Port backers are counting highly on Dave Lutz to handle the quarterbacking job in good style.

Port opens its 1951 season Friday night, Sept. 28, against Goshen at Port Jervis.

Poughkeepsie, which opens its season Saturday against Beacon at Memorial Field, also has a big rebuilding job ahead, according to early reports.

Several of last year's outstanding players including Tom Gloede, Dick Rubin, Bob Moran, Billy Santos, Jimmy Lewis and Frank Pizzarelli will not be back with the Bridge City gridders this year.

Kingston Roster

The following players are expected to see most of the action Saturday in Schenectady:

Ends—Tiano, Craft, Hooper and Johnson.

Tackles — Barmann, Engle, Scheffer and John Meyers.

Guards—Gallo, Kurdt and Rienzo.

Center—Bruce Hinkley.

Backs—Murphy, Manfro, Jones, Ferraro, F. Fiore, Carpino, Massa.

City League Will Convene Tonight

An important meeting of the Kingston City Baseball League will be held tonight at 7 o'clock at the city hall, Secretary Joe Messinger announced this morning.

Several important items including the selection of the most valuable player of the league and plans for the post-season banquet will be discussed.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: Joe Collins, Yankees—hit three-run homer in eighth inning for New York's 5-4 edge over Chicago.

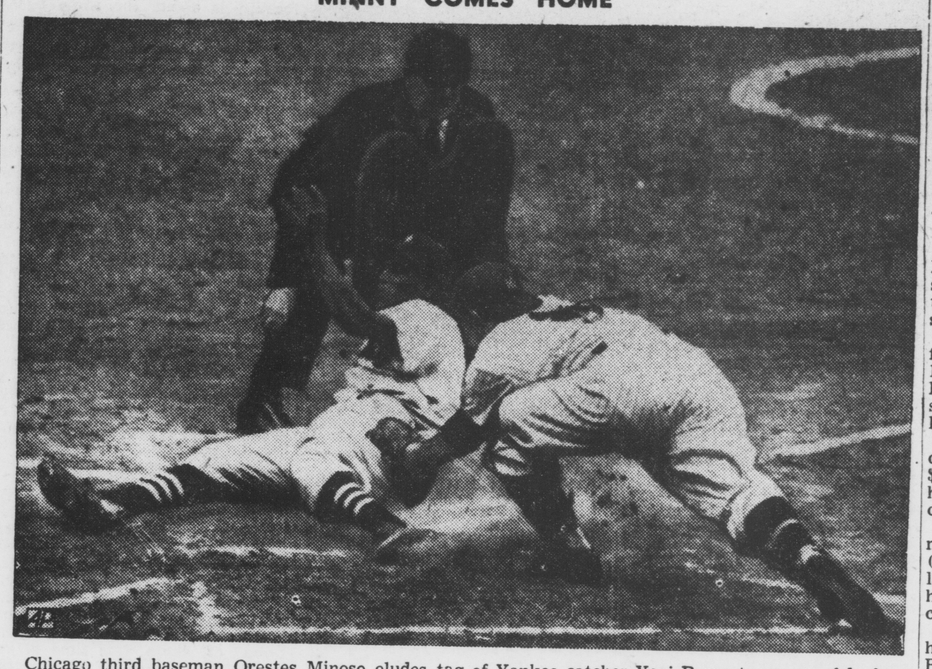

Pitching: Carl Erskine, Dodgers—boosted Brooklyn's lead to 4½ games with route-going job against St. Louis, 4-3, for 16th win.

MINNY COMES HOME

Chicago third baseman Orestes Minoso eludes tag of Yankee catcher Yogi Berra to score safely from third in the opening inning of the Yankees-White Sox game at Yankee Stadium. Plate Umpire Bill Summers leans over the play as Yogi stabs at the runner in vain after taking second baseman Gil McDougald's relay of pinch-hitter Jim Busby's short fly. Yankees won, 5-4.

Indians Hope to Make Hay While Yankees Open 'Crooshal' Series

Bombers Still After First Fenway Victory

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Thanks to Joe Collins' timely home run, the New York Yankees take a half game lead into Fenway Park today for their dog-eat-dog series with the Boston Red Sox.

Cleveland, idle yesterday, gets its big chance to storm into first place while the Yanks and Red Sox wrestle. The Indians play three games with Detroit, a team they have beaten 16 out of 17 times this season.

Collins' blow off Chicago's Saul Rogovin with two on base in the eighth inning saved the Yanks from dropping out of the lead. Instead they opened up a half game edge on the Indians by a 5-4 victory over the White Sox.

This is the same Joe Collins, a 27-year-oldster from Scranton, Pa., who used to play only the eighth and ninth innings for defensive purposes. Now he has practically retired Johnny Mize to pinch hitting chores.

Rogovin Loses Touch

The part-time first baseman also saved the game with a dazzling backhand grab of Eddie Robinson's smash in the ninth inning.

Rogovin had the Yanks eating out of his hand through the middle innings, retiring 12 straight batters between the second to seventh innings. He took a 4-2 edge into the eighth.

Phil Ruzzuto opened the eighth with a single. Mize flied out, Mickey Mantle walked and Collins' blast into the lower right field seats cost Rogovin his eighth loss.

Johnny Sain, the $50,000 waiver buy from the Boston Braves, failed to survive the first inning. The Yanks had to use five pitchers with Bobby Hogue, another ex-Brave, getting the win.

Manager Casey Stengel has his pitching in good shape for Boston with Allie Reynolds, Eddie Lopat and Vic Raschi ready for the three games. They'll face three southpaws—Leo Kiely, Mel Parnell and Chuck Stobbs.

The Yanks haven't won a game at Fenway all season in eight starts. Against the Red Sox they trail 10-4 on the season series. Eight of their nine remaining games are with Boston.

Bums Stretch Lead

Cleveland, with six to play including five with Detroit, will shoot Bobby Feller at the Tigers' lefty Ted Gray in the opener of their three-game series at Briggs Stadium.

While the American League threatens to grind down to the final day, the National has loosened up a bit. Brooklyn widened its lead to 4½ games by shading St. Louis, 4-3, while the second-place New York Giants lost to Cincinnati, 3-1.

Carl Erskine snapped Cliff Chambers' personal six-game win streak with an eight-hitter for his 16th victory. Gil Hodges' 39th homer helped him home.

When the final standings are tabulated, Brooklyn's feat of taking 18 of 22 from St. Louis probably will have been decisive.

The Giants suffered a staggering blow to their faint hopes when Cincy routed Jim Hearn in a three-run eighth inning. The defeat left the Giants six games behind Brooklyn in the loss column.

Kenny Raffensberger, lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, chalked up his 15th win at Hearn's expense. The Reds had 12 hits to four for New York and left 15 on base. Ewell Blackwell finished up for Raffensberger. It was Cincy's fifth win in 22 games with New York.

Satchel Whiffs Five

Satchel Paige struck out five in a three-inning relief chore to give the St. Louis Browns a 4-3 edge over Washington in the only night game. He fanned the last four men in the game. Cliff Mapes' homer in the first was one of the 13 Brownie hits off Don Johnson and Tom Ferrick.

With only four games scheduled, half the major league teams were idle yesterday.

See Trouble Ahead

Reading, Pa., Sept. 21 (AP)—Two unknowns and an old pro, tied for the first round lead in the $15,000 Reading Open golf tournament, agreed today it will take some fancy putting and accurate driving to cop first money. That sentiment is echoed by Jim Turnesa, swarthy 37-year-old veteran from Briarcliff, N. Y., chunky Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., and blond-haired Jimmy Clark from Laguna Beach, Calif. Each posted a 69, two under par. Out of the 142 players that banged away in the first round only four managed to fire under regulation figures and seven posted par scores.

Magnates Name Frick As New Commissioner

Vote Is Unanimous After Giles Withdraws

Chicago, Sept. 21 (AP)—Ford Frick with a dramatic assist of sportsmanship from Warren Giles, today is baseball's new commissioner.

Giles late last night threw his full support behind the National League president to break a deadlock of club owners and swing sports' biggest job to the gray, lean, 56-year-old Frick.

Frick was given a seven-year contract at an annual salary of $65,000, about $25,000 more than he received as head of the senior circuit.

Frick is baseball's third commissioner. He succeeds A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who resigned last July 15 after the club owners had refused to vote him a new contract.

Until Giles, the courtly, white-haired president of the Cincinnati Reds made his unparalleled gesture, the 16 major league magnates had wrangled almost 11 hours in a vain attempt to get the required majority of 12 votes.

List Trimmed to Two

In the first hour of their session, they had trimmed the list to Giles and Frick. But from then on they were stymied, and probably still would be today if Giles had not made his surprise move.

Like a hung jury, the owners cast ballot after ballot—approximately 20 in all—but never did either candidate collect more than 10 votes.

After Giles appeared before the owners and withdrew his name, the following vote was 14-2 for Frick. Then the Cincinnati executive made a motion that a final ballot be taken and that it be unanimous.

That is how Frick—climaxing a varied career running from newspaperman, assistant English professor and radio commentator to the National League presidency in 1934—obtained the full 16 votes.

Giles said he did what he thought best for the interest of baseball—"the closest thing to my heart."

Chandler in 1945 succeeded the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis who had served as baseball's first commissioner since 1921 following the Black Sox scandal.

Upon the death of Landis, there was a movement toward Frick as his successor. At that time, Giles was reported ready to become president of the National League should Frick be named.

Although this maneuver was detoured by the selection of Chandler, the way may now be cleared for it.

Bronxville, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—Ford Frick left a lobster dinner long enough to accept by telephone the commissionership of baseball, express surprise at being elected and then disappeared last night.

"The news sure came as a surprise to me," said the National League president when reached at his home a few minutes after being advised of his election from Chicago.

But less than an hour later the Frick home was dark and the man who'll take over sports' biggest job at $65,000 a year couldn't be found. A reporter, parked in front of Frick's home with hopes he would return, heard the phone ring 44 times without an answer.

The Bronxville police had found the new commissioner earlier when Charles Segar, head of the National League Service Bureau, put them on Frick's trail so that he could be notified of his election. The police located him eating a lobster dinner and he went home to receive the congratulations of the 16 club owners and officials gathered in Chicago.

Before disappearing, however, Frick said notice of his election came so sudden "that I have not had a chance to think about the job.

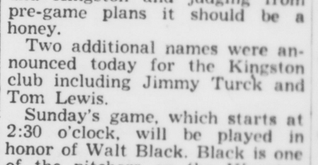

"I will do the best I can but it is a big one. The owners apparently were 100 per cent for me and I'll certainly be 100 per cent for them.

"It will take the cooperation of all—fans, owners and players—to make a success of the job."

Little League Will Get Proceeds From Old Timers Contest

Proceeds from Sunday afternoon's Old Timers battle at the Athletic Field will be given to the Kingston Little League treasury, Joe Hoffman, co-manager of the Kingston club, announced today.

The Old Timers fray will pit together teams from Saugerties and Kingston and judging from pre-game plans it should be a honey.

Two additional names were announced today for the Kingston club including Jimmy Turck and Tom Lewis.

Sunday's game, which starts at 2:30 o'clock, will be played in honor of Walt Black. Black is one of the pitchers on the Kingston roster.

Strong Finish Wins Metro for Harmon

Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 21 (AP)—Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., fell apart in the last round of the Metropolitan Open yesterday and Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., was there to catch the pieces and win the title.

Harmon came through with scores of 69 and 70 over the Forest Hill layout yesterday to finish with a winning total of 275.

Cooper who had a commanding lead going into yesterday's play, took a 71, then a 74 and barely finished second with a 277 total. He fired an opening-round 63 Tuesday to break Craig Wood's old course record of 64, but after that he was progressively worse.

"I ran out of gas," he explained after blowing his four-stroke lead.

Harmon, always a steady, stylish golfer, was good where Cooper was bad. The former Masters champ finished out with seven straight pars.

May Succeed Frick

Chicago, Sept. 21 (AP)—Warren Giles, who withdrew in favor of Ford Frick for election as commissioner of baseball, today appeared an outstanding candidate to succeed Frick as president of the National League.

Kingston High Launches 1951 Grid Season Saturday at Schenectady

Only Three Vets Will Start Game; Home Next Friday

Nine Lettermen Back With Mont Pleasant

A green and inexperienced team but one which Coach Bill Burke says may come along before the season ends will launch Kingston High School's 1951 football season Saturday afternoon in Schenectady against Mont Pleasant.

They always grow them big and powerful up in Schenectady and the local gridders know well that it won't be any tea party.

With only three veterans back from last year's undefeated pennant-winning club, the outlook is anything but promising for the Burkemen as they open another big season.

Slated for practically full-time jobs this year are Bruce "Red" Hinkley at center, Al Carpino at fullback and Charlie Tiano, end. Frank Fiore, who saw considerable defensive service last year, is due to break into the offensive alignment with the KHS gridders this year at one of the halfback posts.

Meanwhile, reports out of Schenectady indicate that Mont Pleasant has another rugged ball team. Nine lettermen are reported to be the nucleus of the club and if that means anything the Dorpian eleven should be a tough assignment on this first week's outing for Coach Burke's club.

Home Next Friday

After tomorrow's opener, the Maroon and White gridders will return for the first home contest next Friday, September 28, at 8 p. m. against Highland High School, at municipal stadium.

Reports from other DUSO League clubs indicate that last year's graduation hit all league contenders very hard.

Middletown, which appears in Kingston Friday night, October 19, will field only three lettermen in its opener against New Rochelle High School Saturday afternoon at Wilson Field.

The depleted ranks of the Middies show only John Dineen, quarterback; Bill Parry, center; and Roger McClurg, fullback, as the returning veterans.

Such standout Middie players from last year's squad as Charlie Newkirk, Gene Currier and John Volpe from the backfield alone will be among the missing. Gone also are linemen Marty Cosgrove, Stu Decker, Jim Frangos and Frank Morris.

Practically the same situation prevails at Newburgh where Coach Stu Hemingway is having his troubles in finding suitable replacements for graduated stars. Back this year are Dick Spreer, quarter; Bob Jackson, end last year and slated for fullback duty this fall; and Sam Leghorn, quarterback last year who will be at the end position when the curtain goes up. Newburgh plays host to Ossining Saturday afternoon at the Academy Field.

Similar reports come from Port Jervis and Poughkeepsie.

Only a handful of vets will be in Port's lineup this year including Doug Cherry at center, Mel Decker, regarded as the most improved player on the 1950 squad; and Tracy Longwell, halfback. Dick Shewchuk, captain, will be at fullback. Port backers are counting highly on Dave Lutz to handle the quarterbacking job in good style.

Port opens its 1951 season Friday night, Sept. 28, against Goshen at Port Jervis.

Poughkeepsie, which opens its season Saturday against Beacon at Memorial Field, also has a big rebuilding job ahead, according to early reports.

Several of last year's outstanding players including Tom Gloede, Dick Rubin, Bob Moran, Billy Santos, Jimmy Lewis and Frank Pizzarelli will not be back with the Bridge City gridders this year.

Kingston Roster

The following players are expected to see most of the action Saturday in Schenectady:

Ends—Tiano, Craft, Hooper and Johnson.

Tackles — Barmann, Engle, Scheffer and John Meyers.

Center—Bruce Hinkley.

Backs—Murphy, Manfro, Jones, Ferraro, F. Fiore, Carpino, Massa.

City League Will Convene Tonight

An important meeting of the Kingston City Baseball League will be held tonight at 7 o'clock at the city hall, Secretary Joe Messinger announced this morning.

Several important items including the selection of the most valuable player of the league and plans for the post-season banquet will be discussed.

Indians Hope to Make Hay While Yankees Open 'Crooshal' Series

Bombers Still After First Fenway Victory

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Thanks to Joe Collins' timely home run, the New York Yankees take a half game lead into Fenway Park today for their dog-eat-dog series with the Boston Red Sox.

Cleveland, idle yesterday, gets its big chance to storm into first place while the Yanks and Red Sox wrestle. The Indians play three games with Detroit, a team they have beaten 16 out of 17 times this season.

Collins' blow off Chicago's Saul Rogovin with two on base in the eighth inning saved the Yanks from dropping out of the lead. Instead they opened up a half game edge on the Indians by a 5-4 victory over the White Sox.

This is the same Joe Collins, a 27-year-oldster from Scranton, Pa., who used to play only the eighth and ninth innings for defensive purposes. Now he has practically retired Johnny Mize to pinch hitting chores.

Rogovin Loses Touch

The part-time first baseman also saved the game with a dazzling backhand grab of Eddie Robinson's smash in the ninth inning.

Rogovin had the Yanks eating out of his hand through the middle innings, retiring 12 straight batters between the second to seventh innings. He took a 4-2 edge into the eighth.

Phil Ruzzuto opened the eighth with a single. Mize flied out, Mickey Mantle walked and Collins' blast into the lower right field seats cost Rogovin his eighth loss.

Johnny Sain, the $50,000 waiver buy from the Boston Braves, failed to survive the first inning. The Yanks had to use five pitchers with Bobby Hogue, another ex-Brave, getting the win.

Manager Casey Stengel has his pitching in good shape for Boston with Allie Reynolds, Eddie Lopat and Vic Raschi ready for the three games. They'll face three southpaws—Leo Kiely, Mel Parnell and Chuck Stobbs.

The Yanks haven't won a game at Fenway all season in eight starts. Against the Red Sox they trail 10-4 on the season series. Eight of their nine remaining games are with Boston.

Bums Stretch Lead

Cleveland, with six to play including five with Detroit, will shoot Bobby Feller at the Tigers' lefty Ted Gray in the opener of their three-game series at Briggs Stadium.

While the American League threatens to grind down to the final day, the National has loosened up a bit. Brooklyn widened its lead to 4½ games by shading St. Louis, 4-3, while the second-place New York Giants lost to Cincinnati, 3-1.

Carl Erskine snapped Cliff Chambers' personal six-game win streak with an eight-hitter for his 16th victory. Gil Hodges' 39th homer helped him home.

When the final standings are tabulated, Brooklyn's feat of taking 18 of 22 from St. Louis probably will have been decisive.

The Giants suffered a staggering blow to their faint hopes when Cincy routed Jim Hearn in a three-run eighth inning. The defeat left the Giants six games behind Brooklyn in the loss column.

Kenny Raffensberger, lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, chalked up his 15th win at Hearn's expense. The Reds had 12 hits to four for New York and left 15 on base. Ewell Blackwell finished up for Raffensberger. It was Cincy's fifth win in 22 games with New York.

Satchel Whiffs Five

Satchel Paige struck out five in a three-inning relief chore to give the St. Louis Browns a 4-3 edge over Washington in the only night game. He fanned the last four men in the game. Cliff Mapes' homer in the first was one of the 13 Brownie hits off Don Johnson and Tom Ferrick.

With only four games scheduled, half the major league teams were idle yesterday.

Chandler in 1945 succeeded the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis who had served as baseball's first commissioner since 1921 following the Black Sox scandal.

Upon the death of Landis, there was a movement toward Frick as his successor. At that time, Giles was reported ready to become president of the National League should Frick be named.

Although this maneuver was detoured by the selection of Chandler, the way may now be cleared for it.

Bronxville, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—Ford Frick left a lobster dinner long enough to accept by telephone the commissionership of baseball, express surprise at being elected and then disappeared last night.

"The news sure came as a surprise to me," said the National League president when reached at his home a few minutes after being advised of his election from Chicago.

But less than an hour later the Frick home was dark and the man who'll take over sports' biggest job at $65,000 a year couldn't be found. A reporter, parked in front of Frick's home with hopes he would return, heard the phone ring 44 times without an answer.

The Bronxville police had found the new commissioner earlier when Charles Segar, head of the National League Service Bureau, put them on Frick's trail so that he could be notified of his election. The police located him eating a lobster dinner and he went home to receive the congratulations of the 16 club owners and officials gathered in Chicago.

Before disappearing, however, Frick said notice of his election came so sudden "that I have not had a chance to think about the job.

"I will do the best I can but it is a big one. The owners apparently were 100 per cent for me and I'll certainly be 100 per cent for them.

"It will take the cooperation of all—fans, owners and players—to make a success of the job."

Strong Finish Wins Metro for Harmon

Bloomfield, N. J., Sept. 21 (AP)—Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., fell apart in the last round of the Metropolitan Open yesterday and Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., was there to catch the pieces and win the title.

Harmon came through with scores of 69 and 70 over the Forest Hill layout yesterday to finish with a winning total of 275.

Cooper who had a commanding lead going into yesterday's play, took a 71, then a 74 and barely finished second with a 277 total. He fired an opening-round 63 Tuesday to break Craig Wood's old course record of 64, but after that he was progressively worse.

"I ran out of gas," he explained after blowing his four-stroke lead.

Harmon, always a steady, stylish golfer, was good where Cooper was bad. The former Masters champ finished out with seven straight pars.

Vic Ghezzi, once a New Jersey pro but now from Inwood, N. Y., carded a pair of 71's yesterday to tie for third with Clarence Doser of Hartsdale, N. Y., at 278.

Chicago, Sept. 21 (AP)—Warren Giles, who withdrew in favor of Ford Frick for election as commissioner of baseball, today appeared an outstanding candidate to succeed Frick as president of the National League.

Kingston High Launches 1951 Grid Season Saturday at Schenectady

Only Three Vets Will Start Game; Home Next Friday

Nine Lettermen Back With Mont Pleasant

A green and inexperienced team but one which Coach Bill Burke says may come along before the season ends will launch Kingston High School's 1951 football season Saturday afternoon in Schenectady against Mont Pleasant.

They always grow them big and powerful up in Schenectady and the local gridders know well that it won't be any tea party.

With only three veterans back from last year's undefeated pennant-winning club, the outlook is anything but promising for the Burkemen as they open another big season.

Slated for practically full-time jobs this year are Bruce "Red" Hinkley at center, Al Carpino at fullback and Charlie Tiano, end. Frank Fiore, who saw considerable defensive service last year, is due to break into the offensive alignment with the KHS gridders this year at one of the halfback posts.

Meanwhile, reports out of Schenectady indicate that Mont Pleasant has another rugged ball team. Nine lettermen are reported to be the nucleus of the club and if that means anything the Dorpiah eleven should be a tough assignment on this first week's outing for Coach Burke's club.

Home Next Friday

After tomorrow's opener, the Maroon and White gridders will return for the first home contest next Friday, September 28, at 8 p. m. against Highland High School, at municipal stadium.

Reports from other DUSO League clubs indicate that last year's graduation hit all league contenders very hard.

Middletown, which appears in Kingston Friday night, October 19, will field only three lettermen in its opener against New Rochelle High School Saturday afternoon at Wilson Field.

The depleted ranks of the Middies show only John Dineen, quarterback; Bill Parry, center; and Roger McClurg, fullback, as the returning veterans.

Such standout Middie players from last year's squad as Charlie Newkirk, Gene Currier and John Volpe from the backfield alone will be among the missing. Gone also are linemen Marty Cosgrove, Stu Decker, Jim Frangos and Frank Morris.

Practically the same situation prevails at Newburgh where Coach Stu Hemingway is having his troubles in finding suitable replacements for graduated stars. Back this year are Dick Spreer, quarter; Bob Jackson, end last year and slated for fullback duty this fall; and Sam Leghorn, quarterback last year who will be at the end position when the curtain goes up. Newburgh plays host to Ossining Saturday afternoon at the Academy Field.

Similar reports come from Port Jervis and Poughkeepsie.

Only a handful of vets will be in Port's lineup this year including Doug Cherry at center, Mel Decker, regarded as the most improved player on the 1950 squad; and Tracy Longwell, halfback. Dick Shewchuk, captain, will be at fullback. Port backers are counting highly on Dave Lutz to handle the quarterbacking job in good style.

Port opens its 1951 season Friday night, Sept. 28, against Goshen at Port Jervis.

Poughkeepsie, which opens its season Saturday against Beacon at Memorial Field, also has a big rebuilding job ahead, according to early reports.

Several of last year's outstanding players including Tom Gloede, Dick Rubin, Bob Moran, Billy Santos, Jimmy Lewis and Frank Pizzarelli will not be back with the Bridge City gridders this year.

Kingston Roster

The following players are expected to see most of the action Saturday in Schenectady:

Ends—Tiano, Craft, Hooper and Johnson.

Tackles — Barmann, Engle, Scheffer and John Meyers.

Center—Bruce Hinkley.

Backs—Murphy, Manfro, Jones, Ferraro, F. Fiore, Carpino, Massa.

City League Will Convene Tonight

An important meeting of the Kingston City Baseball League will be held tonight at 7 o'clock at the city hall, Secretary Joe Messinger announced this morning.

Several important items including the selection of the most valuable player of the league and plans for the post-season banquet will be discussed.

Indians Hope to Make Hay While Yankees Open 'Crooshal' Series

Bombers Still After First Fenway Victory

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Thanks to Joe Collins' timely home run, the New York Yankees take a half game lead into Fenway Park today for their dog-eat-dog series with the Boston Red Sox.

Cleveland, idle yesterday, gets its big chance to storm into first place while the Yanks and Red Sox wrestle. The Indians play three games with Detroit, a team they have beaten 16 out of 17 times this season.

Collins' blow off Chicago's Saul Rogovin with two on base in the eighth inning saved the Yanks from dropping out of the lead. Instead they opened up a half game edge on the Indians by a 5-4 victory over the White Sox.

This is the same Joe Collins, a 27-year-oldster from Scranton, Pa., who used to play only the eighth and ninth innings for defensive purposes. Now he has practically retired Johnny Mize to pinch hitting chores.

Rogovin Loses Touch

The part-time first baseman also saved the game with a dazzling backhand grab of Eddie Robinson's smash in the ninth inning.

Rogovin had the Yanks eating out of his hand through the middle innings, retiring 12 straight batters between the second to seventh innings. He took a 4-2 edge into the eighth.

Phil Ruzzuto opened the eighth with a single. Mize flied out, Mickey Mantle walked and Collins' blast into the lower right field seats cost Rogovin his eighth loss.

Johnny Sain, the $50,000 waiver buy from the Boston Braves, failed to survive the first inning. The Yanks had to use five pitchers with Bobby Hogue, another ex-Brave, getting the win.

Manager Casey Stengel has his pitching in good shape for Boston with Allie Reynolds, Eddie Lopat and Vic Raschi ready for the three games. They'll face three southpaws—Leo Kiely, Mel Parnell and Chuck Stobbs.

The Yanks haven't won a game at Fenway all season in eight starts. Against the Red Sox they trail 10-4 on the season series. Eight of their nine remaining games are with Boston.

Bums Stretch Lead

Cleveland, with six to play including five with Detroit, will shoot Bobby Feller at the Tigers' lefty Ted Gray in the opener of their three-game series at Briggs Stadium.

While the American League threatens to grind down to the final day, the National has loosened up a bit. Brooklyn widened its lead to 4½ games by shading St. Louis, 4-3, while the second-place New York Giants lost to Cincinnati, 3-1.

Carl Erskine snapped Cliff Chambers' personal six-game win streak with an eight-hitter for his 16th victory. Gil Hodges' 39th homer helped him home.

When the final standings are tabulated, Brooklyn's feat of taking 18 of 22 from St. Louis probably will have been decisive.

The Giants suffered a staggering blow to their faint hopes when Cincy routed Jim Hearn in a three-run eighth inning. The defeat left the Giants six games behind Brooklyn in the loss column.

Kenny Raffensberger, lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, chalked up his 15th win at Hearn's expense. The Reds had 12 hits to four for New York and left 15 on base. Ewell Blackwell finished up for Raffensberger. It was Cincy's fifth win in 22 games with New York.

Satchel Whiffs Five

Satchel Paige struck out five in a three-inning relief chore to give the St. Louis Browns a 4-3 edge over Washington in the only night game. He fanned the last four men in the game. Cliff Mapes' homer in the first was one of the 13 Brownie hits off Don Johnson and Tom Ferrick.

With only four games scheduled, half the major league teams were idle yesterday.

See Trouble Ahead

Reading, Pa., Sept. 21 (AP)—Two unknowns and an old pro, tied for the first round lead in the $15,000 Reading Open golf tournament, agreed today it will take some fancy putting and accurate driving to cop first money. That sentiment is echoed by Jim Turnesa, swarthy 37-year-old veteran from Briarcliff, N. Y., chunky Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., and blond-haired Jimmy Clark from Laguna Beach, Calif. Each posted a 69, two under par. Out of the 142 players that banged away in the first round only four managed to fire under regulation figures and seven posted par scores.

Magnates Name Frick As New Commissioner

Vote Is Unanimous After Giles Withdraws

Chicago, Sept. 21 (AP)—Ford Frick with a dramatic assist of sportsmanship from Warren Giles, today is baseball's new commissioner.

Giles late last night threw his full support behind the National League president to break a deadlock of club owners and swing sports' biggest job to the gray, lean, 56-year-old Frick.

Frick was given a seven-year contract at an annual salary of $65,000, about $25,000 more than he received as head of the senior circuit.

Frick is baseball's third commissioner. He succeeds A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who resigned last July 15 after the club owners had refused to vote him a new contract.

Until Giles, the courtly, white-haired president of the Cincinnati Reds made his unparalleled gesture, the 16 major league magnates had wrangled almost 11 hours in a vain attempt to get the required majority of 12 votes.

List Trimmed to Two

In the first hour of their session, they had trimmed the list to Giles and Frick. But from then on they were stymied, and probably still would be today if Giles had not made his surprise move.

Like a hung jury, the owners cast ballot after ballot—approximately 20 in all—but never did either candidate collect more than 10 votes.

After Giles appeared before the owners and withdrew his name, the following vote was 14-2 for Frick. Then the Cincinnati executive made a motion that a final ballot be taken and that it be unanimous.

That is how Frick—climaxing a varied career running from newspaperman, assistant English professor and radio commentator to the National League presidency in 1934—obtained the full 16 votes.

Giles said he did what he thought best for the interest of baseball—"the closest thing to my heart."

Chandler in 1945 succeeded the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis who had served as baseball's first commissioner since 1921 following the Black Sox scandal.

Upon the death of Landis, there was a movement toward Frick as his successor. At that time, Giles was reported ready to become president of the National League should Frick be named.

Although this maneuver was detoured by the selection of Chandler, the way may now be cleared for it.

Bronxville, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—Ford Frick left a lobster dinner long enough to accept by telephone the commissionership of baseball, express surprise at being elected and then disappeared last night.

24 Mound Wins Set New Record

Oneonta—George McPhail of the Pittsfield Electrics, the "winningest" pitcher in the history of the Canadian-American League, has earned the distinction of being the Most Valuable Player of the 1951 season, according to a compilation yesterday of voting by members of the Canadian-American League Baseball Writers Association.

The slim righthander ended the championship campaign with 24 victories and eight losses for second place Pittsfield to set a new league record. The previous high was 22 wins, a figure reached in 1941 by Tommy Fine of Oneonta and John E. Robinson of Amsterdam.

McPhail, who polled 28 points in the balloting against 21 for outfielder John Minarcin of Oneonta and first baseman John Paul Jones of Amsterdam, was third in won-lost percentage. His .750 was topped only by two Oneontans, George Uhaze, with a 16-3 mark for a leading .842, and Paul Aylward, 20-4 for .833.

Topped Strikeout Total

McPhail hurled the most complete games, 22; the most innings, 238, and had the most strikeouts, 189. His total of five shutouts is one behind the top mark of six pitched by Uhaze.

The Pittsfield hurler is the first pitcher to receive the MVP award since John Tulcz of Cornwall in 1938, the first year that the selections were made.

Others who have won the distinction are, 1939, the late Billy Southworth, Jr., Rome outfielder; 1940, George Jumonville, Ottawa-Ogdensburg shortstop; 1941, Austin Knickerbocker, Oneonta outfielder; 1942, Reggie Otero, Utica first baseman; 1946, Stan (Frenchy) Bordagaray, Three Rivers manager and outfielder; 1947, John Lorenz, Schenectady second baseman; 1948, Gene Hasson, Pittsfield manager and first baseman; 1949, Jim Cullinane, Gloversville manager and third baseman, and 1950, Garland (Butch) Lawing, Quebec outfielder.

Although two playing managers received votes this year, it has been the policy of the writers association since 1950 to ballot only for the players. Voting is done on a basis of six points for first place, five for second, four for third and so on. McPhail received three firsts, two seconds and was not mentioned on the sixth ballot.

Three Colonials Get Votes

Behind Minarcin and Jones, tied for runnerup honors, is Bill McMillan, Gloversville outfielder, with 19 points. McPhail, Minarcin, Jones and McMillan dominated the voting. Fifth place is shared by three men who drew only five points each.

Others who received votes are Uhaze, Manager Buck Etchison, Forrest Samson, Joe Pancoe and Ron Esrang, all of Rome; Dick Karl of Oneonta, Lou Palmisiano of Pittsfield, and Manager John Sosh, Nick Marino and Jim Healy all of Kingston.

Will Split Purse

Delaware, O., Sept. 21 (AP)—Directors of the "Little Brown Jug" society, sponsors of pacing's highest race, announced today the 1952 feature would be on the "every heat a race" plan. That means the purse, expected to approach $70,000, will be split so that the first five in each heat pick up a portion of the loot, instead of being forced to finish among the leaders in the overall scrap.

GRAZIANO'S TKO VICTIM

Boessneck Raps 600 In Nocando Wheel

George Robinson, probably one of the busiest league secretaries in Kingston, stacked 10 strikes in a row Thursday night in the Bowlodrome Major circuit for a brilliant 288 single in his last game.

Robinson, opening with a spare, proceeded to register the 10 strikes in succession before running into a tough 7-10 split on his last try.

His other counts were 156 and 198 for a gaudy 642 triple.

In the same league, Johnny "Ace" Ferraro, ran off a consistent string of 232-215-237 for the league-leading series of 684.

Six other 600 triples were bashed throughout the loop.

Jennie Spada Rolls 530

Elsewhere last night, Emil Boessneck featured the pin-busting in the Nocando League at the Bowlatorium with a flat 600 on 231-174-195; Herm Seelbach fired 171-173-191 for 535 in the Commercial League; Jennie Spada came through with a fine string of 204-158-168 for a 530 in the Central Rec Women's League; and E. Singer hit 146-179-149 for 474 in the Sisterhood League at the Bowlatorium.

Following in the foot steps of Ferraro and Robinson in the Bowlodrome Major were Cliff Quick with 245-201-631; Phil Corrado 212-221-624; Rube Leventhal 212-225-613; Frank "Tarz" Spada 235-611; George Shufeldt 200-215-610; and Ad Jones, the KBA state tournament chairman, 234-600.

Also of note in the loop were Coke Costello firing 205-213-598; Ken Joseph 223-597; Larry Weishaupt 212-201-597 and Murray Greene 208-590. Larry Jacobs, hitting 581, fired a 233 single.

Other top marks in the Nocando firing were Bill Mohr with 200-539; Perc Slover 535; Stan Colvin 533; Al Hoey 507; Rudy Kubicek 506; and Ralph Harper 501.

Four other 500's featuring the pinfall in the Commercial League with Jim Howard rolling 518; E. Rowe 513; Frank Grimaldi 504 and A. Lanspery 502. J. Schomer fired 495; J. Albright 481 and A. Krom 483.

Trailing Jennie Spada's nifty 530 blast in the Central Rec Women's wheel were Jessie Burnett with 494; Tillie Hasbrouck 448; Helene Mollenhauer 446; Cora DiCicco 446; B. Monashefsky 440; E. Burburg 416; B. Cadden 410; T. Garon 410; J. Hines 401 and B. Garlick 400.

Fordham Is Choice To Beat Missouri In Grid Opener

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Football bounces onto the scene tomorrow while a majority of the sports fans are talking about home runs and double plays and trying to dope the World Series.

But there are approximately 100 block and tackle parties scheduled for Saturday. Some of them, had they been played on Jan. 1, would be the equal of any of the New Year's Day bowl attractions.

Here are the expected winners:

Kentucky over Texas: Texas has a new coach, new system and virtually a new team. Kentucky still has Babe Parilli, possibly the nation's best quarterback.

Fordham over Missouri: Don Faurot rates his current Missouri team as the greenest in almost two decades. Fordham still has the remnants of last year's powerhouse.

North Carolina State over North Carolina: The state team, which came so fast at the end of last season, virtually is intact and by now should be alerted fully to the possibilities of the T.

California over Santa Clara: Pappy Waldorf has the horses again.

Michigan State over Oregon State: Even though Michigan State lost only one game last year, all the Spartans were thinking ahead to this year. That should be warning enough.

SMU Favorite

Southern Methodist over Georgia Tech: SMU has so much talent that the players picked three different stars to share the honors of captain.

Texas A & M over UCLA: Bob Smith is rated as one of the best fullbacks in the country and he plays for Texas A & M. This affair is slated tonight.

Picking the others in a hurry:

Tonight:

Alabama over Delta State, Mississippi over Memphis State, Syracuse over Temple, Tempe State over Utah State, Wake Forest over Boston College, Washington & Lee over Furman.

Saturday:

East: Yale over Bates, Springfield over Harvard, Lehigh over Delaware, West Virginia over Waynesburg.

South: South Carolina over Duke, Mississippi State over Arkansas State, Georgia over George Washington, Vanderbilt over Middle Tennesee, LSU over Mississippi Southern, Florida over The Citadel, Boston U over William & Mary, VMI over Wofford, Clemson over Presbyterian.

Midwest: Detroit over Toledo, Iowa State over Wayne, Cincinnati over Kansas State, Marquette over South Dakota, Bradley over Tampa.

Southwest: Kansas over Texas Christian, Arkansas over Oklahoma Aggies, New Mexico over Flagstaff State, Baylor over Houston.

Far West: Southern California over Washington State, Arizona over Utah, Washington over Montana, Stanford over Oregon, Wyoming over Idaho, Drake over Denver, Colorado over Colorado A & M.

Magnino and Jones Take Exception To Bowling Story by Sports Editor

The following letter was received today by The Freeman sports department from Joseph J. Magnino, Sr., president of the Kingston Bowling Association; and Addison Jones, Kingston state tournament manager and the Kingston Bowling Association and state tournament committees:

Kingston, N. Y.
September 20, 1951

Sports Editor
Kingston Daily Freeman
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Referring to a sports column of Wednesday evening September 19, 1951 by Charles J. Tiano in which you quote "One of the most ironic twists in the present State Tournament set up is the absence of Pete Keresman from the official committee. A few of the wheels didn't sympathize with Pete's long range strictly big league plans but today are doing exactly the thing he advocated."

This statement in itself is an error. It could have been overlooked as a misstatement, except that Charles J. Tiano as a member of the Kingston Bowling Association was an on-the-spot witness to the facts that are to be stated. He himself was a part of this incident and had all the knowledge at his finger tips, being both on the State Tournament Committee and the Kingston Bowling Association.

Mr. Keresman was nominated, and accepted, the chairmanship of the State Tournament, by the Kingston Bowling Association. This title in itself would be a semi-honorary position in view of the fact that such an office has heretofore never existed, but under such a title he would be of, and on, the state tournament committee and he would be allowed to have his say.

However when the state tournament manager, Addison Jones was named and accepted, Mr. Keresman was quite upset and stated at that meeting that he could not be a part of the state tournament or serve in any capacity on its board, since he would not be able to see eye to eye with the tournament manager, Mr. Jones; and rather than be a detriment to the board in its running of the state tournament, Mr. Keresman resigned his chairmanship of the State Tournament. This was accepted by the Kingston Bowling Association and made a part of its minutes.

Charles J. Tiano was present both in the role of an officer of the Kingston Bowling Association and as a sports reporter when this occurred. He offered no objections to Mr. Keresman's resignation and certainly had the knowledge as presented. As for "long range strictly big league plans" the State Tournament Committee is doing all in its power to promote Kingston, N. Y., through the State Tournament to be held here and we will continue to conduct the tournament on a strictly big league plan.

Since we of the State Tournament Committee and The Kingston Bowling Association feel that Mr. Keresman may not have been advised of the statements appearing in the sports editor's column and since we had no previous knowledge, we feel this letter is necessary to clarify our position in this matter.

Respectfully yours,
JOSEPH J. MAGNINO, SR.
President of the Kingston Bowling Association

Four Marks Fall As Tar Heel Cops 'Little Brown Jug'

Delaware, O., Sept. 21 (AP)—Tar Heel, one of Billy Direct's most illustrious sons, was spread all over harness racing's record books today.

The streamlined black colt, owned by the W. N. Reynolds Estate of Winston-Salem, N. C., set four world records yesterday as he whipped 13 of the nation's standout three-year-old pacers to take the sixth annual $66,280.55 "Little Brown Jug" in straight heats.

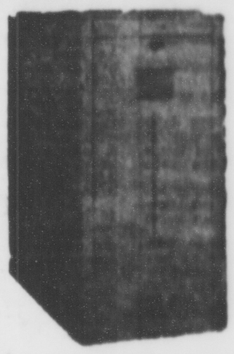

Some 35,000 fans, crowding the fence around the Delaware County Fair's halfmile track, were stunned when Tar Heel came home in 2:01 in the first heat—the fastest trip ever made by a three-year-old over a half-mile track.

But that was just the beginning. In the next heat reinsman Del Cameron brought Tar Heel under the wire in two minutes flat, erasing the world mark he had set up only two hours before.

The two-minute effort thus went into the books as the best a three-year-old pacer had ever made over a twice-around; the combined two-heat time eclipsed the world record of 4:04 4/5 set by Knight Dream in 1948; and also bettered the all-age pacing record for two heats of 4:01 1/5 hung up in 1940 by Dusty Hanover.

Tar Heel picked up $33,140.27 for his two-mile stint, boosting his 1950 winnings to $63,657.21—the greatest "take" any three-year-old side wheeler has ever amassed. It also hiked his two-year earnings to $116,176.29, the largest salary any pacer ever collected in his first two seasons.

24 Mound Wins Set New Record

Oneonta—George McPhail of the Pittsfield Electrics, the "winningest" pitcher in the history of the Canadian-American League, has earned the distinction of being the Most Valuable Player of the 1951 season, according to a compilation yesterday of voting by members of the Canadian-American League Baseball Writers Association.

The slim righthander ended the championship campaign with 24 victories and eight losses for second place Pittsfield to set a new league record. The previous high was 22 wins, a figure reached in 1941 by Tommy Fine of Oneonta and John E. Robinson of Amsterdam.

McPhail, who polled 28 points in the balloting against 21 for outfielder John Minarcin of Oneonta and first baseman John Paul Jones of Amsterdam, was third in won-lost percentage. His .750 was topped only by two Oneontans, George Uhaze, with a 16-3 mark for a leading .842, and Paul Aylward, 20-4 for .833.

Topped Strikeout Total

McPhail hurled the most complete games, 22; the most innings, 238, and had the most strikeouts, 189. His total of five shutouts is one behind the top mark of six pitched by Uhaze.

The Pittsfield hurler is the first pitcher to receive the MVP award since John Tulcz of Cornwall in 1938, the first year that the selections were made.

Others who have won the distinction are, 1939, the late Billy Southworth, Jr., Rome outfielder; 1940, George Jumonville, Ottawa-Ogdensburg shortstop; 1941, Austin Knickerbocker, Oneonta outfielder; 1942, Reggie Otero, Utica first baseman; 1946, Stan (Frenchy) Bordagaray, Three Rivers manager and outfielder; 1947, John Lorenz, Schenectady second baseman; 1948, Gene Hasson, Pittsfield manager and first baseman; 1949, Jim Cullinane, Gloversville manager and third baseman, and 1950, Garland (Butch) Lawing, Quebec outfielder.

Although two playing managers received votes this year, it has been the policy of the writers association since 1950 to ballot only for the players. Voting is done on a basis of six points for first place, five for second, four for third and so on. McPhail received three firsts, two seconds and was not mentioned on the sixth ballot.

Three Colonials Get Votes

Behind Minarcin and Jones, tied for runnerup honors, is Bill McMillan, Gloversville outfielder, with 19 points. McPhail, Minarcin, Jones and McMillan dominated the voting. Fifth place is shared by three men who drew only five points each.

Others who received votes are Uhaze, Manager Buck Etchison, Forrest Samson, Joe Pancoe and Ron Esrang, all of Rome; Dick Karl of Oneonta, Lou Palmisiano of Pittsfield, and Manager John Sosh, Nick Marino and Jim Healy all of Kingston.

Will Split Purse

Delaware, O., Sept. 21 (AP)—Directors of the "Little Brown Jug" society, sponsors of pacing's highest race, announced today the 1952 feature would be on the "every heat a race" plan. That means the purse, expected to approach $70,000, will be split so that the first five in each heat pick up a portion of the loot, instead of being forced to finish among the leaders in the overall scrap.

GRAZIANO'S TKO VICTIM

Tony Janiro, Youngstown, Ohio, middleweight, is not doing calisthenics between rounds of his bout with Rocky Graziano at Detroit Sept. 19. He's shown landing on his back in 10th round after Rocky delivered a series of punches. Tony got up to continue but the referee stopped the fight and declared Graziano the winner by a TKO. His other counts were 156 and 198 for a gaudy 642 triple.

Fordham Is Choice To Beat Missouri In Grid Opener

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Football bounces onto the scene tomorrow while a majority of the sports fans are talking about home runs and double plays and trying to dope the World Series.

But there are approximately 100 block and tackle parties scheduled for Saturday. Some of them, had they been played on Jan. 1, would be the equal of any of the New Year's Day bowl attractions.

Here are the expected winners:

Kentucky over Texas: Texas has a new coach, new system and virtually a new team. Kentucky still has Babe Parilli, possibly the nation's best quarterback.

Fordham over Missouri: Don Faurot rates his current Missouri team as the greenest in almost two decades. Fordham still has the remnants of last year's powerhouse.

North Carolina State over North Carolina: The state team, which came so fast at the end of last season, virtually is intact and by now should be alerted fully to the possibilities of the T.

California over Santa Clara: Pappy Waldorf has the horses again.

Michigan State over Oregon State: Even though Michigan State lost only one game last year, all the Spartans were thinking ahead to this year. That should be warning enough.

SMU Favorite

Southern Methodist over Georgia Tech: SMU has so much talent that the players picked three different stars to share the honors of captain.

Texas A & M over UCLA: Bob Smith is rated as one of the best fullbacks in the country and he plays for Texas A & M. This affair is slated tonight.

Picking the others in a hurry:

Tonight:

Alabama over Delta State, Mississippi over Memphis State, Syracuse over Temple, Tempe State over Utah State, Wake Forest over Boston College, Washington & Lee over Furman.

Saturday:

East: Yale over Bates, Springfield over Harvard, Lehigh over Delaware, West Virginia over Waynesburg.

South: South Carolina over Duke, Mississippi State over Arkansas State, Georgia over George Washington, Vanderbilt over Middle Tennesee, LSU over Mississippi Southern, Florida over The Citadel, Boston U over William & Mary, VMI over Wofford, Clemson over Presbyterian.

Midwest: Detroit over Toledo, Iowa State over Wayne, Cincinnati over Kansas State, Marquette over South Dakota, Bradley over Tampa.

Southwest: Kansas over Texas Christian, Arkansas over Oklahoma Aggies, New Mexico over Flagstaff State, Baylor over Houston.

Far West: Southern California over Washington State, Arizona over Utah, Washington over Montana, Stanford over Oregon, Wyoming over Idaho, Drake over Denver, Colorado over Colorado A & M.

Magnino and Jones Take Exception To Bowling Story by Sports Editor

The following letter was received today by The Freeman sports department from Joseph J. Magnino, Sr., president of the Kingston Bowling Association; and Addison Jones, Kingston state tournament manager and the Kingston Bowling Association and state tournament committees:

Kingston, N. Y.
September 20, 1951

Sports Editor
Kingston Daily Freeman
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Referring to a sports column of Wednesday evening September 19, 1951 by Charles J. Tiano in which you quote "One of the most ironic twists in the present State Tournament set up is the absence of Pete Keresman from the official committee. A few of the wheels didn't sympathize with Pete's long range strictly big league plans but today are doing exactly the thing he advocated."

This statement in itself is an error. It could have been overlooked as a misstatement, except that Charles J. Tiano as a member of the Kingston Bowling Association was an on-the-spot witness to the facts that are to be stated. He himself was a part of this incident and had all the knowledge at his finger tips, being both on the State Tournament Committee and the Kingston Bowling Association.

Mr. Keresman was nominated, and accepted, the chairmanship of the State Tournament, by the Kingston Bowling Association. This title in itself would be a semi-honorary position in view of the fact that such an office has heretofore never existed, but under such a title he would be of, and on, the state tournament committee and he would be allowed to have his say.

However when the state tournament manager, Addison Jones was named and accepted, Mr. Keresman was quite upset and stated at that meeting that he could not be a part of the state tournament or serve in any capacity on its board, since he would not be able to see eye to eye with the tournament manager, Mr. Jones; and rather than be a detriment to the board in its running of the state tournament, Mr. Keresman resigned his chairmanship of the State Tournament. This was accepted by the Kingston Bowling Association and made a part of its minutes.

Charles J. Tiano was present both in the role of an officer of the Kingston Bowling Association and as a sports reporter when this occurred. He offered no objections to Mr. Keresman's resignation and certainly had the knowledge as presented. As for "long range strictly big league plans" the State Tournament Committee is doing all in its power to promote Kingston, N. Y., through the State Tournament to be held here and we will continue to conduct the tournament on a strictly big league plan.

Since we of the State Tournament Committee and The Kingston Bowling Association feel that Mr. Keresman may not have been advised of the statements appearing in the sports editor's column and since we had no previous knowledge, we feel this letter is necessary to clarify our position in this matter.

Respectfully yours,
JOSEPH J. MAGNINO, SR.

Four Marks Fall As Tar Heel Cops 'Little Brown Jug'

Delaware, O., Sept. 21 (AP)—Tar Heel, one of Billy Direct's most illustrious sons, was spread all over harness racing's record books today.

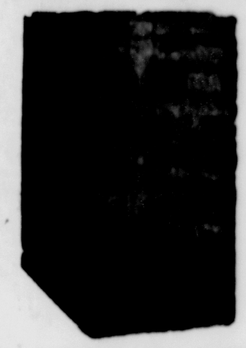

The streamlined black colt, owned by the W. N. Reynolds Estate of Winston-Salem, N. C., set four world records yesterday as he whipped 13 of the nation's standout three-year-old pacers to take the sixth annual $66,280.55 "Little Brown Jug" in straight heats.

Some 35,000 fans, crowding the fence around the Delaware County Fair's halfmile track, were stunned when Tar Heel came home in 2:01 in the first heat—the fastest trip ever made by a three-year-old over a half-mile track.

But that was just the beginning. In the next heat reinsman Del Cameron brought Tar Heel under the wire in two minutes flat, erasing the world mark he had set up only two hours before.

The two-minute effort thus went into the books as the best a three-year-old pacer had ever made over a twice-around; the combined two-heat time eclipsed the world record of 4:04 4/5 set by Knight Dream in 1948; and also bettered the all-age pacing record for two heats of 4:01 1/5 hung up in 1940 by Dusty Hanover.

Tar Heel picked up $33,140.27 for his two-mile stint, boosting his 1950 winnings to $63,657.21—the greatest "take" any three-year-old side wheeler has ever amassed. It also hiked his two-year earnings to $116,176.29, the largest salary any pacer ever collected in his first two seasons.

24 Mound Wins Set New Record

Oneonta—George McPhail of the Pittsfield Electrics, the "winningest" pitcher in the history of the Canadian-American League, has earned the distinction of being the Most Valuable Player of the 1951 season, according to a compilation yesterday of voting by members of the Canadian-American League Baseball Writers Association.

The slim righthander ended the championship campaign with 24 victories and eight losses for second place Pittsfield to set a new league record. The previous high was 22 wins, a figure reached in 1941 by Tommy Fine of Oneonta and John E. Robinson of Amsterdam.

McPhail, who polled 28 points in the balloting against 21 for outfielder John Minarcin of Oneonta and first baseman John Paul Jones of Amsterdam, was third in won-lost percentage. His .750 was topped only by two Oneontans, George Uhaze, with a 16-3 mark for a leading .842, and Paul Aylward, 20-4 for .833.

Topped Strikeout Total

McPhail hurled the most complete games, 22; the most innings, 238, and had the most strikeouts, 189. His total of five shutouts is one behind the top mark of six pitched by Uhaze.

The Pittsfield hurler is the first pitcher to receive the MVP award since John Tulcz of Cornwall in 1938, the first year that the selections were made.

Others who have won the distinction are, 1939, the late Billy Southworth, Jr., Rome outfielder; 1940, George Jumonville, Ottawa-Ogdensburg shortstop; 1941, Austin Knickerbocker, Oneonta outfielder; 1942, Reggie Otero, Utica first baseman; 1946, Stan (Frenchy) Bordagaray, Three Rivers manager and outfielder; 1947, John Lorenz, Schenectady second baseman; 1948, Gene Hasson, Pittsfield manager and first baseman; 1949, Jim Cullinane, Gloversville manager and third baseman, and 1950, Garland (Butch) Lawing, Quebec outfielder.

Although two playing managers received votes this year, it has been the policy of the writers association since 1950 to ballot only for the players. Voting is done on a basis of six points for first place, five for second, four for third and so on. McPhail received three firsts, two seconds and was not mentioned on the sixth ballot.

Three Colonials Get Votes

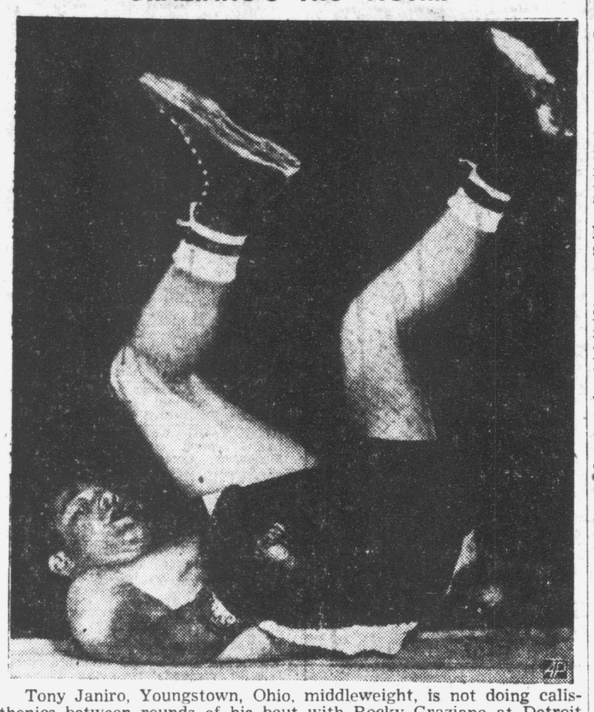

Behind Minarcin and Jones, tied for runnerup honors, is Bill McMillan, Gloversville outfielder, with 19 points. McPhail, Minarcin, Jones and McMillan dominated the voting. Fifth place is shared by three men who drew only five points each.

Others who received votes are Uhaze, Manager Buck Etchison, Forrest Samson, Joe Pancoe and Ron Esrang, all of Rome; Dick Karl of Oneonta, Lou Palmisiano of Pittsfield, and Manager John Sosh, Nick Marino and Jim Healy all of Kingston.

Will Split Purse

Delaware, O., Sept. 21 (AP)—Directors of the "Little Brown Jug" society, sponsors of pacing's highest race, announced today the 1952 feature would be on the "every heat a race" plan. That means the purse, expected to approach $70,000, will be split so that the first five in each heat pick up a portion of the loot, instead of being forced to finish among the leaders in the overall scrap.

GRAZIANO'S TKO VICTIM

Boessneck Raps 600 In Nocando Wheel

George Robinson, probably one of the busiest league secretaries in Kingston, stacked 10 strikes in a row Thursday night in the Bowlodrome Major circuit for a brilliant 288 single in his last game.

Robinson, opening with a spare, proceeded to register the 10 strikes in succession before running into a tough 7-10 split on his last try.

His other counts were 156 and 198 for a gaudy 642 triple.

In the same league, Johnny "Ace" Ferraro, ran off a consistent string of 232-215-237 for the league-leading series of 684.

Six other 600 triples were bashed throughout the loop.

Jennie Spada Rolls 530

Elsewhere last night, Emil Boessneck featured the pin-busting in the Nocando League at the Bowlatorium with a flat 600 on 231-174-195; Herm Seelbach fired 171-173-191 for 535 in the Commercial League; Jennie Spada came through with a fine string of 204-158-168 for a 530 in the Central Rec Women's League; and E. Singer hit 146-179-149 for 474 in the Sisterhood League at the Bowlatorium.

Following in the foot steps of Ferraro and Robinson in the Bowlodrome Major were Cliff Quick with 245-201-631; Phil Corrado 212-221-624; Rube Leventhal 212-225-613; Frank "Tarz" Spada 235-611; George Shufeldt 200-215-610; and Ad Jones, the KBA state tournament chairman, 234-600.

Also of note in the loop were Coke Costello firing 205-213-598; Ken Joseph 223-597; Larry Weishaupt 212-201-597 and Murray Greene 208-590. Larry Jacobs, hitting 581, fired a 233 single.

Other top marks in the Nocando firing were Bill Mohr with 200-539; Perc Slover 535; Stan Colvin 533; Al Hoey 507; Rudy Kubicek 506; and Ralph Harper 501.

Four other 500's featuring the pinfall in the Commercial League with Jim Howard rolling 518; E. Rowe 513; Frank Grimaldi 504 and A. Lanspery 502. J. Schomer fired 495; J. Albright 481 and A. Krom 483.

Trailing Jennie Spada's nifty 530 blast in the Central Rec Women's wheel were Jessie Burnett with 494; Tillie Hasbrouck 448; Helene Mollenhauer 446; Cora DiCicco 446; B. Monashefsky 440; E. Burburg 416; B. Cadden 410; T. Garon 410; J. Hines 401 and B. Garlick 400.

Other highlights of the Sisterhood circuit were R. Eckdish with 447; Bea Arlensky 440; Miriam Posner 419; S. Bahl 416 and B. Pekarsky 410.

Fordham Is Choice To Beat Missouri In Grid Opener

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Football bounces onto the scene tomorrow while a majority of the sports fans are talking about home runs and double plays and trying to dope the World Series.

But there are approximately 100 block and tackle parties scheduled for Saturday. Some of them, had they been played on Jan. 1, would be the equal of any of the New Year's Day bowl attractions.

Here are the expected winners:

Kentucky over Texas: Texas has a new coach, new system and virtually a new team. Kentucky still has Babe Parilli, possibly the nation's best quarterback.

Fordham over Missouri: Don Faurot rates his current Missouri team as the greenest in almost two decades. Fordham still has the remnants of last year's powerhouse.

North Carolina State over North Carolina: The state team, which came so fast at the end of last season, virtually is intact and by now should be alerted fully to the possibilities of the T.

California over Santa Clara: Pappy Waldorf has the horses again.

Michigan State over Oregon State: Even though Michigan State lost only one game last year, all the Spartans were thinking ahead to this year. That should be warning enough.

SMU Favorite

Southern Methodist over Georgia Tech: SMU has so much talent that the players picked three different stars to share the honors of captain.

Texas A & M over UCLA: Bob Smith is rated as one of the best fullbacks in the country and he plays for Texas A & M. This affair is slated tonight.

Picking the others in a hurry:

Tonight:

Alabama over Delta State, Mississippi over Memphis State, Syracuse over Temple, Tempe State over Utah State, Wake Forest over Boston College, Washington & Lee over Furman.

Saturday:

East: Yale over Bates, Springfield over Harvard, Lehigh over Delaware, West Virginia over Waynesburg.

South: South Carolina over Duke, Mississippi State over Arkansas State, Georgia over George Washington, Vanderbilt over Middle Tennesee, LSU over Mississippi Southern, Florida over The Citadel, Boston U over William & Mary, VMI over Wofford, Clemson over Presbyterian.

Midwest: Detroit over Toledo, Iowa State over Wayne, Cincinnati over Kansas State, Marquette over South Dakota, Bradley over Tampa.

Southwest: Kansas over Texas Christian, Arkansas over Oklahoma Aggies, New Mexico over Flagstaff State, Baylor over Houston.

Far West: Southern California over Washington State, Arizona over Utah, Washington over Montana, Stanford over Oregon, Wyoming over Idaho, Drake over Denver, Colorado over Colorado A & M.

Magnino and Jones Take Exception To Bowling Story by Sports Editor

The following letter was received today by The Freeman sports department from Joseph J. Magnino, Sr., president of the Kingston Bowling Association; and Addison Jones, Kingston state tournament manager and the Kingston Bowling Association and state tournament committees:

Kingston, N. Y.
September 20, 1951

Sports Editor
Kingston Daily Freeman
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Referring to a sports column of Wednesday evening September 19, 1951 by Charles J. Tiano in which you quote "One of the most ironic twists in the present State Tournament set up is the absence of Pete Keresman from the official committee. A few of the wheels didn't sympathize with Pete's long range strictly big league plans but today are doing exactly the thing he advocated."

This statement in itself is an error. It could have been overlooked as a misstatement, except that Charles J. Tiano as a member of the Kingston Bowling Association was an on-the-spot witness to the facts that are to be stated. He himself was a part of this incident and had all the knowledge at his finger tips, being both on the State Tournament Committee and the Kingston Bowling Association.

Mr. Keresman was nominated, and accepted, the chairmanship of the State Tournament, by the Kingston Bowling Association. This title in itself would be a semi-honorary position in view of the fact that such an office has heretofore never existed, but under such a title he would be of, and on, the state tournament committee and he would be allowed to have his say.

However when the state tournament manager, Addison Jones was named and accepted, Mr. Keresman was quite upset and stated at that meeting that he could not be a part of the state tournament or serve in any capacity on its board, since he would not be able to see eye to eye with the tournament manager, Mr Jones; and rather than be a detriment to the board in its running of the state tournament, Mr. Keresman resigned his chairmanship of the State Tournament. This was accepted by the Kingston Bowling Association and made a part of its minutes.

Charles J. Tiano was present both in the role of an officer of the Kingston Bowling Association and as a sports reporter when this occurred. He offered no objections to Mr. Keresman's resignation and certainly had the knowledge as presented. As for "long range strictly big league plans" the State Tournament Committee is doing all in its power to promote Kingston, N. Y., through the State Tournament to be held here and we will continue to conduct the tournament on a strictly big league plan.

Since we of the State Tournament Committee and The Kingston Bowling Association feel that Mr. Keresman may not have been advised of the statements appearing in the sports editor's column and since we had no previous knowledge, we feel this letter is necessary to clarify our position in this matter.

Respectfully yours,
JOSEPH J. MAGNINO, SR.
President of the Kingston Bowling Association
ADDISON JONES
Kingston State Tournament Manager

Four Marks Fall As Tar Heel Cops 'Little Brown Jug'

Delaware, O., Sept. 21 (AP) — Tar Heel, one of Billy Direct's most illustrious sons, was spread all over harness racing's record books today.

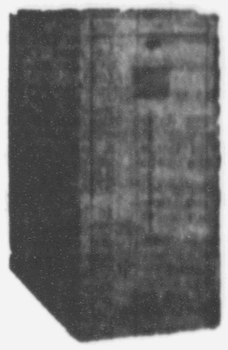

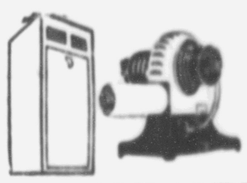

The streamlined black colt, owned by the W. N. Reynolds Estate of Winston-Salem, N. C., set four world records yesterday as he whipped 13 of the nation's standout three-year-old pacers to take the sixth annual $66,280.55 "Little Brown Jug" in straight heats.

Some 35,000 fans, crowding the fence around the Delaware County Fair's halfmile track, were stunned when Tar Heel came home in 2:01 in the first heat—the fastest trip ever made by a three-year-old over a half-mile track.

But that was just the beginning. In the next heat reinsman Del Cameron brought Tar Heel under the wire in two minutes flat, erasing the world mark he had set up only two hours before.

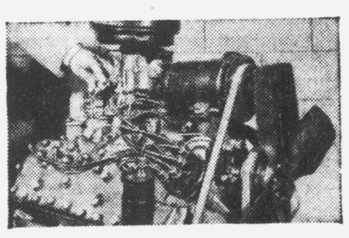

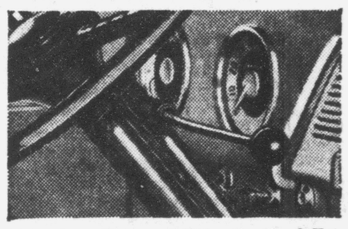

The two-minute effort thus went into the books as the best a three-year-old pacer had ever made over a twice-around; the combined two-heat time eclipsed the world record of 4:04 4/5 set by Knight Dream in 1948; and also bettered the all-age pacing record for two heats of 4:01 1/5 hung up in 1940 by Dusty Hanover.

Tar Heel picked up $33,140.27 for his two-mile stint, boosting his 1950 winnings to $63,657.21—the greatest "take" any three-year-old side wheeler has ever amassed. It also hiked his two-year earnings to $116,176.29, the largest salary any pacer ever collected in his first two seasons.

Attend Meeting At Washington

George E. Yerry, Jr., business agent for the Kingston Metal Trades Council, A.F.L., and Jerome Healy of the law firm of Healy and Fusfeld of New York, representative for local shipyard owners, conferred in Washington, D. C., on Thursday with the analysis chief of the Wage Stabilization Board.

Yerry said today the conference was to expedite a wage increase pending for approximately 300 workers in four local shipyards. The proposed increase, Yerry said, is within range of rates established in New York harbor shipyards, but because it is above the 10 per cent allowed automatically, it must go before the Wage Stabilization Board for approval.

Nine out of 10 U. S. Army officers are married, Army records show, and three out of 10 enlisted men.

Reds Receive Ridgway Note

Col. Chiang, head North Korean liaison officer, holds note given him by Lt. Col. Norman D. Edwards (left foreground), Diamond, W. Va., at a meeting in Punmanjom, near Kaesong. The message from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway offering to renew peace talks evidently brought results as Reds said they would resume negotiations immediately—but in Kaescong. Lt. Richard Underwood, interpreter, is at left and third from left (almost hidden) is Warrant Officer Kenneth Wu, also an interpreter. (AP Wirephoto).

Allied Forces Hit

The Red armor was hit at Hwangju, a town on the main road from Pyongyang to Sariwon. Pyongyang is the Red capital.

UN aircraft have destroyed 13 Communist tanks and damaged 12 others this month—the heaviest toll since last spring. In the month of May 12 Communist tanks were destroyed and 16 damaged.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force mounted 270 combat missions by noon. Fighters and bombers centered their attacks between Sinanju and Haeju in northwest Korea and cut rail lines in more than 30 places.

Pilots reported at least 50 freight cars and one locomotive destroyed or damaged, and 30 Communist troops killed or wounded.

Eight Are Killed

was dug out alive but badly injured.

An early estimate by the Northamptonshire county police had given the number of dead as 20. The later figure was based on an actual count of bodies recovered, including those of six men, a boy and a woman.

Sergeant From Albany

The dead American corporal was accompanied by a U. S. Air Force sergeant who declined to give his name or that of his friend.

The gray haired sergeant, who said he was from Albany, N. Y., had a gash on one cheek. He told reporters:

"The train started to rock and my buddy said 'there is a wheel off.' I stood up and after that I don't remember any more. It happened so quickly."

The sergeant said he and the corporal, on a weekend pass, were bound for London to visit the famous Kew Gardens and Hampton Court castle.

Police Bigwigs

balked at talking, defied Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz in a series of heated exchanges, and ruined McDonald's 20-month crime crusade.

Judge Leibowitz had to throw the mass graft case out of court, but not before sentencing Gross to five years in prison and $15,000 in fines for contempt. This sentence was expected to be appealed.

Gross, his $25,000 bail revoked, went to jail where he awaits sentencing next Thursday in Special Sessions Court on a guilty plea to a 66-count gambling indictment on which he could receive up to 68 years in prison.

Gross has other impending troubles, too. Yesterday, police headquarters sent notices to 35 other cops, against whom charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were filed because they allegedly were involved in dealings with the bookie.

The 35 were ordered to report to the departmental trial room next Wednesday, when a date for their trials will be set.

Gross is scheduled to be called as a witness. If he again balks at talking, he faces more contempt citations and additional jail terms.

Dugan Will Retire

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Clarence R. Dugan will retire Sept. 30 as manager of Public Relations for the New York Central system. He will be succeeded by Raymond F. Blosser, of North Tarrytown, N. Y., manager of the railroad's press bureau for four years. Blosser was with the Associated Press at Cleveland from 1935 to 1943. He had worked on newspapers in his native Dayton, O., and in Sandusky, O., before joining the New York Central, Blosser was public relations man for the Jersey Central Lines. Dugan, with the New York Central for 50 years, has been in charge of the public relations departments since 1939. He will move from Bronxville, N. Y., to Hagerstown, Md., after retirement. He is a native of Springfield, O.

Kingston Banks

port of the hospital, said those leading the drive were thinking of one thing only, "to give the people of Ulster county the best care possible in time of sickness."

Drury's 37th Anniversary

Noting that this year is Monsignor Drury's 37th anniversary in the priesthood, Newkirk remarked "let us bring in $600,000 at the end of the campaign to celebrate it."

County Judge John M. Cashin was introduced as were chairmen of the various divisions: Joseph Honig, industrial; Gerald Martin, commercial; Luther Dusinberre, area chairman; Ernest Steuding, public employes; Joseph Epstein and Allen Baker, clubs and organizations.

Attorney Roger H. Loughran is chairman of special gifts.

Other leaders in the drive present were James H. Betts, Lawrence A. Quilty, Lawrence J. MacAvery, Oscar London, William O'Reilly and E. Frank Flanagan.

Senator Wicks said in part:

"I have accepted the co-chairmanship of the Benedictine Hospital campaign for two reasons. First, I was asked to do so by the hospital management, and second, I believe it is the obligation of every citizen of the community to support and help our voluntary hospitals. By supporting and aiding our voluntary hospitals we can best preserve our free institutions and refute those who are advocates of socialized medicine....

Has Waiting List

"The hospital has an average waiting list of from 10 to 12 patients daily. Patients requiring surgery must wait several days and sometimes as long as a week before a bed is available...

"Years ago hospitals were utilized only in cases of dire emergency. Today, with all of the modern equipment techniques and methods of modern medicine and surgery, hospitals are being increasingly used because patients can be more effectively treated in hospitals and hospitals are being fully utilized in the field of preventive medicine as centers of early diagnosis. These advancements in medical science have made necessary the expansion of both the Benedictine and Kingston hospitals to serve the needs of Ulster county which now has a population of 92,000...

"James A. Dwyer and I are proud of, and thankful for the fine type of citizens who have enlisted in our campaign to raise the funds necessary to complete the building program now under way, in spite of the increasing costs due to the inflation which is a source of concern and worry to all of us."

Judge Kaufman, a non-Catholic, covering the 50-year history of the Benedictine Hospital in the community, said:

"Certainly it must be a source of enormous satisfaction and gratification to all our people to see the huge new structures standing on the hospital property and to realize that within a few weeks they will be fully equipped with most modern facilities known to medical science and commence their services as havens of safety and comfort to the men, women and children of our community of present and future generations.

Another Side

"But—and this is a very significant but—there is another side to this story which is not so consoling. The disturbing fact is that these hospital additions and improvements, which in 1945 were estimated to cost not to exceed $600,000, will upon their completion actually have cost more than three times that amount, with the result that when they are completed the Benedictine Hospital will find itself burdened with a debt of about $600,000 which it certainly cannot hope to carry or pay unless you and I and our neighbors promptly do something about it...

"You are being asked to assist a non-profit organization so that it may in turn help protect you and yours...

"Everyone knows that the Benedictine Sisters who supervise the conduct of our Benedictine Hospital, have consecrated their lives to the relief of human suffering and that they receive for themselves only the bare necessities of life.....Yea, though we walk through the valley of the shadow of death, they comforted us...

"What then are these $600,000 which we are now being asked to contribute in comparison to the whole-hearted devotion and self-sacrificing service which these noble women have bestowed upon us and ours during the past 50 years. We are giving our money. They are giving their lives....

"While the Benedictine Hospital is often called a Catholic institution, in reality that is very far from being an accurate description of it....the service rendered to the people of Ulster county during the last 50 years has never been and is not now restricted to any creed, sect or denomination."

support program at a reasonable level, just as I also believe they justify a minimum wage."

"Nothing is so likely to start a depression as a disastrous fall in farm prices," he said. "I believe that at some point the government ought to step in to prevent any such dangerous drop in farm prices and to maintain them at some reasonable relation to other prices."

In Minneapolis last night, Taft said the U. S. is "fighting a useless war in Korea" because "the Russian threat is just as great as it was before we undertook this operation."

"We still find ourselves faced with the greatest military threat from foreign sources that we have faced since the days of the American Revolution," Taft told a dinner audience of Carleton College alumni.

The Ohio senator said the Korean war and problems arising from it are the end result of "the continuous sympathy toward communism which inspired American policy."

"The administration's weak policy invited the Communist attack," he said.

Attend Meeting At Washington

George E. Yerry, Jr., business agent for the Kingston Metal Trades Council, A.F.L., and Jerome Healy of the law firm of Healy and Fusfeld of New York, representative for local shipyard owners, conferred in Washington, D. C., on Thursday with the analysis chief of the Wage Stabilization Board.

Yerry said today the conference was to expedite a wage increase pending for approximately 300 workers in four local shipyards. The proposed increase, Yerry said, is within range of rates established in New York harbor shipyards, but because it is above the 10 per cent allowed automatically, it must go before the Wage Stabilization Board for approval.

Nine out of 10 U. S. Army officers are married, Army records show, and three out of 10 enlisted men.

Reds Receive Ridgway Note

Col. Chiang, head North Korean liaison officer, holds note given him by Lt. Col. Norman D. Edwards (left foreground), Diamond, W. Va., at a meeting in Punmanjom, near Kaesong. The message from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway offering to renew peace talks evidently brought results as Reds said they would resume negotiations immediately—but in Kaescong. Lt. Richard Underwood, interpreter, is at left and third from left (almost hidden) is Warrant Officer Kenneth Wu, also an interpreter. (AP Wirephoto).

Allied Forces Hit

rocket, strafing, bombing and napalm attacks in North Korea.

The Red armor was hit at Hwangju, a town on the main road from Pyongyang to Sariwon. Pyongyang is the Red capital.

UN aircraft have destroyed 13 Communist tanks and damaged 12 others this month—the heaviest toll since last spring. In the month of May 12 Communist tanks were destroyed and 16 damaged.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force mounted 270 combat missions by noon. Fighters and bombers centered their attacks between Sinanju and Haeju in northwest Korea and cut rail lines in more than 30 places.

Pilots reported at least 50 freight cars and one locomotive destroyed or damaged, and 30 Communist troops killed or wounded.

Eight Are Killed

was dug out alive but badly injured.

An early estimate by the Northamptonshire county police had given the number of dead as 20. The later figure was based on an actual count of bodies recovered, including those of six men, a boy and a woman.

Sergeant From Albany

The dead American corporal was accompanied by a U. S. Air Force sergeant who declined to give his name or that of his friend.

The gray haired sergeant, who said he was from Albany, N. Y., had a gash on one cheek. He told reporters:

"The train started to rock and my buddy said 'there is a wheel off.' I stood up and after that I don't remember any more. It happened so quickly."

The sergeant said he and the corporal, on a weekend pass, were bound for London to visit the famous Kew Gardens and Hampton Court castle.

Police Bigwigs

balked at talking, defied Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz in a series of heated exchanges, and ruined McDonald's 20-month crime crusade.

Judge Leibowitz had to throw the mass graft case out of court, but not before sentencing Gross to five years in prison and $15,000 in fines for contempt. This sentence was expected to be appealed.

Gross, his $25,000 bail revoked, went to jail where he awaits sentencing next Thursday in Special Sessions Court on a guilty plea to a 66-count gambling indictment on which he could receive up to 68 years in prison.

Gross has other impending troubles, too. Yesterday, police headquarters sent notices to 35 other cops, against whom charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were filed because they allegedly were involved in dealings with the bookie.

The 35 were ordered to report to the departmental trial room next Wednesday, when a date for their trials will be set.

Gross is scheduled to be called as a witness. If he again balks at talking, he faces more contempt citations and additional jail terms.

Dugan Will Retire

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Clarence R. Dugan will retire Sept. 30 as manager of Public Relations for the New York Central system. He will be succeeded by Raymond F. Blosser, of North Tarrytown, N. Y., manager of the railroad's press bureau for four years. Blosser was with the Associated Press at Cleveland from 1935 to 1943. He had worked on newspapers in his native Dayton, O., and in Sandusky, O., before joining the New York Central. Blosser was public relations man for the Jersey Central Lines. Dugan, with the New York Central for 50 years, has been in charge of the public relations departments since 1939. He will move from Bronxville, N. Y., to Hagerstown, Md., after retirement. He is a native of Springfield, O.

port of the hospital, said those leading the drive were thinking of one thing only, "to give the people of Ulster county the best care possible in time of sickness."

Drury's 37th Anniversary

Noting that this year is Monsignor Drury's 37th anniversary in the priesthood, Newkirk remarked "let us bring in $600,000 at the end of the campaign to celebrate it."

County Judge John M. Cashin was introduced as were chairmen of the various divisions: Joseph Honig, industrial; Gerald Martin, commercial; Luther Dusinberre, area chairman; Ernest Steuding, public employes; Joseph Epstein and Allen Baker, clubs and organizations.

Attorney Roger H. Loughran is chairman of special gifts.

Other leaders in the drive present were James H. Betts, Lawrence A. Quilty, Lawrence J. MacAvery, Oscar London, William O'Reilly and E. Frank Flanagan.

Senator Wicks said in part:

"I have accepted the co-chairmanship of the Benedictine Hospital campaign for two reasons. First, I was asked to do so by the hospital management, and second, I believe it is the obligation of every citizen of the community to support and help our voluntary hospitals. By supporting and aiding our voluntary hospitals we can best preserve our free institutions and refute those who are advocates of socialized medicine....

Has Waiting List

"The hospital has an average waiting list of from 10 to 12 patients daily. Patients requiring surgery must wait several days and sometimes as long as a week before a bed is available...

"Years ago hospitals were utilized only in cases of dire emergency. Today, with all of the modern equipment techniques and methods of modern medicine and surgery, hospitals are being increasingly used because patients can be more effectively treated in hospitals and hospitals are being fully utilized in the field of preventive medicine as centers of early diagnosis. These advancements in medical science have made necessary the expansion of both the Benedictine and Kingston hospitals to serve the needs of Ulster county which now has a population of 92,000...

"James A. Dwyer and I are proud of, and thankful for the fine type of citizens who have enlisted in our campaign to raise the funds necessary to complete the building program now under way, in spite of the increasing costs due to the inflation which is a source of concern and worry to all of us."

Judge Kaufman, a non-Catholic, covering the 50-year history of the Benedictine Hospital in the community, said:

"Certainly it must be a source of enormous satisfaction and gratification to all our people to see the huge new structures standing on the hospital property and to realize that within a few weeks they will be fully equipped with most modern facilities known to medical science and commence their services as havens of safety and comfort to the men, women and children of our community of present and future generations.

Another Side

"But—and this is a very significant but—there is another side to this story which is not so consoling. The disturbing fact is that these hospital additions and improvements, which in 1945 were estimated to cost not to exceed $600,000, will upon their completion actually have cost more than three times that amount, with the result that when they are completed the Benedictine Hospital will find itself burdened with a debt of about $600,000 which it certainly cannot hope to carry or pay unless you and I and our neighbors promptly do something about it...

Attend Meeting At Washington

George E. Yerry, Jr., business agent for the Kingston Metal Trades Council, A.F.L., and Jerome Healy of the law firm of Healy and Fusfeld of New York, representative for local shipyard owners, conferred in Washington, D. C., on Thursday with the analysis chief of the Wage Stabilization Board.

Yerry said today the conference was to expedite a wage increase pending for approximately 300 workers in four local shipyards. The proposed increase, Yerry said, is within range of rates established in New York harbor shipyards, but because it is above the 10 per cent allowed automatically, it must go before the Wage Stabilization Board for approval.

Nine out of 10 U. S. Army officers are married, Army records show, and three out of 10 enlisted men.

Reds Receive Ridgway Note

Col. Chiang, head North Korean liaison officer, holds note given him by Lt. Col. Norman D. Edwards (left foreground), Diamond, W. Va., at a meeting in Punmanjom, near Kaesong. The message from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway offering to renew peace talks evidently brought results as Reds said they would resume negotiations immediately—but in Kaescong. Lt. Richard Underwood, interpreter, is at left and third from left (almost hidden) is Warrant Officer Kenneth Wu, also an interpreter. (AP Wirephoto).

Allied Forces Hit

rocket, strafing, bombing and napalm attacks in North Korea.

The Red armor was hit at Hwangju, a town on the main road from Pyongyang to Sariwon. Pyongyang is the Red capital.

UN aircraft have destroyed 13 Communist tanks and damaged 12 others this month—the heaviest toll since last spring. In the month of May 12 Communist tanks were destroyed and 16 damaged.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force mounted 270 combat missions by noon. Fighters and bombers centered their attacks between Sinanju and Haeju in northwest Korea and cut rail lines in more than 30 places.

Pilots reported at least 50 freight cars and one locomotive destroyed or damaged, and 30 Communist troops killed or wounded.

Eight Are Killed

was dug out alive but badly injured.

An early estimate by the Northamptonshire county police had given the number of dead as 20. The later figure was based on an actual count of bodies recovered, including those of six men, a boy and a woman.

Sergeant From Albany

The dead American corporal was accompanied by a U. S. Air Force sergeant who declined to give his name or that of his friend.

The gray haired sergeant, who said he was from Albany, N. Y., had a gash on one cheek. He told reporters:

"The train started to rock and my buddy said 'there is a wheel off.' I stood up and after that I don't remember any more. It happened so quickly."

The sergeant said he and the corporal, on a weekend pass, were bound for London to visit the famous Kew Gardens and Hampton Court castle.

Police Bigwigs

balked at talking, defied Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz in a series of heated exchanges, and ruined McDonald's 20-month crime crusade.

Judge Leibowitz had to throw the mass graft case out of court, but not before sentencing Gross to five years in prison and $15,000 in fines for contempt. This sentence was expected to be appealed.

Gross, his $25,000 bail revoked, went to jail where he awaits sentencing next Thursday in Special Sessions Court on a guilty plea to a 66-count gambling indictment on which he could receive up to 68 years in prison.

Gross has other impending troubles, too. Yesterday, police headquarters sent notices to 35 other cops, against whom charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were filed because they allegedly were involved in dealings with the bookie.

The 35 were ordered to report to the departmental trial room next Wednesday, when a date for their trials will be set.

Gross is scheduled to be called as a witness. If he again balks at talking, he faces more contempt citations and additional jail terms.

Y., manager of the railroad's press bureau for four years. Blosser was with the Associated Press at Cleveland from 1935 to 1943. He had worked on newspapers in his native Dayton, O., and in Sandusky, O., before joining the New York Central, Blosser was public relations man for the Jersey Central Lines. Dugan, with the New York Central for 50 years, has been in charge of the public relations departments since 1939. He will move from Bronxville, N. Y., to Hagerstown, Md., after retirement. He is a native of Springfield, O.

Kingston Banks

port of the hospital, said those leading the drive were thinking of one thing only, "to give the people of Ulster county the best care possible in time of sickness."

Drury's 37th Anniversary

Noting that this year is Monsignor Drury's 37th anniversary in the priesthood, Newkirk remarked "let us bring in $600,000 at the end of the campaign to celebrate it."

County Judge John M. Cashin was introduced as were chairmen of the various divisions: Joseph Honig, industrial; Gerald Martin, commercial; Luther Dusinberre, area chairman; Ernest Steuding, public employes; Joseph Epstein and Allen Baker, clubs and organizations.

Attorney Roger H. Loughran is chairman of special gifts.

Other leaders in the drive present were James H. Betts, Lawrence A. Quilty, Lawrence J. MacAvery, Oscar London, William O'Reilly and E. Frank Flanagan.

Senator Wicks said in part:

"I have accepted the co-chairmanship of the Benedictine Hospital campaign for two reasons. First, I was asked to do so by the hospital management, and second, I believe it is the obligation of every citizen of the community to support and help our voluntary hospitals. By supporting and aiding our voluntary hospitals we can best preserve our free institutions and refute those who are advocates of socialized medicine....

Has Waiting List

"The hospital has an average waiting list of from 10 to 12 patients daily. Patients requiring surgery must wait several days and sometimes as long as a week before a bed is available...

"Years ago hospitals were utilized only in cases of dire emergency. Today, with all of the modern equipment techniques and methods of modern medicine and surgery, hospitals are being increasingly used because patients can be more effectively treated in hospitals and hospitals are being fully utilized in the field of preventive medicine as centers of early diagnosis. These advancements in medical science have made necessary the expansion of both the Benedictine and Kingston hospitals to serve the needs of Ulster county which now has a population of 92,000...

"James A. Dwyer and I are proud of, and thankful for the fine type of citizens who have enlisted in our campaign to raise the funds necessary to complete the building program now under way, in spite of the increasing costs due to the inflation which is a source of concern and worry to all of us."

Judge Kaufman, a non-Catholic, covering the 50-year history of the Benedictine Hospital in the community, said:

"Certainly it must be a source of enormous satisfaction and gratification to all our people to see the huge new structures standing on the hospital property and to realize that within a few weeks they will be fully equipped with most modern facilities known to medical science and commence their services as havens of safety and comfort to the men, women and children of our community of present and future generations.

Another Side

"But—and this is a very significant but—there is another side to this story which is not so consoling. The disturbing fact is that these hospital additions and improvements, which in 1945 were estimated to cost not to exceed $600,000, will upon their completion actually have cost more than three times that amount, with the result that when they are completed the Benedictine Hospital will find itself burdened with a debt of about $600,000 which it certainly cannot hope to carry or pay unless you and I and our neighbors promptly do something about it...

"You are being asked to assist a non-profit organization so that it may in turn help protect you and yours...

"Everyone knows that the Benedictine Sisters who supervise the conduct of our Benedictine Hospital, have consecrated their lives to the relief of human suffering and that they receive for themselves only the bare necessities of life.....Yea, though we walk through the valley of the shadow of death, they comforted us...

"What then are these $600,000 which we are now being asked to contribute in comparison to the whole-hearted devotion and self-sacrificing service which these noble women have bestowed upon us and ours during the past 50 years. We are giving our money. They are giving their lives....

"While the Benedictine Hospital is often called a Catholic institution, in reality that is very far from being an accurate description of it....the service rendered to the people of Ulster county during the last 50 years has never been and is not now restricted to any creed, sect or denomination."

Taft Declares . . .

support program at a reasonable level, just as I also believe they justify a minimum wage."

"Nothing is so likely to start a depression as a disastrous fall in farm prices," he said. "I believe that at some point the government ought to step in to prevent any such dangerous drop in farm prices and to maintain them at some reasonable relation to other prices."

In Minneapolis last night, Taft said the U. S. is "fighting a useless war in Korea" because "the Russian threat is just as great as it was before we undertook this operation."

"We still find ourselves faced with the greatest military threat from foreign sources that we have faced since the days of the American Revolution," Taft told a dinner audience of Carleton College alumni.

The Ohio senator said the Korean war and problems arising from it are the end result of "the continuous sympathy toward communism which inspired American policy."

"The administration's weak policy invited the Communist attack," he said.

Series Tickets Are Sought

Brooklyn, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers had announced that applications for World Series tickets would be distributed to the public at 8 a. m. today. At the stroke of 8, 1,400 ticket seekers were lined up outside of the Dodgers' main offices in downtown Brooklyn. By 9:15, 5,000 applications had been distributed.

Between 1919 and 1939 residential building construction followed regular cycles reaching a peak approximately every 33 months.

Wardens Organize

An organizational meeting of air raid wardens of the Second Ward was held Thursday night at the A. H. Wicks Company firehouse, with Sherwood E. Davis, city defense director, as guest. Leaders from both districts of the ward who were present were Walter Caunitz, Benjamin Storms, C. Robert Cousins, Fred Carpenter and Clifford Van Valkenburgh. A complete list of wardens will be submitted to Thomas Saccoman, chief of air warden services, next week, after which arrangements will be made for photographing and fingerprinting, Saccoman said today.

Freedom Crusade Plans Local Drive Monday, October 8

A one-day Crusade for Freedom campaign to raise funds locally will be held Monday night, October 8, Richard M. Kalish, local chairman, announced this morning following a meeting held this week.

This year the Crusade scroll will be signed by school students throughout the area instead of by adults as last year. Last year signatures of adults were obtained through a house-to-house canvass.

"This one-day campaign is important," Kalish said today in that we are limited in the amount of time available to procure funds to help the cause of the Crusade for Freedom. We hope to reach many who will contribute to the cause."

Campaigners meeting this week agreed that contributions of less than a dollar will be sought this year. "By this method," a spokesman said, "we should be able to solicit from many more individuals than if a higher contribution was sought."

Meeting with the local group this week was Arch C. Wagar, public relations department for General R. W. Barker, regional chairman. Wagar outlined the purposes for coordinating the local committee with the state and national groups.

He also pointed out the high spots in this year's campaign and said that part of the funds raised will be allocated to the Radio for Asia as well as for Radio for Europe purposes.

The next meeting of the local group will be held Thursday, Sept. 27, at 8 p. m. at the city court room. At that time representatives are expected to attend from all local service, civic and fraternal organizations.

Others attending this week's meeting were Henry Singer, Lions Club; Morgan Ryan, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion; Charles Tryce, Knights of Columbus; Meyer Kaplan, 40 & 8 and B'nai B'rith Lodge; Stanley Matthews and Frederic Snyder, Rotary; David Byrne, Kiwanis and the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Church, for the Kingston Ministerial Association.

Senator Says . . .

ment-Securities and Exchange Commission report has just forecast expenditure of $25,000,000,000 this year by business on plant and equipment, an all-time record.

Millikin, Gives Answer

Millikin, ranking Republican on the Finance Committee, jumped up to say:

"We have a $260,000,000,000 public debt, everything is just wonderful."

"We are in a war in Korea. Everything is just fine.

"We are proposing to load more billions on the backs of the taxpayers. Everything is just lovely.

"And this poor devil (Majority Leader McFarland (D-Ariz.) has to sit here day after day and listen to that kind of stuff. I don't see how he stands it."

Still Had Surplus

Senator Lehman (D-Lib.-N. Y.), who favors upping the tax bill, suggested that what the group is trying to do is to see that the national debt does not go higher.

Millikin retorted that the Republican-controlled 80th Congress cut taxes and still the government had a surplus in its two years in power.

"That's the way to run the country," he declared. "Let the President of the United States go to work and reduce expenditures by $4,500,000,000. Then we will balance the budget without breaking the backs of the American taxpayers."

At this point, Vice President Barkley, Senate head, sought to intervene to enforce a rule against one senator making speeches on another senator's time.

Humphrey, however, continued the argument.

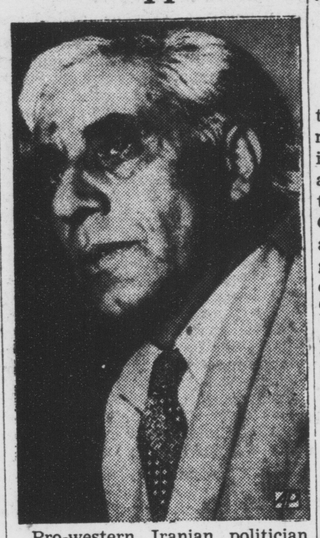

Army Burns Comic Books

Fort Ord, Calif., Sept. 20 (AP)—The army recently burned several hundred copies of its comic book depicting a "sad sack" who lived happily ever after only after re-enlisting in the service. The book is the one Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) denounced as "Socialist propaganda" 10 days ago.

Leads Opposition

Pro-western Iranian politician Seyid Zia Ed-Din Tabatabaie, 62, (above) emerged from retirement in Tehran a week ago to lead the growing opposition to nationalistic Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and his anti-British oil policy. The new candidate who served as premier for three months after leading a coup d'etat 30 years ago, launched his fight to depose Mossadegh by reopening headquarters of his dormant "National Will" party.

School Will Open At Night Sept. 24

Night sessions of the Moran-Spencerian School of Business will be conducted on Mondays and Thursdays beginning Monday, September 24. Sessions will be from 7 until 9 p. m., and the school office will open at 6:30 o'clock.

Provisions will be made for beginning and advanced students. The courses offered will range from short, intensive units in bookkeeping, typewriting, clerical practice, social security and income tax procedure, to the longer shorthand-secretarial and accounting courses.

Joseph J. Morgan, principal of the school, said today that the main purpose of these night sessions is to provide additional trained business personnel so urgently needed.

"Since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea, there has been a greatly increased demand for people trained in secretarial and accounting branches," Morgan said. "More and more new office workers are needed in this area to replace men called into military service and to fill positions created in industry and in government service as a direct result of the emergency."

Prospective students who have not made prior arrangements may register at the Moran-Spencerian School on Monday evening. Advance notice may be given the school by telephoning 178.

Keresman Assails

to the delegates "off the record" at a luncheon, Carton said. Monaghan has forbidden city police to join a union. Quill is campaigning to bring all police in the state under the TWU.

Keresman, in attacking unionization attempts, said there had been "wholesale" resignations from police departments all over the state. He said they indicated "lowered morale."

He contended that a majority of "the long-experienced policemen are discouraged with the pay and working conditions."

Bills providing a 40-hour week for policemen were passed in the Assembly in 1950 and 1951 but died in Senate Committee.

Engage in Rock Fight

Berlin, Sept. 21 (AP)—West Berliners, engaged in a rock fight with Communist East Berlin residents along the sector border, were dispersed last night by Red police firing warning shots in the air. An estimated 2,000 persons were reported involved in the melee. The clash occurred in a working class district where numerous fights between East and West residents have broken out recently.

All persons are competent to make a will except idiots, persons of unsound mind and infants.

Society to Aid Animals, Asks Help of Pet Owners

The Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had its greatest attendance in the history of the organization at a meeting Thursday night at the court house. Mrs. Herbert Cutler, president, presided. Thomas Plunket, secretary of the organization, announced the receipt of a check from an anonymous donor and that a contract had been signed for the purchase of a new half-ton panel truck which will be equipped as an animal ambulance, with movable steel cages and possibly a compartment where badly injured animals may be put to sleep on the spot.

Announcement was also made that the directors of the Ulster County SPCA have been inspecting a piece of property which may be acquired for use as an animal shelter. Plans are, however, not yet definite and the directors will meet in a few days to go further into the matter.

The Ulster County SPCA with an ambulance already purchased and with an animal shelter within sight, will be one of the finest in the country for a community of this size.

Plan Animal Cemetery

Once the shelter has been acquired, the next step planned by the organization will be the establishment of an animal cemetery in the rear where pets may be assured of a pleasant, quiet burial ground.

A fund has been started by the organization for the shelter, and every member present at the meeting offered to assist with the program of extended membership and of obtaining subscriptions to the fund. Ways and means were discussed for raising funds for the maintenance and operation of the ambulance and shelter.

According to Ed Bauman of the SPCA, 93,000 persons reside in Ulster county, and probably half of them have pets. "If only each one of these pet owners would send as little as $1 apiece, the worries of the organization would be greatly lessened," he said.

Wilson to Steel Men: 'Get That Damn Scrap!'

Washington, Sept. 11 (U.P.)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said today the steel industry must have more scrap immediately to expand its output and meet defense production goals.

"Get out and get that damn scrap," he roared, in a table-pounding speech before some 600 members of industry and civic groups participating in a nation-wide drive to step up collections of scrap iron and steel.

The Only Solution

Wilson said he was shocked recently to hear steel industry leaders say the scrap shortage and other problems may actually cause a decline in steel output in the first part of 1952.

"Steel is king, and scrap is crown prince," in the defense production drive, he said. "Dig it up. It's there. Get it moving from a hundred thousand places. Use ways you never used before. This is a must if we are going to do the job of building our might in time."

YOU CAN HELP AND PROFIT!
We're making every possible effort to meet Defense Mobilizer Wilson's challenge.
Carloads of iron and steel scrap are shipped directly to the steel mills as soon as enough scrap has been accumulated in our yards.
We need YOUR help to successfully answer mobilizer Wilson's plea.

Freedom Crusade Plans Local Drive Monday, October 8

A one-day Crusade for Freedom campaign to raise funds locally will be held Monday night, October 8, Richard M. Kalish, local chairman, announced this morning following a meeting held this week.

This year the Crusade scroll will be signed by school students throughout the area instead of by adults as last year. Last year signatures of adults were obtained through a house-to-house canvass.

"This one-day campaign is important," Kalish said today in that we are limited in the amount of time available to procure funds to help the cause of the Crusade for Freedom. We hope to reach many who will contribute to the cause."

Campaigners meeting this week agreed that contributions of less than a dollar will be sought this year. "By this method," a spokesman said, "we should be able to solicit from many more individuals than if a higher contribution was sought."

Meeting with the local group this week was Arch C. Wagar, public relations department for General R. W. Barker, regional chairman. Wagar outlined the purposes for coordinating the local committee with the state and national groups.

He also pointed out the high spots in this year's campaign and said that part of the funds raised will be allocated to the Radio for Asia as well as for Radio for Europe purposes.

The next meeting of the local group will be held Thursday, Sept. 27, at 8 p. m. at the city court room. At that time representatives are expected to attend from all local service, civic and fraternal organizations.

Others attending this week's meeting were Henry Singer, Lions Club; Morgan Ryan, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion; Charles Tryce, Knights of Columbus; Meyer Kaplan, 40 & 8 and B'nai B'rith Lodge; Stanley Matthews and Frederic Snyder, Rotary; David Byrne, Kiwanis and the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Church, for the Kingston Ministerial Association.

Senator Says . . .

ment-Securities and Exchange Commission report has just forecast expenditure of $25,000,000,000 this year by business on plant and equipment, an all-time record.

Millikin, Gives Answer

Millikin, ranking Republican on the Finance Committee, jumped up to say:

"We have a $260,000,000,000 public debt, everything is just wonderful."

"We are in a war in Korea. Everything is just fine.

"We are proposing to load more billions on the backs of the taxpayers. Everything is just lovely.

"And this poor devil (Majority Leader McFarland (D-Ariz.) has to sit here day after day and listen to that kind of stuff. I don't see how he stands it."

Still Had Surplus

Senator Lehman (D-Lib.-N. Y.), who favors upping the tax bill, suggested that what the group is trying to do is to see that the national debt does not go higher.

Millikin retorted that the Republican-controlled 80th Congress cut taxes and still the government had a surplus in its two years in power.

"That's the way to run the country," he declared. "Let the President of the United States go to work and reduce expenditures by $4,500,000,000. Then we will balance the budget without breaking the backs of the American taxpayers."

At this point, Vice President Barkley, Senate head, sought to intervene to enforce a rule against one senator making speeches on another senator's time.

Humphrey, however, continued the argument.

Army Burns Comic Books

Fort Ord, Calif., Sept. 20 (AP)—The army recently burned several hundred copies of its comic book depicting a "sad sack" who lived happily ever after only after re-enlisting in the service. The book is the one Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) denounced as "Socialist propaganda" 10 days ago.

Leads Opposition

Pro-western Iranian politician Seyid Zia Ed-Din Tabatabaie, 62, (above) emerged from retirement in Tehran a week ago to lead the growing opposition to nationalistic Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and his anti-British oil policy. The new candidate who served as premier for three months after leading a coup d'etat 30 years ago, launched his fight to depose Mossadegh by reopening headquarters of his dormant "National Will" party.

School Will Open At Night Sept. 24

Night sessions of the Moran-Spencerian School of Business will be conducted on Mondays and Thursdays beginning Monday, September 24. Sessions will be from 7 until 9 p. m., and the school office will open at 6:30 o'clock.

Provisions will be made for beginning and advanced students. The courses offered will range from short, intensive units in bookkeeping, typewriting, clerical practice, social security and income tax procedure, to the longer shorthand-secretarial and accounting courses.

Joseph J. Morgan, principal of the school, said today that the main purpose of these night sessions is to provide additional trained business personnel so urgently needed.

"Since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea, there has been a greatly increased demand for people trained in secretarial and accounting branches," Morgan said. "More and more new office workers are needed in this area to replace men called into military service and to fill positions created in industry and in government service as a direct result of the emergency."

Prospective students who have not made prior arrangements may register at the Moran-Spencerian School on Monday evening. Advance notice may be given the school by telephoning 178.

Keresman Assails

to the delegates "off the record" at a luncheon, Carton said. Monaghan has forbidden city police to join a union. Quill is campaigning to bring all police in the state under the TWU.

Keresman, in attacking unionization attempts, said there had been "wholesale" resignations from police departments all over the state. He said they indicated "lowered morale."

He contended that a majority of "the long-experienced policemen are discouraged with the pay and working conditions."

Bills providing a 40-hour week for policemen were passed in the Assembly in 1950 and 1951 but died in Senate Committee.

Engage in Rock Fight

Berlin, Sept. 21 (AP)—West Berliners, engaged in a rock fight with Communist East Berlin residents along the sector border, were dispersed last night by Red police firing warning shots in the air. An estimated 2,000 persons were reported involved in the melee. The clash occurred in a working class district where numerous fights between East and West residents have broken out recently.

All persons are competent to make a will except idiots, persons of unsound mind and infants.

Society to Aid Animals, Asks Help of Pet Owners

The Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had its greatest attendance in the history of the organization at a meeting Thursday night at the court house. Mrs. Herbert Cutler, president, presided. Thomas Plunket, secretary of the organization, announced the receipt of a check from an anonymous donor and that a contract had been signed for the purchase of a new half-ton panel truck which will be equipped as an animal ambulance, with movable steel cages and possibly a compartment where badly injured animals may be put to sleep on the spot.

Announcement was also made that the directors of the Ulster County SPCA have been inspecting a piece of property which may be acquired for use as an animal shelter. Plans are, however, not yet definite and the directors will meet in a few days to go further into the matter.

The Ulster County SPCA with an ambulance already purchased and with an animal shelter within sight, will be one of the finest in the country for a community of this size.

Plan Animal Cemetery

Once the shelter has been acquired, the next step planned by the organization will be the establishment of an animal cemetery in the rear where pets may be assured of a pleasant, quiet burial ground.

A fund has been started by the organization for the shelter, and every member present at the meeting offered to assist with the program of extended membership and of obtaining subscriptions to the fund. Ways and means were discussed for raising funds for the maintenance and operation of the ambulance and shelter.

According to Ed Bauman of the SPCA, 93,000 persons reside in Ulster county, and probably half of them have pets. "If only each one of these pet owners would send as little as $1 apiece, the worries of the organization would be greatly lessened," he said.

A one-day Crusade for Freedom campaign to raise funds locally will be held Monday night, October 8, Richard M. Kalish, local chairman, announced this morning following a meeting held this week.

Leads Opposition

Pro-western Iranian politician Seyid Zia Ed-Din Tabatabaie, 62, (above) emerged from retirement in Tehran a week ago to lead the growing opposition to nationalistic Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and his anti-British oil policy. The new candidate who served as premier for three months after leading a coup d'etat 30 years ago, launched his fight to depose Mossadegh by reopening headquarters of his dormant "National Will" party.

School Will Open At Night Sept. 24

Night sessions of the Moran-Spencerian School of Business will be conducted on Mondays and Thursdays beginning Monday, September 24. Sessions will be from 7 until 9 p. m., and the school office will open at 6:30 o'clock.

Provisions will be made for beginning and advanced students. The courses offered will range from short, intensive units in bookkeeping, typewriting, clerical practice, social security and income tax procedure, to the longer shorthand-secretarial and accounting courses.

Joseph J. Morgan, principal of the school, said today that the main purpose of these night sessions is to provide additional trained business personnel so urgently needed.

"Since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea, there has been a greatly increased demand for people trained in secretarial and accounting branches," Morgan said. "More and more new office workers are needed in this area to replace men called into military service and to fill positions created in industry and in government service as a direct result of the emergency."

Prospective students who have not made prior arrangements may register at the Moran-Spencerian School on Monday evening. Advance notice may be given the school by telephoning 178.

Keresman Assails

to the delegates "off the record" at a luncheon, Carton said. Monaghan has forbidden city police to join a union. Quill is campaigning to bring all police in the state under the TWU.

Keresman, in attacking unionization attempts, said there had been "wholesale" resignations from police departments all over the state. He said they indicated "lowered morale."

He contended that a majority of "the long-experienced policemen are discouraged with the pay and working conditions."

Bills providing a 40-hour week for policemen were passed in the Assembly in 1950 and 1951 but died in Senate Committee.

Engage in Rock Fight

Berlin, Sept. 21 (AP)—West Berliners, engaged in a rock fight with Communist East Berlin residents along the sector border, were dispersed last night by Red police firing warning shots in the air. An estimated 2,000 persons were reported involved in the melee. The clash occurred in a working class district where numerous fights between East and West residents have broken out recently.

All persons are competent to make a will except idiots, persons of unsound mind and infants.

Society to Aid Animals, Asks Help of Pet Owners

The Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had its greatest attendance in the history of the organization at a meeting Thursday night at the court house. Mrs. Herbert Cutler, president, presided. Thomas Plunket, secretary of the organization, announced the receipt of a check from an anonymous donor and that a contract had been signed for the purchase of a new half-ton panel truck which will be equipped as an animal ambulance, with movable steel cages and possibly a compartment where badly injured animals may be put to sleep on the spot.

Announcement was also made that the directors of the Ulster County SPCA have been inspecting a piece of property which may be acquired for use as an animal shelter. Plans are, however, not yet definite and the directors will meet in a few days to go further into the matter.

The Ulster County SPCA with an ambulance already purchased and with an animal shelter within sight, will be one of the finest in the country for a community of this size.

Plan Animal Cemetery

Once the shelter has been acquired, the next step planned by the organization will be the establishment of an animal cemetery in the rear where pets may be assured of a pleasant, quiet burial ground.

A fund has been started by the organization for the shelter, and every member present at the meeting offered to assist with the program of extended membership and of obtaining subscriptions to the fund. Ways and means were discussed for raising funds for the maintenance and operation of the ambulance and shelter.

According to Ed Bauman of the SPCA, 93,000 persons reside in Ulster county, and probably half of them have pets. "If only each one of these pet owners would send as little as $1 apiece, the worries of the organization would be greatly lessened," he said.

Wilson to Steel Men: 'Get That Damn Scrap!'

Washington, Sept. 11 (U.P.)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson said today the steel industry must have more scrap immediately to expand its output and meet defense production goals.

"Get out and get that damn scrap," he roared, in a table-pounding speech before some 600 members of industry and civic groups participating in a nation-wide drive to step up collections of scrap iron and steel.

The Only Solution

Wilson said he was shocked recently to hear steel industry leaders say the scrap shortage and other problems may actually cause a decline in steel output in the first part of 1952.

"Steel is king, and scrap is crown prince," in the defense production drive, he said. "Dig it up. It's there. Get it moving from a hundred thousand places. Use ways you never used before. This is a must if we are going to do the job of building our might in time."

YOU CAN HELP AND PROFIT!
We're making every possible effort to meet Defense Mobilizer Wilson's challenge.
Carloads of iron and steel scrap are shipped directly to the steel mills as soon as enough scrap has been accumulated in our yards.
